THE TRANSITION

As the solar complex may be considered by some to be a primary source of academic spirit, so it is possible to enthrone the academic complex as inspiration for the cogent. Like so many growing, grasping, searching tendrils, inquisitive minds stretch questioningly out into their environment to glean what is theirs, the basic truths of knowledge. And as this environment is prone to change, so follows the individual; both may run amuck with mobility and innovation and upheaval. Growth, however, needs both direction and purpose; a transition must have a cause. At UQLA, both student and university have a cause, and both are in transition. In but a few short years, the last of today will be given up to tomorrow; the past may be forgotten as well as gone. In time, a year is little, but as we hold its measure, we will find its meaning.

UNI-PREP

Ill-prepared for the social and academic demands of a major collegiate campus, incoming freshmen must often assume the task of introducing themselves. In order that these individuals might be assisted, the Uni-Prep program came into being. For 1963, co-operation between Chairman Richard Hoffman and Dean of Men Adolph Brugger has resulted in a swift, but complete introduction to the aspects of collegiate activity. Included in the blueprints were a warm welcome speech from Chancellor Murphy, a few informal breakfasts with selected campus leaders, and small information sessions providing tips on procedures for enrollment and registration, all accompanied by subtle recruiting from Rally Comm and Daily Bruin. Many regarded get-acquainted dances and their resultant interpersonal contacts as the most rewarding factors during this period.

REGISTRATION?

Their arrival preceding even the sun, the thousands of individuals who must begin the frightful task of registration approach the campus in their initial assault on the sturdy administrative enigma. Unaccustomed as they are to a pre-dawn arousal of their intellect, the masses relish the opportunity to join the long queues of security and conformity which are to make them a unity. Condescension soon becomes contempt, however, as the swarms slowly awaken to their plight; a chill of discontent accompanies the glare of the sunlight as a multiplied simplicity becomes confusion, and delay assumes unknown magnitude. Not until the limits of patience are long extended and surpassed does a sudden realization of completion find the masses, and, as if the catalyst of individualism, again sends them in their divergent directions.

SORORITY RUSH

While most of UCLA entertains anything but a formal attitude, sorority rush still persists in its rigid, stilted style. It is all the more to the credit of the girls that rush and its pressures often serve as the groundwork for friendship; a moment of tense conversation must often suffice, but mistakes in judgment are surprisingly few at this time.

FRATERNITY RUSH

Under the baleful eye of dutiful officials fraternity rushing provides an opportunity for a thorough examination of men and boys under a variety of conditions. The test for maturity or its embryo is the primary consideration, but fraternities must depend on individuality and leadership potential as the indication of a man's true measure.

PLEDGE PRESENTS

Each Fall the male segment of the university takes advantage of Sorority Presents to review the semester's latest arrivals. In spite of the overdone greetings and the tired feet, the girls relish their chance to display their pride and expound on the virtues of sisterhood, while they, in their own way, have their opportunity to examine the other sex. Be the final evaluations good or bad; cordiality, sociability and festivity are the prevailing moods.

PRE-SEASON WARMUP

It is unfortunate that all rallies cannot be as successful as the spirit assemblage preceding UCLA's victory over the Nation's Number One Team, Ohio State. Out to greet and meet the UCLA squad and Coach Bill Barnes was a vocal group of rooters led by all the proper people. While Student Body President Gerry Corrigan and Yell Leader Stu Daniels did their antics, the Mar-Kets provided proper mood music.

Local collegiate fashions were strikingly compared with Japan's formal habiliments.

The "Coop Night" programs sported a variety of musical arrangements.

INTERNATIONAL WEEK

Under the auspices of International Students Association, the annual celebration of International Week is always a multicolored affair. Though most students are cognizant of a limited international concept, few are perceptive enough to assimilate the parts into the whole; it is toward this goal that International Week is directed. General Chairman Sal DiMarco took charge of administrative duties, while various and sundry committees planned and coordinated the events. Activities of the 1963 festivities were perhaps better formulated and publicized than ever before, as indicated by the inclusion of not only obvious illustrations of international differentiation in language and dress, but also creation of an imaginative event schedule based on the intimate and recondite features exhibited in folk songs, culinary creations, and foreign policy of all nations.

The "New Christy Minstrels" vocalized the traditional wit of American folk songs.

The International Auto Show attracted many.

The All-U Rock and Roller was perhaps more familiar.

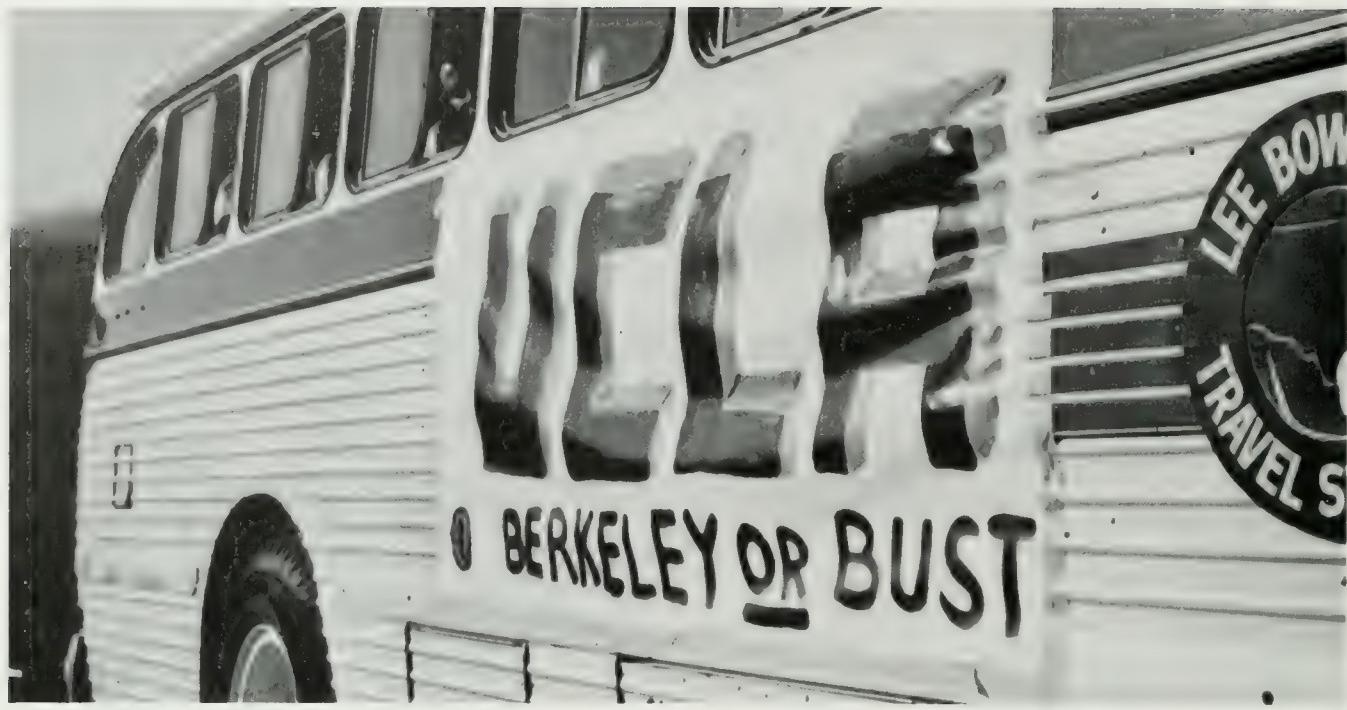

Cultural expositions made close examination easy.

Some sophisticated, some raucous and unbridled, the folk dancing of the world is the epitome of variation. Regarded as being illustrative of indigenous culture, the musical programs of International Week were supplemented in their meaning by a multitude of informative displays and exhibits from a total of 50 countries.

Student practitioners brought foreign song and dance to exuberant life in the Festival of Nations.

BERKELEY OR BUST

Under SLC organization, rooter's busses were transportation for multitudinous Berkeley bound Bruins. Unencumbered by the burden of driving responsibility, several took advantage of short breakdowns to gulp an adequate supply of sustaining refreshments.

TRAUMATIC TRIP NORTH

Though beds were in short supply, UC hospitality was not, and Berkeley's own Student Union filled a void for those who were homesick. Encouraged by the All-U Weekend atmosphere, some carried festivities beyond the weekend.

ALL-U ZOO

The sedentary trip northward left many Bruins a little tired, but not so dulled that they were unprepared to enjoy a night on the town. For the majority, a day of sightseeing was climaxed by just such a night. Early risers were shocked to see friends doing the reverse.

BRUINS BASH BABY BEARS

Bruin rooters, some not so fresh after an evening of pre-game revelry in San Francisco, stumbled from their beds to learn whether UCLA's gridiron talents were actual or imaginary. The crowds were not displeased, as Kermit Alexander flashed one of his patented one-man attacks by scoring 4 touchdowns.

GEORGE CHRISTOPHER, Mayor of San Francisco.

CULTURE COLLECTED

RAY BRADBURY, popular author of science fiction.

JAMES ROOSEVELT, United States Representative from Los Angeles vicinity.

RICHARD RICHARDS, California State Senator.

BARRY GOLDWATER, conservative Senator from Arizona.

ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY

BRUINS ATTEMPT A BLAST OFF

BEAUTY HAS ITS DAY

SPIRIT SPARK

STREET STOMP

Homecoming Chairman ROGER VENABLES quipped eloquently in a South African jargon.

CREPE CONSTRUCTIONS

CLASSIC CARAVAN OF COLOR

Sigma Delta Tau and Delta Sigma Phi cooperated to effect production of the crepe paper creation judged winner of coveted Sweepstakes honors.

For building spirit, nothing can top a parade; such is the theory of Homecoming. With living groups giving their time and labor, and a few select girls lending their beauty to the pageantry, only a little planning and forethought are needed to execute such an event. Float entries were themed to "Bruin Blastoff," and with the destruction of USAFA in mind, events proceeded toward the anticipated gridiron encounter.

BLAST OFF BLASTED

Cheers of Homecoming fell to irresolute squeaks as the Air Force Falcons put the damper on party spirits. In spite of backfield wizardry by Kermit Alexander, the agile Falcon line punched hole after hole in UCLA's vaunted forward wall, and a sluggish Bruin squad found itself on the short end of a 17-11 count. A last minute bid for victory fell short, as UCLA's new T-tactics made give-away plays with error-filled disorganization.

MEN'S-GREEK WEEK

The rugged competition of pie-eating drew champion eaters from all corners of the campus.

ARLENE DUGA held the trophy for Belle of the Year.

After numerous preliminary heats, the Soapbox Derby finals determined Phi Delta Theta winners over Sigma Nu.

Uni-Camp receives the benefits from annual Pledge Auctions.

Athletic Day is rough, but decidedly humorous.

RICHARD II

Shakespeare's dramatic interpretation of the historical downfall of Richard II was one of the plays brought to life by the UCLA TA Department. Director was H. Goodman, and the set designer was C. R. Lown Jr.

YOU NEVER CAN TELL

"You Never Can Tell" brought out a story of family conflict in an 18th century setting. Charles J. Rowen Jr. was responsible for the directing.

POCATAN

An original play by student writers, "Pocatan" was directed by Assistant Professor Frank Sturken, and had a cast consisting entirely of students.

ONE ACT PLAYS

PUDDIN' TAME

Under the experienced direction of Mel Helstein, a raucous production of "Puddin' Tame" set both stage crew and audience into uncontrollable laughter. Sets were designed by TA department artist Jim Agazzi.

NUMBER ONE NAILS THE BRUINS

BARNES confidently appraises his team despite being heavy underdogs to number one SC.

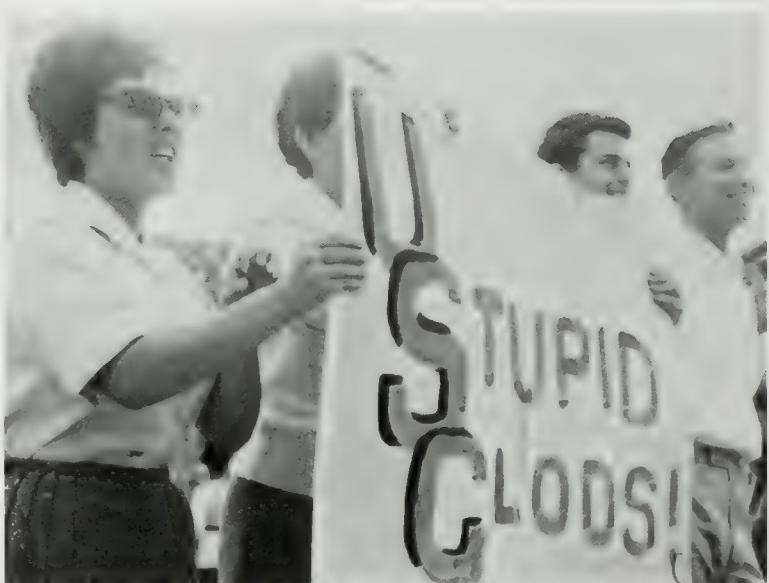

Quarterback CARL JONES deftly avoids tackler only to find himself hemmed in by advancing Trojans.

Inexplicably, the Bruin Band expresses varied emotions at a referee's call.

Traditionally, odds and favorites have meant little in the classic 32 year old feud between UCLA and SC. Even though favoring number one ranked USC by 14 big points, sports prognosticators admitted the possibility of an upset. And that was how it looked at halftime as the Bruins, sporting a new defense, held a 3-0 lead. However, Trojans rallied late in the game to win 14-3.

BERNSTEIN led the Trojan band.

MANNE syncopated jazz drum solos.

SHORTY ROGER'S trumpet tooted at halftime.

The NELSEN to BEDSOLE combination gave added impetus to an already potent Trojan offense.

Promiscuous STU DANIELS was the man at the microphone in both rain and shine, calling for the extra something not always there.

Shapely legs and effervescent spirit were the trademarks of song girl CORKY GELFAN, a leader who obviously enjoyed the exercise.

Year after year, UCLA's spirit sparkers set out to prove that spirit on the campus should not be labeled with a question mark; some succeed while others do not. Sometimes neglecting administrative censorship of expression, contemporary performers often follow a historical tradition of garnering attention through questionable remarks. Selected as voice of UCLA for the 1963 season, Stu "The Mouth" Daniels produced a noisy mixture of the rasty, the ribald, and the raucous, flanked by more esthetic offerings rendered mobile by Corky Gelfan's bevy of beauties.

BARBARA BUTLER

Arthur Miller's Pulitzer Prize winning drama "Death of A Salesman" packed Royce Hall in September with the TV veteran Herschel Bernardi in the title role. Under the auspices of Freeway Circuit Inc., talented director Corey Allen guided the troupe in an outstanding performance. Hailed by critics as a classic, the Miller play depicts the financial and emotional breakdown of Willy Loman and his family. Starring in the supporting roles were Claudia Bryar (Linda), John Shaner (Happy), and Tony Carbone (Biff), while Stephan Kane, Leonard Yorn, and Paul Sorenson completed the talented cast of the production.

DEATH OF A SALESMAN

MC was KMPC's bearded GARY OWENS.

THE FOUR PREPS

With two of their team returning to their alma mater, the versatile Four Preps set up recording gadgets to make their UCLA effort a permanent part of musical posterity. Including a maximum of humor and satire in their "collegiate" attempt, the songsters effectively evoked peals of laughter from the audience, a result which undoubtedly pleased their recording technicians.

PETER NERO

Popular pianist Peter Nero brought his act to a sellout crowd in the Grand Ballroom, fresh from the Hollywood Bowl. Famed for his solo rendition of Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue, the talented Nero has appeared in such nightspots as Basin Street East and the Embers, having also performed for Ed Sullivan. Away from stage jobs, Nero is an inventor of electrical gadgets.

CHANCELLOR FRANKLIN MURPHY

Chancellor Murphy utilized his own experience in briefing Stanley Mosk on the procedures.

ASUCLA STUDENT GOVERNMENT

The newest addition to activities, the "SU" offers something of a cultural environment for social student leaders.

In contrast and complement to administrative organizations, ASUCLA is provided with the constitutional opportunity for determining, considering, and applying their own decisions and measures with all the proper means. Though not always effective to the optimum, student leadership positions offer an occasion to reap as well as sow, with increasing control of all student affairs and expanding communication in every channel. As in any representative body, however, results come only from the individual.

STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT

The first foreign student to achieve ASUCLA's highest post, Irish citizen Gerry Corrigan combines the personality of the proverbial leprechaun with the character of Saint Patrick. Not forceful or demanding, Gerry relies on the power of subtle, yet astute politicking. Corrigan's potency is one of both position and personage, factors which make him at once defensive and predicative, while still permitting the existence of a sapient sincerity in his personality. Adequately supplied with inherent ability, governmental policies of Corrigan remain both strong and decisive, influential and challenging; such qualities are necessary in light of the missives of protest and request which come to SLC. Among the highlights of the year were heated and prolonged discussions on Kelp conduct and the essence of campus government. Gerry maintains that responsibility and its always attendant woes are but a part of presidential headaches, for as precedent decrees, it is the chief ASUCLA official who also serves as host of the University, thus centering in the public eye as the representative who must accept abuse and criticism for the whole of the student body. The problem then, for Gerry as well his predecessors, has been one of serving on SLC, identifying the campus to querulous and uninformed elements, and maintaining administrative rapport, while still preserving his individuality. Gerry has solved the problem.

STUDENT BODY VICE PRESIDENT

Sherry Kaufmann is not an individual prone to wither and die under the political over-shadowing which often is the prominent feature of the vice-presidential office. Rather, Sherry has assumed control of her political environment, regarding it as neither limiting nor prohibitive, but opportunistic, and even advantageous. As Chairman of the Publications Board, interim speaker of SLC, and a more than attractive hostess for the campus, Sherry has not been content to complete and/or satisfy; she has created, stimulated, and produced, reading between the lines where necessary. Having avoided the threat of adsorption by adsorbing the threat, Sherry has gained from, in addition to contributing to the university gamut of activities, which range from student morals to national politics. From her capacity on Publications Board, Sherry found the impetus for her criticism of Daily Bruin policy, an imputation which resulted not only in improvement of campus publications, but also in clarification of abilities and responsibilities of student government. It is to her credit that her polemics have not lost, but won friends.

STUDENT LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL

From faculty, administration, and scholastic populations arise the provocations of polemics and deliberation which must culminate in a formal policy agreement. Sometimes stymied by administrative decree, the Student Legislative Council is faced with the difficult task of pleasing everybody. Though acknowledged leader Gerry Corrigan was prominent in both position and ability, each and every member was statesman of a unique university segment. The result of this amalgamation was another argumentative but progressively successful session for the SLC.

MAGGIE ALEXANDER filled the challenging position of LDWR.

BARNEY ATKINSON, Dean of Students, added a stabilizing influence.

Cal-weekend rooter buses were a plan of UDMR GEORGE BAMMER.

Soph. Prexy H. BILLINGSLY thoughtfully presented sophomore ideas.

JUDY BURNS brought experience in leadership to her UDWR position.

Three year veteran J. CHALEFF served his term as a verbose UDMR.

President GERRY CORRIGAN garnered both success and respect.

"Better commuter parking" pleaded baffled LDMR JEFF DONFIELD.

A balanced Speaker Program was the goal of UDMR PHIL FRIEDMAN.

Frosh President BOB GLASSER mixed new ideas with abundant energy.

PATTI GREENE, LDWR, added unique dimensions to her SLC post.

DR. WARREN HALL attended meetings as faculty representative.

Initiation of new proposals came from UDMR MACDONALD JACKSON.

STEVE MOOSER returned to SLC as Senior Class President.

Veep SHERRY KAUFMANN had a penchant for accurate English usage.

For Secretary CATHY PRIMM well-turned handwriting proved a boon.

NANCY ROCKOFF represented upper division women students on council.

Giving advice to the council members was Alumnus ERNIE WOLFE.

ASSOCIATED MEN STUDENTS

By the "rule of thumb" that the individual must remain voiceless against the masses, it is rather paradoxical that our system chooses the individual to represent the group. AMS President Dan Drown has proved one of the exceptions which evidences the reasoning behind this situation; it has been his leadership which has not only maintained the value of representation, but also advanced the goals and purposes of AMS. In addition to traditional Men's-Greek Week, Drown has provided the campus with an influx of surfing movies, a record-setting blood drive program, organizational changes in Spring Sing. Dad's night remains high in popularity with fathers who question distribution of their funds, and seek to examine the activities of their offspring.

Men's-Greek Week was highlighted by sterling individual performances in demanding competition.

Campus males found the task of serenading Chancellor Murphy enhanced by the vociferous presence of AWS.

Taking a second place to no one in capability, AMS President DAN DROWN spearheaded the Water Polo squad, sat on SLC, and still produced a high GPA.

ASSOCIATED WOMEN STUDENTS

The significance of UCLA's female segment lies in its organization into a functional body; following a precedent, the capabilities of President Liz Lambirth have generated new stability for the group, and given a greater sense of accomplishment to traditional tasks. Under AWS guidance, coeds are provided with proper orientation in fashion and conduct, and valuable tips in preparation for Panhellenic rush. Not always bound by selfish motivations, AWS service is directed to such institutions as the Marion Davies Ward of the Medical center, in addition to Uni-Camp and Uni-Prep. Spontaneity notwithstanding, traditional activities include a recognition dinner for outstanding women at UCLA, and an appreciation brunch for housemothers.

AWS interest in fashion provides a convenient means of introducing current collegiate style under the scrutiny of experienced judges.

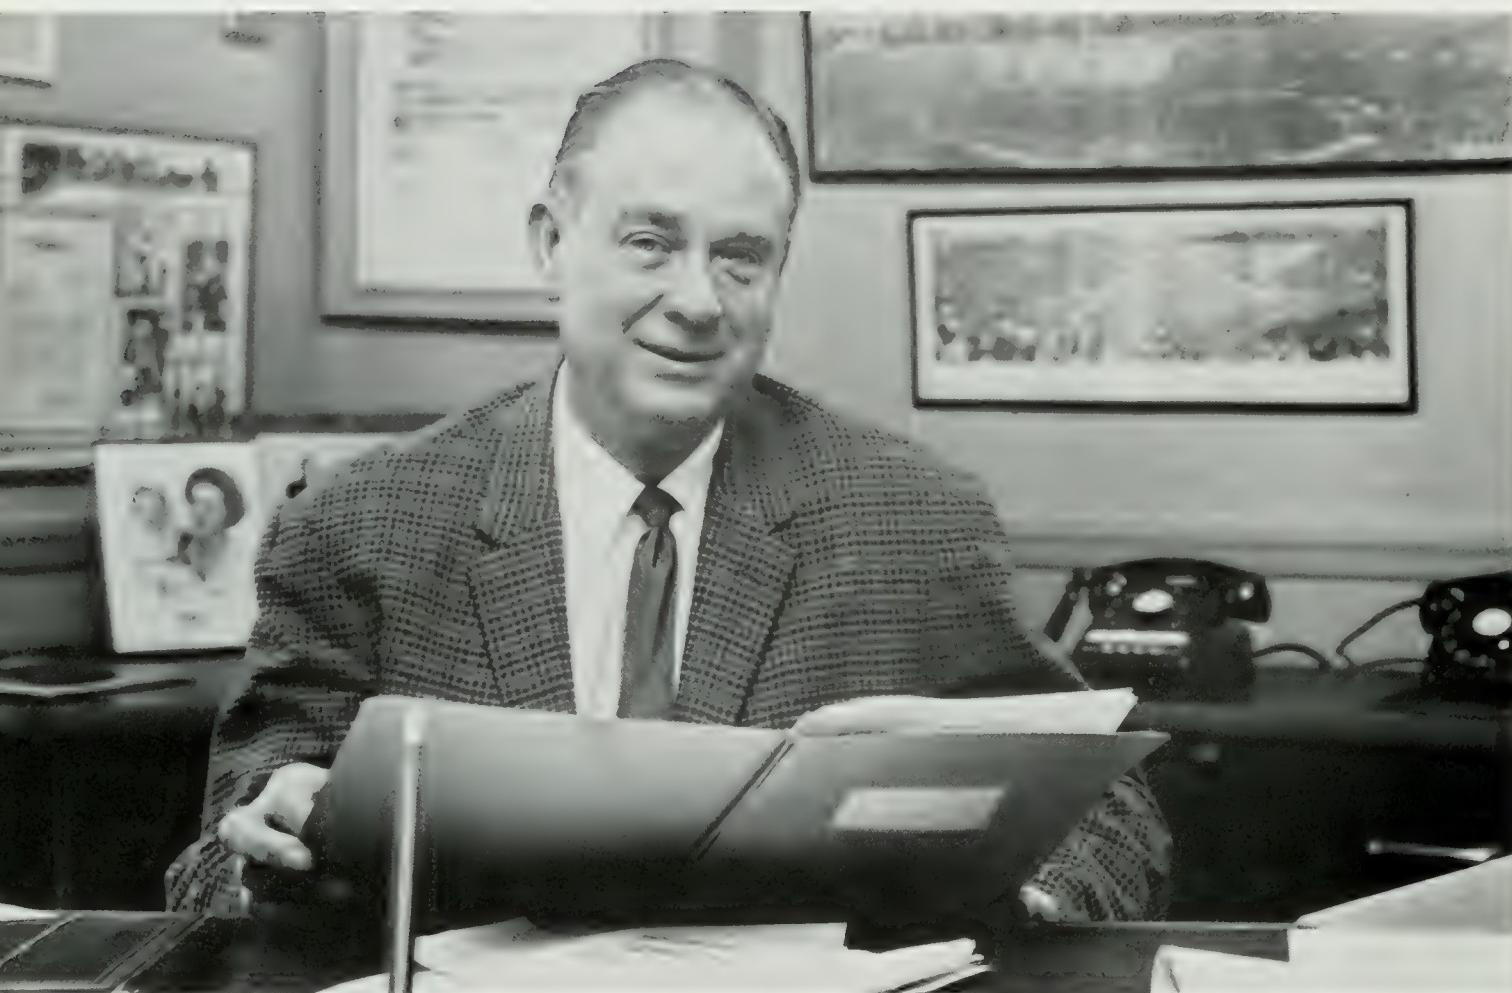

Chancellor Franklin Murphy found his own methods for introducing Christmas spirit and holiday cheer to the combined forces of male and female carolers.

President LIZ LAMBIRTH, virtually thwarted by the sundry complications of red tape, nevertheless maintained her high standards through individual effort.

ASUCLA EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

During his 43 year career at UCLA, WILLIAM C. ACKERMAN has played a distinguished role in making UCLA a great university. First as a student, then as coach, instructor, and alumni representative, Mr. Ackerman has acquired a thorough knowledge of UCLA enabling him to provide sound advice and capable supervision to generations of student leaders. Mr. Ackerman, or as he is oftentimes called "Mr. UCLA," has not succumbed to the jaded pessimism which is bred by long and intimate contact with any organization, but still retains the vital quality of optimism and vigor with which he was imbued as a freshman at UCLA. Desirous of preserving his excellent relationship with students, Mr. Ackerman maintains a constant interest and enthusiasm in all student activities.

DIRECTOR OF PUBLICATIONS

Amiable and genial even in the face of missed deadlines and scurrilous copy, HARRY MORRIS guided the student production of Southern Campus, Satyr, Westwind, and even the Daily Bruin.

ASUCLA SUPERVISORS

With the increasing deluge of students, the task of managing the Student Union and its entertainment facilities has increased geometrically. While keeping in mind the needs and desires of students, supervisors DON SAWYER, KARIN PIPER, and NORM PADGETT have met this challenge by providing coordinated and efficient direction of ASUCLA operations.

The tempting task of computing available quantities of ASUCLA cash belongs to CLYDE EDWARDS.

ASUCLA OFFICIALS

Student stomachs are the province of Food Services Manager CLINT ELLIOT.

Receiving Manager AL GOODMAN closely checks the influx of physical and bureaucratic essentials.

From his headquarters in Kerckhoff Hall, ROYCE HAMILTON directs very vital ASUCLA Business Services.

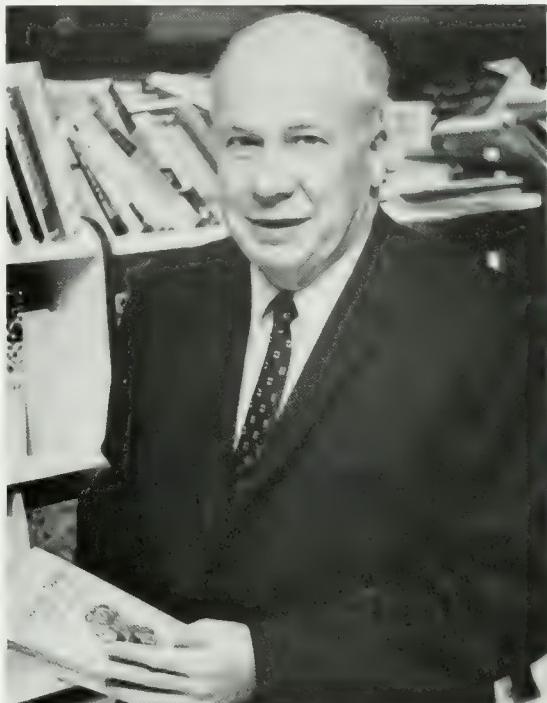

Well organized Purchasing Agent STAN REEL gladly assists those in confusion.

ASUCLA's physical plant is in the experienced hands of HERB SMITH.

Cameraman DALE SPICKLER supplies student rates for formal photography.

Even the fabled Italian glassware is now offered by Student Store Manager RALPH A. STILWELL.

With athletics a specialty, STAN TROUTMAN does all informal photographic work for the campus.

Chief Accountant DON WALDEN is always there to spot even the minuscule aberrations of automation.

BOARD OF CONTROL

The board of directors for the ASUCLA corporation is Board of Control, which has ultimate control over student funds and the sole power to allocate money; it establishes, approves, and reviews the budget, and okays all price changes. Recently the Board put the SU bookstore under a management separate from that of the student store, and is now considering various proposals for giving the Coop a cozier and more lived-in look.

The Board of Governors did not let the tiniest detail of SU policy escape their attention. For 1962-63 they were: front row, Roland Elliot, Nancy Rockoff, Gwenda Boydston, Ed Peterson, Patti Greene, and Roger Hostin; back row, Jerry Chaleff, Warren Hall, Pete Pierson, Tom Scully, Gerry Corrigan, Charles Fields, William Ackerman, George Bammer, Will Coben.

UNION BOARD OF GOVERNORS

A veritable Cerberus, the Board of Governors watches over the Student Union as an advisory group to the Board of Control on improvements and operational policies for the SU. BOG makes the important decisions regarding room availability, records for the sound system usage, and the permissibility of sleeping on couches. This year it has investigated the management of the SU bookstore and refurbishing of the Coop.

An erudite and very selective assemblage, SJB members for 1962-63 were (l to r): Richard Schulenberg, Jim Kennedy, Eric Martens (Dean of Students representative), Chairman John Wilkinson, Cathy Colby, Robert Greenfield, and Joel Jubelier.

STUDENT JUDICIAL BOARD

Student Judicial Board, the supreme judicial body on the UCLA campus, controls both dormitory courts and Elections Board. SJB tries cases in the divergent areas of student conduct and student affairs, and all elections code violations. Among the cases with which it has recently dealt are misuse of reg cards, book thefts, and plagiarism. SJB can impose penalties ranging from warnings to dismissal from the University.

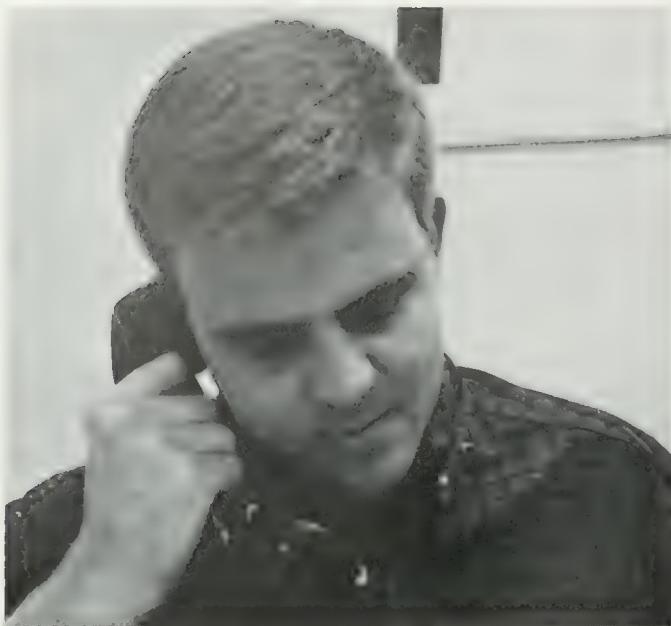

Perusing the 1962-63 Student Activities Budget were Finance Committee members (seated) Nancy Ashmore, Don Walden, Director Mark Leicester, Harry Shimada, Judi Hanover; standing are Bill Marks, Bob Steinberg, McDonald Jackson, Steve Lovaso.

FINANCE COMMITTEE

Finance Committee, composed solely of undergraduates, reviews all student activity budgets. It evaluates student expenditures, and furnishes budgetary and financial recommendations for the Student Legislative Council. The Committee's advice covers organizations from Mardi Gras to Daily Bruin. A complete reorganization has enlarged the committee from five to nine members and revamped and standardized procedures.

PEOPLE TO PEOPLE

Predicated on the ideals which establish and build on personal relationships, People-To-People pursues the development of international contact and the exchange of information. This is done with the hope that greater communication through individual means will provide the impetus for an international atmosphere of interchange and comprehension. The local program, under Chairmen Chuck Maas and Ken Meyer, is merely one of 14 chapters.

Chairman CHUCK MAAS gained know-how from a Summer in Tokyo.

As Co-Chairman to Maas, KEN MEYER was a classic example of tenacity.

The ever popular Square Dance often suffices as an introductory measure.

ELECTIONS BOARD

With duties encompassing supervision of both freshman elections in the fall, and the general student body elections in the spring, Elections Board has a responsibility which extends for a two semester period. Chairman for 1963, Toni Cooper, outlines a philosophy which underscores direction of campaign budget and activity.

Under the all-perceiving Elections Board eye, campaign activities noisily proceed along the Election Walk area.

Serving as President of ISA for the second year, Hungarian born FRANK NYULASSY plans to work for the foreign service after graduating in June.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT'S ASSOCIATION

Based on the premise that better understanding is needed between American and foreign students, the International Students Association tries to foster empathic relationships between the two groups through comprehensive cultural and social activities. In addition to International Week and the traditional Christmas Party, ISA has provided international entertainment in the form of French, German, and Japanese festivals. It has also presented theme dances and coffee hours bringing together foreign and American students. A young, but increasingly strong and functional organization, ISA, with more available funds, has launched an intensive membership drive. Its members now total some 200, one half foreign students, and half American students. Open to all students and eager for faculty participants, ISA hopes to include the foreign student as a part of collegiate life, instead of the excluded and neglected member he was in the past.

The capable ISA Executive Council members were: DOLORES CANNON, RUTH BERG, JUDY LONGBOTHAM, FRANK NYULASSY (president), KHALID ALHILALI, DAVID REED, STEVE KAPLAN, and VIVIAN GOLD.

GRADUATE STUDENT'S ASSOCIATION

Graduate students typically are young, yet almost half are married and have at least one child. They comprise nearly one third of the UCLA student body and thus are an important student group with special problems and needs which Graduates Student Association verbalizes and attempts to resolve. Arguing that the expense of Westwood apartments and the present shabby on-campus housing has deterred capable and bright individuals from attending UCLA, GSA decries current inadequacy of married students' housing. Spawned by growing complaints about poor library service, the Library Affairs Committee has labored to subdue uneasy grad student-library relations; GSA's Speakers and Colloquia program has assembled both faculty and students to discuss notable campus and national issues. Diversification is the keynote as GSA provides a fly-to-Europe plan for all students and investigates TA's salaries and onerous working conditions during the year.

As GSA president, PETE PIERSON approaches graduate student problems with an extremely individualistic viewpoint, he says, "Suggest, suggest, re-suggest, and then harass as a last resort."

Activities Coordinator WILLIAM COBEN supplied both perspicacity and audacious talent.

HOWARD RASCH, Travel Director, planned and coordinated GSA's charter flight to Europe.

As' GSA executive secretary, ANITA ROBERTS exacted imperious diligence.

Alumni officers discuss both minor and important topics in the same sophisticated rhetoric.

Alumni Magazine Editor Kitzrow confers with Harry Longway.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

The UCLA Alumni Association was founded in 1934 in order that a more direct relationship between alumni and university might be obtained. The present Executive Director Harry Longway, '49, has implemented Board of Directors' activities, while Dick Kitzrow, '58, serves as Managing Editor of the house communication organ, the UCLA Alumni Magazine.

Among the Alumni Association sponsored programs is a Career Conference Day. Of special interest to aspiring student leaders, the day offers the opportunity of question and answer in individual discussions conducted by Alumni who are willing to divulge the secrets of their successes.

UNIVERSITY RELIGIOUS CONFERENCE

At present, twelve different faiths are joined together in University Religious Conference, an off-campus and all-faith organization for students. Located at the intersection of Hilgard and Le Conte, a modern URC building provides a friendly meeting place for the numerous religious groups of the university. The Conference is now in its 30th year of operation, and prides itself on the sponsorship of such programs as Uni-Camp and the nationally and internationally famed Project India.

JIM MAHONEY
STUDENT BOARD CHAIRMAN

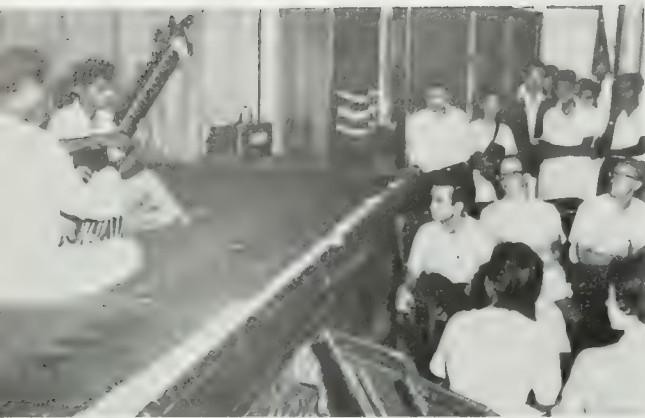

Uni-Camp counselor KEN MEYER specializes in swimming lessons.

The URC Discussion Board attempts to evaluate student opinion on pertinent university topics. Membership is predicated on a knowledge of campus problems.

PROJECT INDIA

Though selected for their ability to grasp the challenge of the new, Project India personnel are often confronted with complete removal from context and concept. No difficulty could pose a greater challenge to these individuals than the sudden realization that each thought they voice may be interpreted as the word of a nation. In the epitome of their responsibility is satiety.

In strengthening relations between nations, Project India relies heavily on the capacity of the individual to focus on personal relations. Associations are thus advanced through an agreeable program of cultural and intellectual exchange.

UNIVERSITY CAMP

To some youngsters of Los Angeles, a thought of Uni-Camp has meant escape from city streets and difficult conditions; vastly more important, however, is the opportunity which comes with the absorption of "woodsiness"—a camp term for brotherhood, and the communication of friends, the humanities which somehow seem so inaccessible and distant in the metropolis. All races, creeds, and religions are given equal opportunity through the counsel of student volunteers. Counselors and counseled alike find that end results depend upon the mixture of ingredients.

Alpha Phi Omega officers were CARL KAEMPFFE, BOB LINGARD, BERNIE MILLMAN, KEN LEVIN, JIM VOGEL, JACK DOFF, AL KEY. Stable and conservative leadership led to a successful year for A Phi O.

Alpha Phi Omega built the Homecoming Queen's float.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

The largest fraternity in the world, Alpha Phi Omega was established at UCLA in 1931. A Phi O is the only national service fraternity and consequently has been busy rendering services such as proctoring at Subject A examinations and painting the Big C. Other activities were Ugly Man contest, Frosh-Soph Mud Brawl, and carpool files.

ANCHORS

Beginning the year with 32 new members, the Anchors were kept busy by regular exchanges with the Navy including a Christmas sing at the VA Hospital, followed by a party. Adding fifteen new members during spring, their activities included the Blood Drive, Mardi Gras, and more exchanges. Anchors' special project with Conning Tower was an Easter egg hunt at an orphanage followed by a dinner-party at one of the Anchors' home.

THE UCLA BANDS 1962

Considered one of the most complete collegiate musical organizations in the country, the Band program of UCLA is renowned not only for its number of divisions, but for the quality of each. Under combined leadership of Clarence Sawhill and Kelly James, the program includes a ninety-six man Football Band, the Wind Ensemble, and the Concert and Varsity Band groups. Composed in the main part of non-music majors, surprisingly enough, these Bands play for every conceivable type of university activity, although the most prominent of their duties is the production of a musical background for those athletic events which are scheduled to occur on the Bruin home grounds.

CLARENCE SAWHILL Director of UCLA Bands.

The UCLA Concert Band is composed of some 70 men and women and performs several concerts each year.

Making the trip to Provo, Utah, the Basketball Band provided music for NCAA regional playoffs.

KELLY JAMES is billed as

The UCLA Varsity Band plays at all basic university events which require a general musical background.

"The Belles are to be congratulated on the fine job they have accomplished this year. Their success is a credit to the university." This recognition comes from the University President Kerr to the official hostesses of UCLA, Bruin Belles. Although the Belles are indeed instrumental in augmenting the public image of the campus, their true success lies in their individual ability to develop the personal contact of the university while upholding intrinsic standards without selfish prejudices or hope of tangible reward.

ARNOLD AIR SOCIETY

The Arnold Air Society is an honorary service organization of selected Air Force ROTC cadets. The society has membership of 5500 at 167 colleges. ## CAL CLUB

JOHN CARTER
PRESIDENT

Cal Club serves as an advisory student board to the President of the University of California and also to honor UCLA students who have distinguished themselves through outstanding campus activity and academic performance. Cal Club meets at Santa Barbara during the spring break for the All University Cal Club convention. At this time the club, together with the chancellors and deans of all the university campii review topics to discuss at Regents Meetings and subjects of importance to the President. Throughout the year Cal Club meets to discuss additional topics sent to them by President Kerr. An important unifying factor, Cal Club offers students continuity for action.

CHIMES

Successfully serving as Chimes officers, 1962-63 were (l to r): BARBARA SACHNOFF (president), BEVERLY MELLEN, (back row) BOBBIE COHN, and MARGIE McDONALD.

Traditionally in the fall, Chimes sponsors candied apple sales which this year supported scholarships for foreign students and in the spring, Uni-camp drive. Beginning the second semester, Chimes held an orientation program, at which they served as hostesses, for junior women transfer students. In order to relax from the arduous toils of service projects, they initiated post-meeting dinners with international menus. Chimes members are easily recognized on college campii all over the United States by their brown and yellow uniforms. Membership in the organization is limited to those junior women who have attained a grade point average of at least 2.7 and who have served the university in campus activities. After selective culling of applicants, Chimes culminated the year initiating 26 new girls.

Gold Key once again attempted to fall back and punt, but because of popular demand members arose to the occasion, wresting the Frank Bull award from all comers. ## RALLY COMMITTEE

Perhaps allusive of increasing mechanization and the resultant decline of the individual is subordination of highly singular cheers to a fantoccinic card stunt. Be that as it may, Rally Committee has found itself plagued by thieves and condemned by two prominent Times sportswriters. Light-fingered Trojans, in a futile attempt to halt the obviously superlative Bruin card stunts, lifted the cards from the their Coliseum storage room. Luckily, Lowenstein came up with some old cards and the result was the infamous "We can't buy our diplomas." stunt which sportswriters Murphy and Ziff found so disturbingly discourteous.

Chairman of Rally Committee DAVE LOWENSTEIN, after admonishing his charges to hold 'em steady begins his familiar spiel, "1234567891012345 . . . looks terrific, Bruins."

Newly organized in 1963, Sophomore Sweethearts found its genesis in the need for campus hostesses with the ability to present UCLA to visiting females. In addition to guiding tours about the campus, these girls have not only taken group initiative, but contributed their own time to hosting for innumerable talent concerts, special Mardi Gras and Spring Sing productions, and a first annual Folk Singers Hoot. Sponsored by pathology Professor Dr. Thomas Edgington and led by capable President Dru Cummings, Sophomore Sweethearts have not only made their initial year a success, but produced a banner inauguration.

SABERS

A complement to the Army ROTC, Sabers selects its girls on a basis of desire to serve, scholarship, and, of course, attractiveness. With such a selective group as this, quality is inherent and performance is noticeably above standard. While attending all drill ceremonies, Sabers distribute their awards at a Chancellor's Annual Review.

As the women's spirit organization of UCLA, Trolls make it a point to keep active. Among their duties are the construction of the famous "Beat SCI" tags, assistance in Blood Drive, Spring Sing, and Mardi Gras. Never a group to rest on their laurels, Trolls have planned expansion, including a mammoth money-raising chrysanthemum sale each year.

VARSITY CLUB

Mainly occupied in aiding and coordinating athletic policy, the Varsity Club has a membership open to all varsity lettermen. Since to some, sporting is virtually a full time occupation, this club fulfills another of the needs of the university student—that of enabling the individual to discuss and plan his own ways to self-expansion and learning.

Yeoman, Lower Division Men's Honorary, is a highly esoteric group of young men devoted entirely to the art of nothingness. Yeomanly pursuits include a program to encourage high school athletes to enter UCLA and a systematic schedule of social intercourse with groups of Bruin Belles, Bruinettes, and Prytanean capabilities.

MASONIC AFFILIATE CLUB

The Masonic Affiliate Club is a non-ritualistic social organization open to all university students having a Masonic relative or past affiliation with Job's Daughters, Rainbow Girls, or DeMolay. The ivy-covered MAC clubhouse stands on the southern edge of campus and encloses many facilities including a ballroom, library, study hall, lounges, TV, stereo, and pool rooms. Events included square dances, formals, All Nations Banquet, and university socials.

The Masonic Affiliate Club's Fall Formal provided a dramatic and exciting highlight to social year.

TAU BETA PI

The UCLA Epsilon chapter of Tau Beta Pi was chartered in 1952, and has since grown to over 600 members. Predicated on the values of service, this group offers free tutoring, sponsors service projects for both the School of Engineering and the university as a whole, and annually awards outstanding undergraduates for meritorious accomplishment and scholarship.

Membership is considered on the basis of distinguished scholarship and exemplary character as undergraduates.

Garnering awards were (l to r): front, R. Thomas (Trolls), M. Templeton (DG), A. Neuman (AZD), back, S. Briggs (Navy), D. Maas (AGO), G. Wendt (Mountaineers), M. Shapiro (Chaos).

BLOOD DRIVE

In the five day blood drive from March 18 to 22, the American Red Cross sponsored group collected 1096 pints of vital fluid. A reflection of unselfish service by the committee and co-operation by a high percentage of the student body, this collection total is the highest in UCLA history. Awards of merit in the form of trophies were awarded to organizations which contributed a high percentage of donors, but drive sweepstakes recognition went to Dykstra Hall which produced a grand total of 155 pints of blood.

UNIVERSITY RECREATION ASSOCIATION

The University Recreation Association has the basic purpose of providing students with facilities and training for intelligent use of their leisure time; it is open to all faculty and students. The thirty clubs of the Association encompass the entire gamut of activity from mountain climbing to chess, and its special events draw over 70,000 spectators each year. Under 1963 President Bill Lukowski and Faculty Director Norm Padgett, URC sponsors such gala events as Mardi Gras in addition to its numerous clubs.

DAILY BRUIN STAFF

One of ASUCLA's more problematic publications, the Daily Bruin has a tradition of internal strife and external derogation. Enigmatic leader for 1963, Al Rothstein found himself beset with trouble on all sides and confusion in the middle. Controversy broiled over the传统als, but new flameups were injected with the furor over editorial power, its application, and its extent. The Greeks continued their boycott, but to their own chagrin their segregation was due mostly to self-made intimations of persecution. Through "hell or high water" Rothstein and his more tolerant assistants persevered and accomplished production, if not purpose.

"In our university complex, humor is vital to the discharge of anxiety and its siamese twin, frustration. Our largest benchmark of humor, aside from Rieber and Hendrik Halls, is Satyr. Since its present staff, Editor Joel Siegel, Art Editor Hank Hinton, Associate Editor Steve White, Managing Editor Harry Shearer, Production Editor Dave Lawton, and Business Manager Earl Feldman, were penciled onto the Master Plan, Satyr has become a viable humor organ. # PHOTOGRAPHY STAFF

Virtual backbone of the ASUCLA Publications, the photographic lense of Stan Troutman and his eager staff were again the prime source of celluloid for the Southern Campus. Backed by formal artist Spickler, the informal complement set new highs in efficiency, new lows in budget expenditures. Though a film shortage handicapped student help, indications point to a sharp recovery in 1964 work.

Amenable Stan Troutman was the department head.

Helpful Stan Mindel did tricky darkroom work.

Graduate Jim Pickerel was the close-up expert.

Jan Gabrielson sacrificed studies for late work.

Robust Bob Roth handled self and camera well.

Marcel Shane continually watched the birdie.

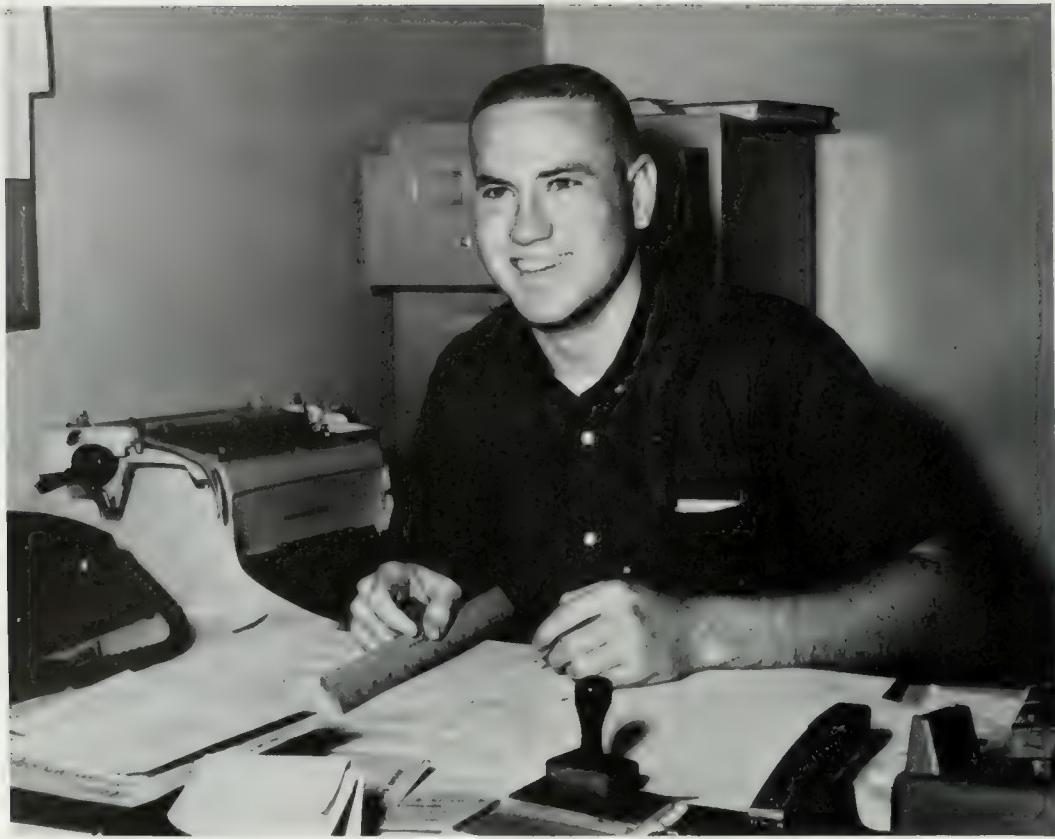

Steve Barry developed a knack for the unusual.

Efficient Dale Spickler did formal portraits.

Anachronistic Larry Tryman had elevated hopes.

Editor DON WELLS continued with the great "Do it yesterday" tradition of UCLA Southern Campus Editors. Coming from behind, Wells manned his desk round the clock in an effort to inspire the lagging staffers. Dreams of the promised dinner-banquet and visions of sugar plums and fairies danced through his throbbing head as the late hours and constant harassment by Liz and Beaver led his mind along never before explored channels.

STAFF OF THE 1963 SOUTHERN CAMPUS

Crutching his way to prominence, Associate Editor DAVE JENSEN displayed a marked fondness for the staff of Bavarian life. Though offered a chance at his own Saturday morning TV show, Jensen proved to be anything but a puppet, forging rubiginously ahead with jerky gait toward the facinorous pelf of SoCam.

Rookie So Cam Photography Editor JOHN "FINGER" JASKIEWICZ dialed himself and several other people silly, finding no one at home, and in some cases not even finding the home. Not one to be a crisis casualty, however, John performed well under pressure and earned a Sarma Bird's rasping cry.

Returning to the lineup for his second playing year, Senior Sports Editor MIKE WILCOX found no problem in his starting role. Going both ways, Wilcox was plagued by a recurrent study break, but held up in the clutch to forge himself a permanent place in SoCam's Hall of Fame. He had a banner year.

Art Editor JOHN CARTER gained experience from a Tokyo University correspondence course and came on to perform equally well with easel or camera. As a Night Owl, Carter excelled, and with the voluptuous support of high fidelity he expanded his credits to become a "crack" specialist in destruction.

Inscrutable AMY YUTANI entered during the halftime break to come through with some of the prettiest layouts gracing recent Southern Campus pages. Engaged in a life-death struggle with that vicious disease mononucleosis, Amy pigeoned her unsuspecting roommate, equally inscrutable BEV MORRIS into assisting.

Unable to exist in a quiet, restful atmosphere of study halls or libraries, Office Manager SANDY TRAVIS returned for another year of Southern Campus psychoanalysis. Though probably the only living Texan to envy Alaska, Travis considered defending the Alamo secondary to rigorous Southern Campus duty.

Secretary HOLLY ROLF was ably assisted in her handling of an impressive task by a full complement of ROTC troops. Forced to persevere through a hi-fidelity din, Holly carefully checked all rosters, located missing pictures, and explained her accomplishment in an accent closely resembling that of the French.

Atop the coliseum, coaches ferret out enemy weaknesses and assimilate the new facts into an already intricate and comprehensive game plan.

TIMELY TRANSITION TO THE "T"

A frantically called time-out offers the respite and reprieve often needed so that forces may be regrouped and the advances continued.

Swift change to a new formation often leaves both players and their coaches in confusion. Although perplexities of the situation seem to be insurmountable, the solution is often not as difficult as imagined.

The presence of incident and circumstance is epitomized in the face of the rooter, who never relinquishes a loyal support of the team.

With the coming of the 1962 college football season, UCLA made a big change from the traditional single-wing formation, popularized by the late Red Sanders, to the more modern and universal T-formation, used by most of the major football powers. The radical change was welcomed by all avid Bruin supporters, but even the most loyal fans expected a long and dreary season. The young and inexperienced Bruins proved to be full of surprises, however, as they perpetrated one of the season's biggest upsets in knocking off powerful Ohio State in the season's opener. Led by All-American halfback Kermit Alexander, UCLA went on to play spirited and exciting football, though enduring Head Coach Bill Barnes' first losing season with a 4-6 mark. Yet, the invaluable experience gained gives portent of eminence.

Frequently the essence of a silent prayer amid the wildly cheering throngs of observers seems to be a vital and necessary factor in achieving victory.

Quarterback EZELL SINGLETON, on sidelines, discusses important football strategy with head mentor BILL BARNES.

"DUCKY" DRAKE, team trainer, is continually prepared to attend to the unexpected injury or ailment.

COMPETENT COHORTS

LARRY CARTER, assistant trainer, maintains the competitive spirit by offering sympathy, if not relief.

1962 football coaching staff, from left: John Hermann, assistant; Bob Bergdahl, assistant; Deke Brackett, senior assistant; Bill Barnes, head coach; Sam Baghosian, assistant; Jim Dawson, assistant; Dan Peterson, assistant; John Johnson, assistant.

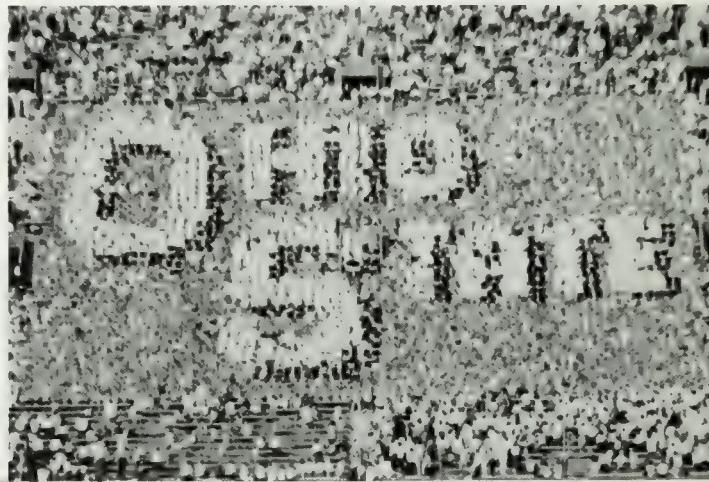

The advent of the '62 UCLA football season marked the beginning of an era for both the University and head coach William Barnes. After three short seasons at the helm, using the single-wing, he gained recognition as one of America's finest football coaches. This year Barnes switched to the more versatile and powerful T-formation, proving that he is not only a winning football mentor, but also a forward looking one. It is no small task to revamp an entire offense in one season and now that the kinks have been ironed out and a knowledgeable feeling of the new offensive pattern acquired, UCLA football will continue to symbolize the Bruins' winning enthusiasm.

LARRY ZENO during a strategic lull in the grid contest receives last-minute instructions from coach BILL BARNES.

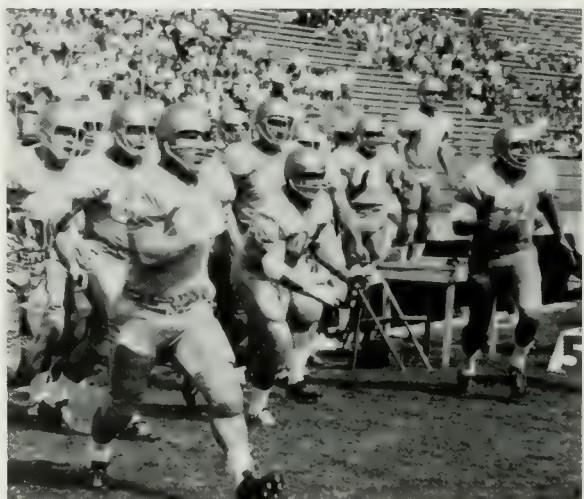

Defensive end MEL PROFIT (84) completely flattens a Buckeye blocker and nails OSU back PAUL WARFIELD (42) for a two yard loss.

Roving linebacker KERMIT ALEXANDER (33) nails Buckeye fullback DAVE KATTERHENRICH (30) on the one foot line.

The entire football world was startled as the fourteen point underdog UCLA Bruins tumbled mighty Ohio State from its lofty number one perch. Over 48,000 fans went delirious as Larry Zeno, sophomore quarterback, split the uprights with a 24 yard, last minute field goal that acquired the Bruins one of the great upsets of the 1962 season. Even more amazing, UCLA was playing its first game of the season, and was using a new T-formation to boot. The stage was set for the Bruins' first score when Ohio State fumbled the opening kickoff and UCLA recovered. On the game's first play, Kermit Alexander slid through left tackle behind perfectly executed blocking and scooted 45 yards to paydirt. From that point on, brilliant defensive artistry won the ballgame for UCLA. Ohio State, playing its ball control game, was unbelievably stopped three times on the one yard line by the inspired Bruins, a feat only befitting one of the finest victories recorded in the Bruin pigskin annals.

MEL PROFIT (84), who was superb defensively all day, devastatingly smothers Ohio State quarterback JOHN MUMMEY (25).

UCLA 9 OHIO STATE 7

Cries of glee and jubilation rent the air during a post game rally, as elated Bruin students celebrated the never-to-be-forgotten win.

Winning the season's initial contest was sweet revenge for BILL BARNES, consistent victim of the Big Ten in previous clashes.

The transition from supremacy to defeat can be quick, brutal, and unforeseen, as Coach WOODY HAYES regrettfully discovered.

Bruin quarterback EZELL SINGLETON (20) rounds right end before being stopped by Colorado State guard DOUG YORK (67). Singleton scored on the next play and the Bruins were never headed as the valiant Rams were completely worn down by superior Bruin depth.

UCLA 35 COLORADO STATE 7

The Colorado State Rams, winless in 19 straight games, came to the Coliseum and found the Bruins flat following their stirring upset of top ranked Ohio State the week before. UCLA actually was outplayed by the Rams in the first half, but held a slim, 13-7 halftime advantage due to a fine 47 yard aerial play from Larry Zeno to Dan Ghormley. Earlier in the half, Ezell Singleton had run for the opening score. The second half saw the Bruins finally come to life as they drove for two quick scores on short runs by Warren Jackson, and Chuck Peterson killed a Colorado State offensive with an interception and iced the game as Larry Zeno snuck over from the one yard line. The victory was not by any means impressive, but the continually inspired play of the sophomores and first year men gave portent of an exciting season.

Sophomore halfback CHUCK PETERSON (43) finds the way cleared behind excellent blocking, typical of the Bruin effort throughout the entire Ram game.

All-American halfback KERMIT ALEXANDER (33) ecstatically waves the ball after scoring the Bruins' touchdown. Alexander scored when, on a second down and half yard to go situation, he alertly recovered a fumble and easily scrambled into the end zone for the six points.

UCLA 6 PITTSBURGH 8

Quarterback LARRY ZENO (24) picks up yardage behind the protection of fullback WARREN JACKSON (34) during Bruins' 81 yard drive.

The undefeated Bruins traveled to Pitt Stadium and were handed their first loss by the inhospitable Panthers. Bitterly fought, the game continually offered nothing but exasperation for the Bruins. After a conservative first half, all caution was thrown to the winds as Pitt came out and devastatingly drove to the first score of the game. The conversion was good as Jim Traficant, holding the pigskin for the point after touchdown, received a bad pass from center and hurried a throw to Rick Leeson in the endzone for the two points that were to haunt the Bruins the rest of the game. UCLA bounced right back, engineering an 81 yard scoring drive, but the try for extra point was unsuccessful. The Bruins tried desperately to pull it out the fire, but a costly fumble and an interception late in the game squelched all attempts.

Deep in the secondary, Bruin KERMIT ALEXANDER (33) tries to get by Stanford back GARY SARGENT (34).

UCLA 7 STANFORD 17

33,000 befuddled spectators sat bewildered in the Coliseum and watched UCLA and Stanford engage in a give away game with the Indians finally emerging victorious. Six interceptions and five fumbles characterized the play. The tenor of the gridfest was established early, as Stanford intercepted a Bruin pass, promptly fumbled the ball back to UCLA, and then scored as a Stanford back picked off an errant Bruin pitchout and ran 82 yards to paydirt. But, turn about's fair play, as a few fumbles later, Carl Jones grabbed a loose pigskin, and scored on an 81 yard run. Finally, in the second half, the nine point underdog Indians managed to get a drive underway and score the TD ending the comedy of errors, handing UCLA their second loss.

End MEL PROFIT is introduced to the TV audience by a CBS sportscaster.

Stanford linemen find grist for their mill as quarterback LARRY ZENO barely evades the first awaiting tackler.

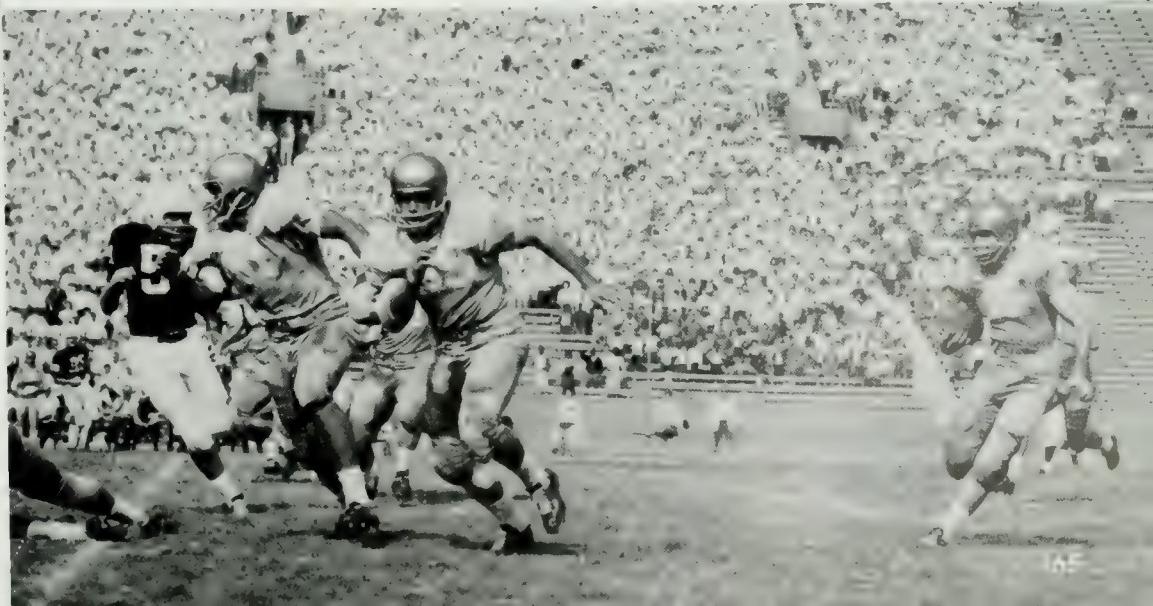

Easily moving in to break up a potent Stanford aerial play, perspiring linemen typify the vigorous Bruin defensive play.

Bruin mentor BILL BARNES gives chalk talk instruction to player.

Deep man ROB SMITH (16) returns a Stanford punt during the ill fated game, the Bruins' second straight loss.

UCLA 26

CALIFORNIA 16

Quarterback LARRY ZENO (24) eludes a tackler, and leaps high in the air, searching for a potential receiver.

UCLA needed five boots, including one by a dog before it kicked off successfully to California in first half play.

KERMIT ALEXANDER flits by fallen California defender, BILL TURNER (86).

It was a raw, foggy football day in Strawberry Canyon, but weather had no effect on the Bruins, as they came from behind twice to defeat California for the fourth straight time. UCLA's All-American Kermit Alexander was magnificent as he established a new school record by running for three touchdowns, and catching a Larry Zeno pass for a fourth. Team Captain Andy von Sonn was outstanding defensively for the Bruins. UCLA was the first team to get on the scoreboard, due to Alexander's 24 yard run, but, Cal came right back with a touchdown and field goal to take a 9-6 lead. UCLA was ahead at intermission as a 44 yard drive finished in Alexander's second score of the day. Yet, the Golden Bears were by no means whipped, as they came out and engineered an 80 yard scoring march, making it 16-13. Again the Bruins were forced to take up the slack, and they did in fine style, as they put together a 52 yard drive and scored the deciding points. Alexander's last TD iced the game.

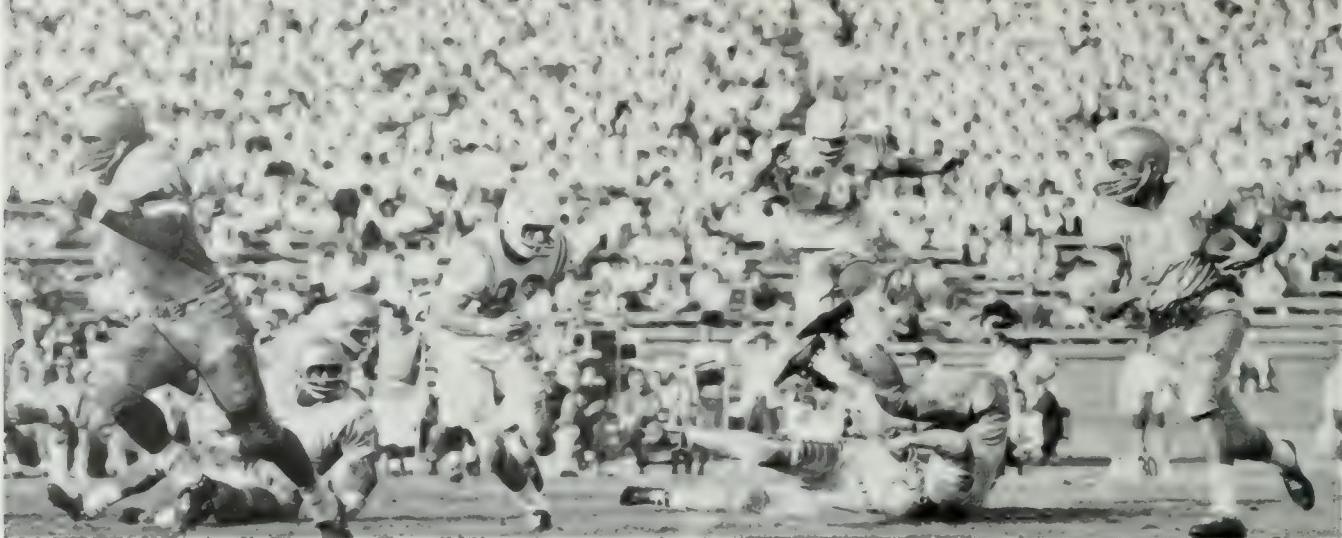

One of the never-to-be-forgotten instances of the 1962 season occurred when KERMIT ALEXANDER (33) literally catapulted into the end zone for a touchdown. Alexander, at his blazing best, went on to score three additional touchdowns, truly an All-American performance.

That sideline activity is intense and all-important is readily shown in the vocal antics of UCLA's Head mentor, BILLY BARNES.

CARMEN DIPOALO (31) runs unmolested as he hauls in an aerial behind California lines.

CARL JONES (21) attempts to turn the corner with two Air Force Falcons in hot pursuit. Alert and inspired play by the Falcons was decisive in the contest, as the Air Force continually outhit the Bruins, causing many costly mistakes and stalling their offensive attack.

UCLA 11
AIR FORCE 17

A feeling of suspense and anticipation wells up in a player as the chain is laid down to determine a crucial first down, and often the final outcome of the game.

A hush falls over the Coliseum as trainers and referees rush to the aid of an injured competitor.

Termed by many as "the complete football player", and truly of All-American stature, KERMIT ALEXANDER will go down as one of the greatest grididers ever to don a UCLA uniform.

An alert and fired up Air Force Academy football team capitalized on costly Bruin mistakes and chalked up a 17-11 upset in the Coliseum. The Falcons, ten point underdogs, were never headed in the contest, as UCLA gave up the ball five times on interceptions and fumbles. A portent of the game's happenings was given to Bruin fans at the outset, as the Falcons accepted the opening kickoff and marched 83 yards to score. UCLA nearly closed the count in the second quarter as Larry Zeno booted a remarkable 48 yard field goal, but then, the Falcons began to take advantage of the breaks offered them. A Bruin fumble in the third period not only stopped a UCLA drive, but contributed to an Air Force field goal, and a stolen pass set up another Falcon TD. UCLA tried desperately to come back, scoring once, converting for two points, and driving again into Falcon territory, but the drive stalled ending all hopes of victory for this contest.

Senior Quarterback EZELL SINGLETON rolls out, seeking a possible receiver on a pass or run option.

Playing on a muddy field at the University of Washington stadium, the Bruins were horribly overmatched against a powerful Washington team. Washington's offense, with Sophomore fullback Junior Coffey, ran rampant against the Bruin forward wall, amassing 28 first downs while the Bruins were held to only 6. One big UCLA chance to score was thwarted late in third quarter when All-American Kermit Alexander was barely shoved out of bounds on the Huskies' 44, thus putting to an end a brilliant 53-yard kickoff return. The Bruins thus suffered their worst defeat since 1950, when they were beaten by California, 35-0, and their first scoreless game in 36 contests, since tying Purdue, 0-0.

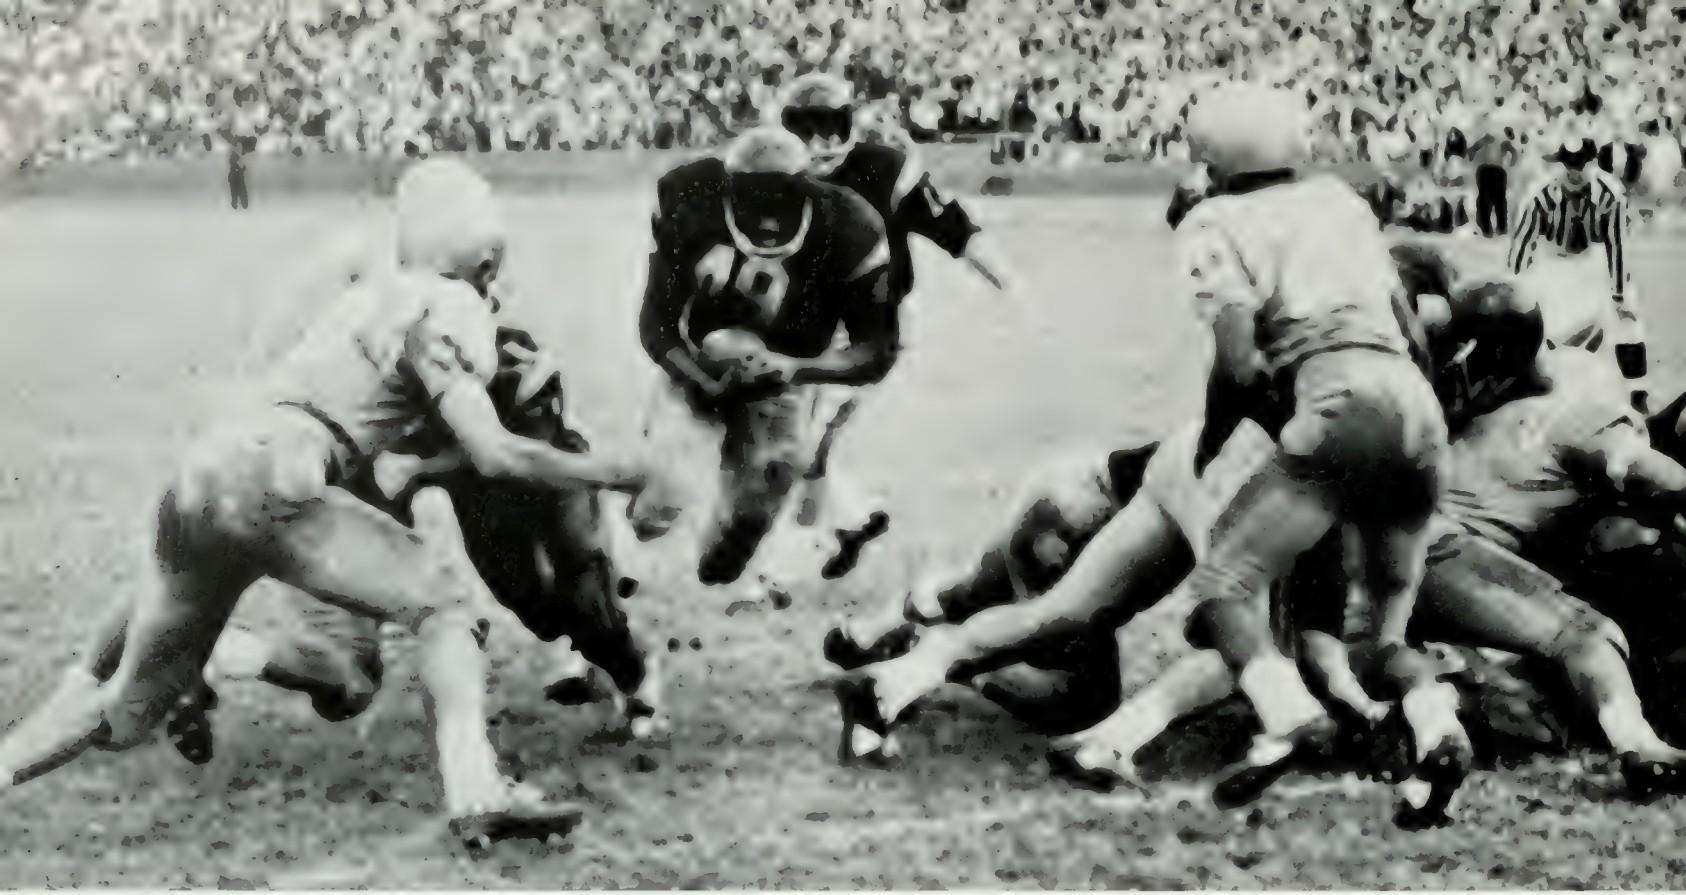

With protection from TONY FIORENTINO and ANDY VON SONN, LARRY ZENO fades back on pass play.

UCLA 0
WASHINGTON 30

LARRY ZENO (24) checks Bruin offensive backfield, as well as the Husky defenses for possible weaknesses and changes play by calling an audible. Unfortunately, all efforts to crack the Washington defense were for naught; UCLA wasn't able to get past their 44.

Big BEN WILSON (49), USC fullback, roars through a gaping hole in the line and scores the Trojans' first touchdown of the day.

DAN GHORMLEY (12) is held to slight gain by jarring tackle.

An interception by SC's PETE BEATHARD (12) ended Bruin upset hopes late in the fourth period.

UCLA 3

USC 14

The Coliseum's largest collegiate gathering since 1955, 86,740, saw some stubborn Bruins almost duplicate their early season upset over Ohio State. UCLA led the undefeated, top-ranked Trojans 3-0 into the fourth quarter, before they finally succumbed to heartbreakng defeat. Both teams were held scoreless until late in the first half, when Larry Zeno booted a 35 yard field goal for the Bruins. Following intermission, UCLA continued to contain the Trojans until they recovered a fumble deep in Bruin territory and drove relentlessly to the three, where a thrilling goal line stand by the Bruins ended the scoring threat. UCLA had to punt, and in no time at all, SC was back again. On fourth down, the desperate Trojans gambled and threw long to Willie Brown, who made a phenomenal, leaping reception on the two. Troy promptly scored, and, UCLA exhausted, added the coup de grace with seconds remaining in the game.

CARL JONES (21) sweeps right end and meets trouble.

Out of desperation, DAN GHORMLEY (12) attempts to hurdle a mass of fallen blockers and tacklers in his way.

CARL JONES (21) is stopped for no gain. The Bruins' only drive of the day came in the fourth quarter, when they erupted and drove 83 yards to score.

Outgained and way behind in first downs, the Bruins still managed to come from behind in the fourth quarter and defeat the hopped up Utah Redskins in Ute Stadium. The Redskins, as seven point underdogs, made the scoreboard first on the strength of a 65 yard drive late in the first quarter. In the second stanza, UCLA's Kermit Alexander broke off tackle, stumbled, regained his balance, and sped 65 yards to a TD making the halftime score 6-6. The Utes scored five more points on a field goal and an intentional Bruin safety, and UCLA found itself trailing 11-6 entering into the completing quarter. But, quarterback Carl Jones pulled the Bruins together and engineered an 83 yard scoring march culminating in a 22 yard pass to Mel Profit. Jones then passed to soph Dan Ghormley for the two-point conversion.

UCLA 14

UTAH 11

The Utah attack is stalled in midfield by the Bruins. Even though the Redskins outgained UCLA on the ground, the Bruins' passing brought them a victory.

Fullback WARREN JACKSON (34) is nailed behind the line of scrimmage by a lone Redskin.

UCLA's KERMIT ALEXANDER (33) grapples with a Syracuse Orangeman for ball possession.

Halfback JOHN MACKEY (88) is stopped by JOE BAUWENS (73) and DAVE GIBBS (87). Mackey later scored the winning touchdown.

UCLA 7

SYRACUSE 12

JOHNNY WHITE (44) stretches in vain for an aerial that is barely out of his grasp. Passing was the only way the Bruins could move against Syracuse.

The Orangemen of Syracuse came to the Coliseum and impressively pummeled the Bruins before a nationwide television audience and yet had to come from behind to win. The Bruins, held to a minus 37 yards rushing by the Saltine Warriors, completely beleaguered their opponents with untimely interceptions and fumbles, and almost pulled off one of the most undeserved victories anyone could ever hope to see. The Orangemen opened the scoring on the second time they had the ball. A conversion attempt was no good. A pass deflected into the arms of Dan Ghormley in the endzone and a placement by Larry Zeno gave the Bruins a 7-6 lead that they didn't relinquish until the fourth period when Syracuse's Johnny Mackey scored on a 40 yard punt return. Moments later, the gun sounded and the 1962 Bruin grid season had reached its conclusion.

Alternate captain PHIL ORAM had a banner season as a starting senior tackle.

Junior tackle JOE BAUWENS showed all the requirements of a great player — size, speed, and intelligence.

A Bruin rated with All-Coast and/or All-American potential, junior left end MEL PROFIT went both ways.

Senior quarterback and top safetyman EZELL SINGLETON proved to be a versatile athlete, going both ways.

Tackle RANDY SCHWARTZ, big and powerful, as well as being quick and aggressive, was bulwark on defense.

Very alert and always hustling, senior guard DICK ALLEN was highly improved linebacker in his senior year.

Strong, big, and surprisingly agile, left tackle JACK REED helped greatly, especially on offensive line.

Able to play guard or center, JOHN WALKER was a great asset to the Bruin line.

An excellent long passer, quarterback LARRY ZENO was one of the most promising UCLA sophomores of 1963.

An excellent target for passes, AL GEVERINK was a more than able replacement at either end or wingback.

Tackle TONY FIORENTINO, possessing good speed, strength, and power, had a great season as a senior.

Quarterback CARL JONES looms as both a good passer and runner and rates as a standout quarterback for UCLA.

Rugged guard DAVE STOUT had a banner year for the Bruins in 1963, was especially tough while on defense.

Aggressive and quick, Sophomore guard DICK PETERSON excelled on offense and defense, improved steadily.

Quick and versatile, center PRENTICE O'LEARY was standout as a sophomore.

1963 BRUIN VARSITY

Right tackle MITCH JOHNSON, after being ill last year, showed signs of greatness with his size and speed.

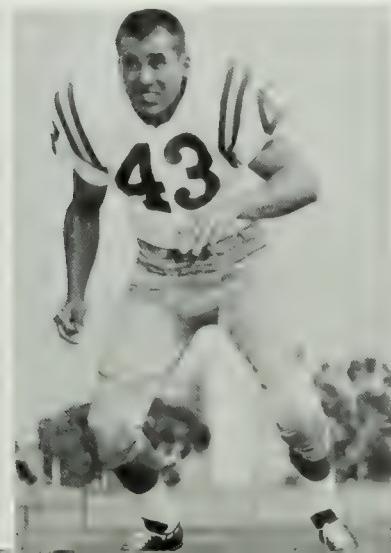

Though not big, Junior guard WALT DATHE excelled on both offense and defense.

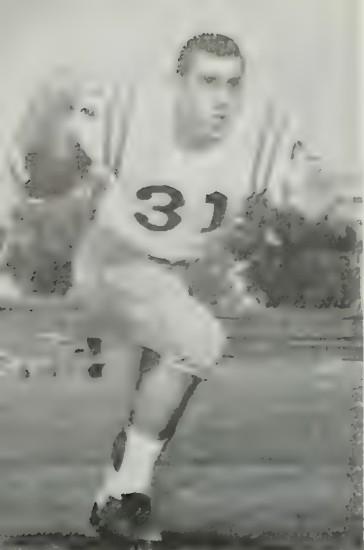

Senior center JIM BERGMAN, hampered by injury, lost considerable playing time, was missed as linebacker.

Hard-hitting JOHN LOCURTO, a former ball-carrier, was switched to guard in '63, is strong and aggressive.

Bruin's number two ground gainer last season, sophomore fullback WARREN JACKSON showed great potential.

Fullback JOE ZENO, a fine runner and blocker, was a hard-nosed Bruin performer.

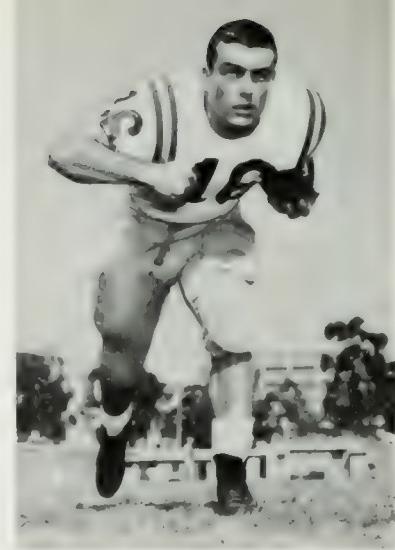

CARMEN DIPOALO'S outstanding performances came as Bruin

Fullback MITCH DIMKICH was one of the best blockers on the Bruin team, while having a great senior year.

Voted the most improved player on the squad, end DAVE GIBBS should develop into a real star of the future.

Hampered by a recurrent ankle injury, senior halfback ROB SMITH was still able to be a defensive mainstay.

Senior center and the team captain ANDY VON SONN was chosen for All-Coast honors and also drafted by the Chicago Bears because of his outstanding ability in the linebacker slot and intense competitive spirit and desire.

1963 BRUIN VARSITY

Playing for 456 minutes, KERMIT ALEXANDER was the offensive and defensive mainstay for the Bruins.

CHARLES DAVIS, sophomore guard, was strong on defense, may start next year.

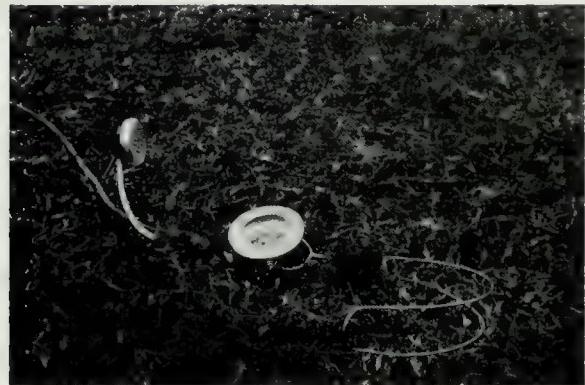

Junior end JIM STANLEY was a dedicated player showing much desire, played especially well while on defense.

Although hindered by his lack of size, sophomore JOHN WHITE's speed marks him as a fine broken field runner.

Left tackle KENT FRANCISCO was one of the sophomore standouts and looms as a starter for the coming year.

Front row: Paul Horgan, Rod Sherman, Al Peterson, and Darwin Ball. The Frosh ran up a respectable 3-2 mark, although Sayonara Sherman slanted out.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

The Brubabe coaches (l to r), Foster Anderson, Frank Macari, mentor John Herrman, Ron Hull, and Don Vena.

Coach Johnny Herrman's Brubabes started the season off right with three straight victories over Hancock JC, Stanford, and San Diego State. But, they cracked under the strain and dropped contests to Berkeley and USC. Nevertheless, the Brubabes were still tough enough to wind up second in the final AAWU frosh standings. Many outstanding gridders prevailed, keynoters being quarterbacks Rod Sherman, and Joe Hollingsworth, halfbacks Jim Colletto and Paul Horgan, and lanky end Bob Richardson; all are fine prospects for the Varsity team next year.

Quarterback ROD SHERMAN slants off left tackle.

WILBUR JOHNS ends a seventeen year reign as UCLA Intercollegiate Athletic Director this year, after bringing Bruin athletes national acclaim.

The UCLA Intercollegiate Department of Athletics is a highly complex and heterogeneous organization headed by Wilbur Johns. Tabbed as "the man who knows his coaches", Johns is undoubtedly the individual most responsible for the prominence in athletics UCLA has received. In 1948, he selected John Wooden to revitalize the basketball team. Wooden has become one of America's most revered cage mentors. In 1949, he named the late Red Sanders head coach of the football team. By 1954, Sanders had created a national champion and was a living football legend. This year, after serving UCLA since 1921, Wilbur Johns announced his retirement. His exit will not mark the passing of an era, for thanks to him, a new era is in genesis.

With unbelievable grace, WALT HAZZARD slips a pass to his teammate FRED SLAUGHTER under the basket, ready to score.

BIZARRE BRUIN BASKETBALL . . .

Never before has there been a Bruin team with such an affinity for doing the unusual. Starting off the season in a brilliant fashion, winning ten of their first twelve games, including three in the Classic, UCLA suddenly began to fold in league play. The cagers dropped two in a row to Washington, returned to whip 'Cal and USC, but lost another pair to Stanford. Another loss, this time to USC, squashed all hopes of a second consecutive league title. But, the impossible happened, as UCLA won its three remaining games and Stanford lost three in a row, tying both teams for the crown. UCLA beat Stanford in a playoff and went to Provo, Utah, only to be finally stopped by Arizona State.

Bruin center FRED SLAUGHTER (35) lays in a crippe in the SC series. The Bruins swept two out of three from the Trojans.

Members of the 1963 UCLA basketball team: Top row, (l to r), Assistant coach Jerry Norman, Rich Levin, Jack Hirsch, Fred Slaughter, Keith Erickson, Vaughn Hoffman, Dave Waxman, Kim Stewart, Steve Lock, Kent Graham, and head coach John Wooden. Bottom row: Manager Bob Moore, Jim Milhorn, Larry Gower, Mike Huggins, Walt Hazzard, Fred Goss, Gail Goodrich, Chuck Darrow, and Assistant coach Bill Putnam. Darrow, Hoffman, and Lock were held out this campaign, but will return in 1964 as varsity players.

AAWU CO-CHAMPS . . .

Soph guard GAIL GOODRICH had a scoring average in double figures in his initial basketball campaign, and should develop into a Bruin mainstay.

Senior JIM MILHORN was voted the team's captain and also received the "most improved player" award in his last season as a defensive squad stalwart.

The Bruins' leading freethrow shooter with a .726 percentage, junior forward JACK HIRSCH was ALL-AAWU in his first year on the Bruin courts.

This year's incongruous squad was head coach JOHN WOODEN's eighth championship team during his fifteen year reign at UCLA. Wooden has now had 28 straight winning seasons in basketball ranks, a fine record for Wooden, now understandably known as the "Wizard of Westwood."

TWO IN A ROW

UCLA's "Mr. Basketball", WALT HAZARD received national acclaim this season for his passing and ball handling antics, returns again next year.

For the second straight year, junior center FRED SLAUGHTER led the team in rebounds, was also the third leading scorer with a 10.9 percentage.

Highly touted sophomore standout at the guard slot, FRED GOSS started out slow, but finished the season with a flourish, twice being high team scorer.

Sophomore forward KEITH ERICKSON played well, and was third in team rebounds with a 6.1 per game average.

THE LOS ANGELES

UCLA 89

UTAH STATE 75

UCLA's preliminary contest was an even affair for most of the first half, but eventually the Bruin's superior depth wore the Aggies down and at halftime the margin was sixteen points. In the second stanza, Utah State narrowed the gap to a mere five, but following a strategic time out by Coach Wooden, the Bruins rallied and pelted the Aggies with four straight baskets by Jim Milhorn, Fred Slaughter, and two by Walt Hazzard. This, plus cinch support by Gail Goodrich and Fred Goss was just too much for the Aggies and the Bruins won their eighth game in a row.

WALT HAZZARD, shooting off the fast break most of the night, scored two consecutive baskets in the crucial moments of the second half against St. Louis, breaking the game wide open. Hazzard was chosen as one of the five making the all-tourney team.

UCLA 85
ST. LOUIS 66

UCLA fought out a nineteen point victory over St. Louis University in one of the roughest games of the roundball season. The Bills had periodic trouble finding the hoop, but Jim Milhorn didn't as the hustling guard was a driving, scoring force in the Bruins' semi-final surge. Billiken guard John Smith led his team's attack, but could not cope with the Bruins, also led by Walt Hazzard, and junior forward Jack Hirsch, the coup de grace was administered by UCLA.

KIM STEWART (34) lays it in for a crippler against the St. Louis Billikens. The semi-final win gave the Bruins the opportunity to meet the Colorado State Rams in the finals, the winner to determine the champion.

BASKETBALL CLASSIC

UCLA 68

COLORADO STATE 64

After three previous losses to the Colorado State Rams, the Bruins came through when it counted most by edging the Rams by four points to win the Classic cage crown. The contest was a seesaw affair, the score being knotted up five different times during the championship cage fest. High game scoring honors went to Colorado State's Bill Green with seventeen points. UCLA's Walt Hazzard was his team leader with ten points. The victory was the tenth in the row for the Bruins, who broke into the top five in the nation on the basis of their 12-2 standing.

The championship game with Colorado State was a see-saw affair with the Bruins coming out on top to take the cage crown. The outstanding player of the tournament, JOHN GREEN (24) was outstanding both offensively and defensively for the Rams.

CLASSIC CHAMPIONS

Sparked by senior guard Walt Hazzard, Coach John Wooden's cagers raced through three straight wins to sweep the series and capture their first crown in four attempts in the Los Angeles Basketball Classic held at the Sports Arena. Player of the tournament John Green led the Colorado State Rams to second place over the St. Louis Billikens. Northwestern Wildcats, Utah State Aggies, SC Trojans, Stanford Indians and Washington Huskies finished in order.

Team captain JIM MILHORN accepts the classic trophy, emblematic of victory, with head coach JOHN WOODEN. It was the first time the Bruins won the crown, having been unsuccessful on three prior occasions.

Immediately on the heels of their success in the Classic, UCLA snatched defeat from the jaws of victory, blowing two consecutive games to Washington and dropping into the AAU cellar. Only hitting a mere 25 and 34 per cent in the two games, the Bruins were not able to keep pace with the hot Huskies. However, in the third game, 20 point totals by Jack Hirsch and Walt Hazzard led the team to an easy win.

The Bruins made a clean sweep of the three game series with the California Bears, but not without a shade of doubt pervading the first game. For the first half, UCLA looked like the same team that played in the Washington debacle, but Walt Hazzard sparked the team on to their first AAWU victory. The play of Dave Waxman, Jim Milhorn, and Fred Goss highlighted the second win. The worst part about the third win was the post-game wait to hear the result of the Stanford-USC game.

UCLA continued their winning basketball ways against SC, taking two out of three from the league spoilers. Walt Hazzard led all scorers in the first two games, total 27 each night. The Bruin play was headlined also by Fred Slaughter whose tough and aggressive play effectively contained Trojan center Gordon Martin. In the third game, the Bruins blew a thirteen point halftime lead when the Trojans scored eleven straight points, tied the score, and then proceeded on to win the game.

With a feeling of helpless vexation, Stanford's TOM DOSE watches as FRED SLAUGHTER hoves up a sure bucket. Slaughter's containment of Dose in the playoff led to victory.

Forward JACK HIRSCH (50), playing the best basketball of his college career, scored fifteen points and was a defensive demon in the playoff victory.

Few fans will forget the excitement engendered by the Stanford series. After the Bruins dropped two games to the Indians in Palo Alto, all hopes of conference championship appeared to be obliterated, but UCLA kept their slim title hopes alive by taking the third game in the Santa Monica cabana. But, in order that UCLA tie for the crown, USC had to defeat Stanford the following night. The rest is history: USC's incredible win, the resulting tie for the crown, the climatic do or die grudge match and UCLA's fantastic playoff win for the AAWU title.

The playoff victory climaxed one of the most unusual seasons in UCLA cage history. UCLA came from nowhere to vicariously tie for the league title.

Coach JOHN WOODEN confers with guard and playmaker WALT HAZZARD.

WALT HAZZARD's 19 points in the playoff game led all game scorers.

WALT HAZZARD goes up to score in ill-fated game.

At the NCAA Regional Championships held at Provo, Utah, everything was fine until the Bruins ran into Arizona State in the first game. The red hot Sun Devils blistered the Bruins with a sweltering first half that saw them hit 19 of their first 21 shots and run up a 62 point halftime total. USF outlasted the Bruins in the second game to win by one point and UCLA wound up fourth in this important tournament.

NCAA REGIONALS

Every starter on this year's NCAA representative will return next season.

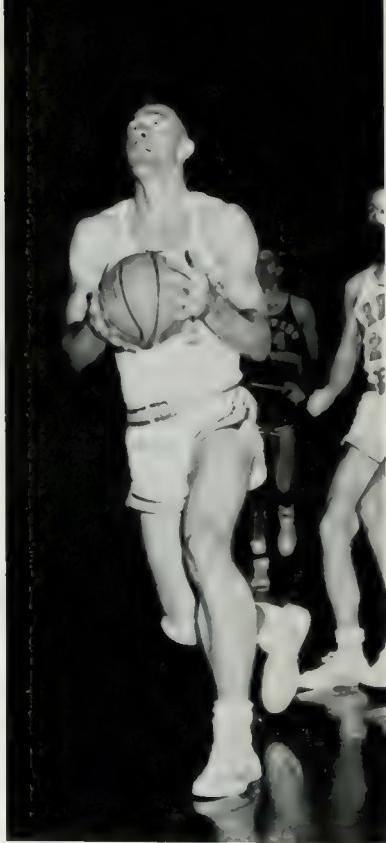

Soph RICH LEVIN showed promise hitting 14 out of 27.

MIKE HUGGINS was second on the team in freethrows, caging an even .700 per cent of all his charity tosses.

Senior DAVE WAKMAN very seldom missed a scoring opportunity as he saw a lot of action at forward and center.

Muscular KIM STEWART scored a season's high of 13 as the Bruins were being swamped by tough Arizona State.

A FLAIR FOR . . .

Assistant Coach BILL PUTMAN will be remembered for his part in the Bruin capture of the conference title.

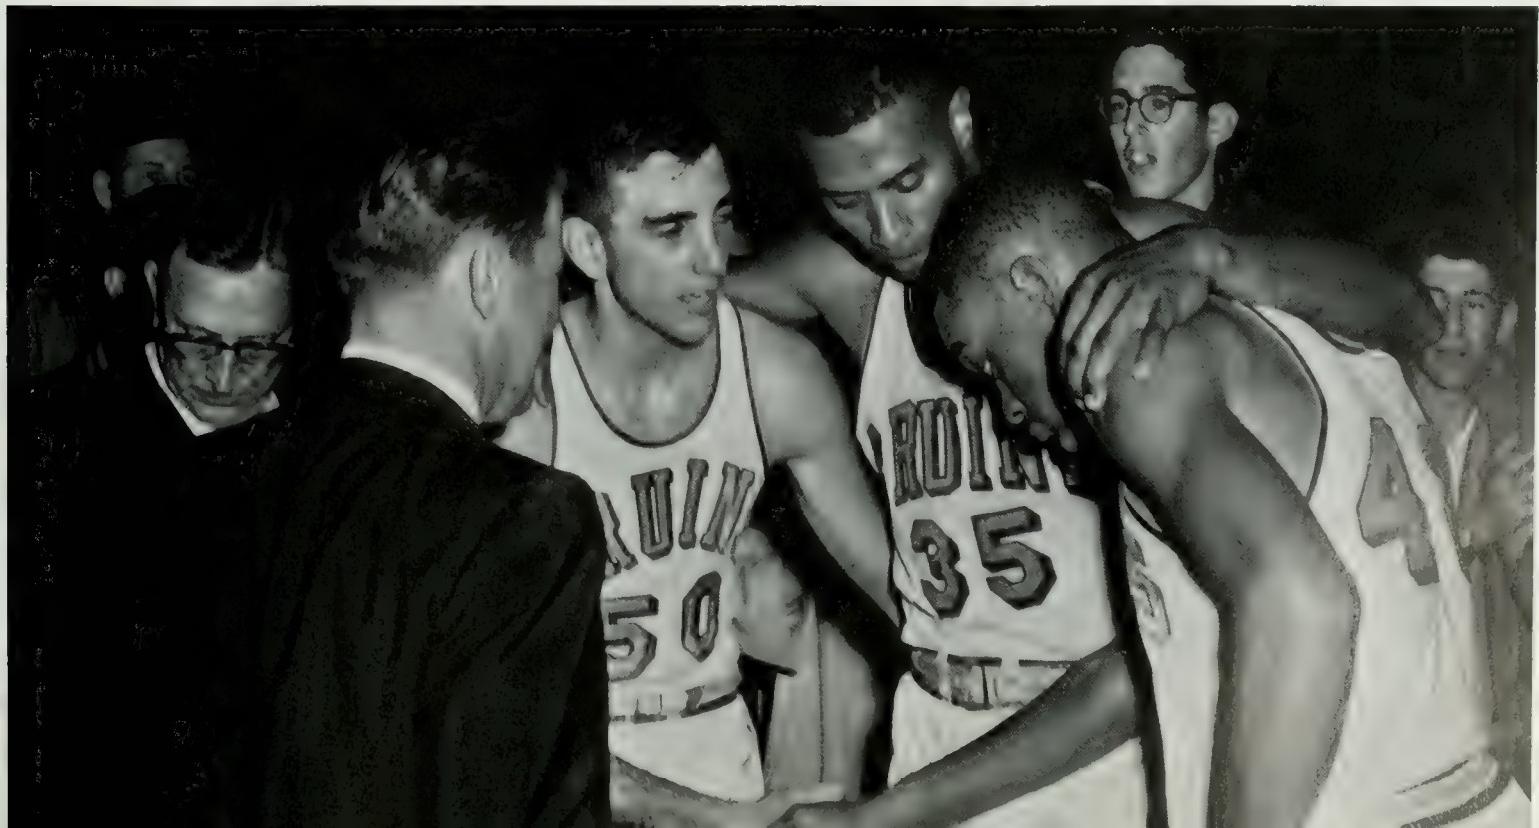

Rounding out the fine guard corps was LARRY GOWER, a hustling junior, used this season mostly for his defense.

THE UNUSUAL

UCLA basketball has always provided a flair of the old razzmatazz, from the vehemence of the contest, to the jubilation of victory, to the final culmination in exhaustion. This season was no exception. The playoff victory will ever symbolize UCLA's compelling come from behind spirit.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL

STEVE BRUCKER (52) was one of the outstanding forwards on this year's frosh club, which had it's sixth consecutive winning year.

This season's freshman basketball team offered stark contrast to last year's Brubabe squad. Whereas the big stars of last season's unbeaten club were guards Gail Goodrich and Fred Goss, this year's quintet reaped most of its scoring from the front line. And while they were not able to match the unbeaten season of 1962, the Brubabes did run up an envious 14-8 mark. The outstanding performer was lanky forward Kenny Washington from South Carolina. Washington led all scorers, hitting a 20.0 clip, and also was the leading rebounder with a 14.8 per game average. Other mainstays were forward Steve Brucker, making 12.0 points a game, and center Doug McIntosh, bucketing 11.0 points a game.

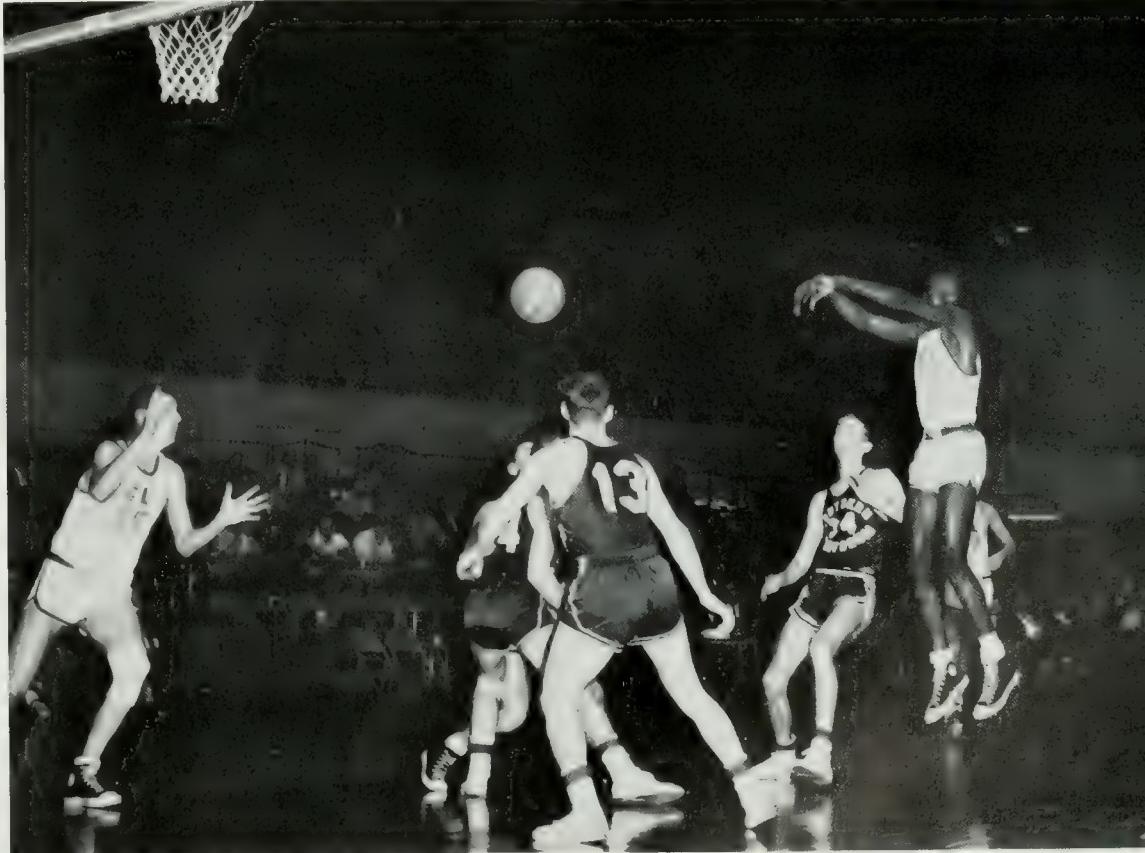

KENNY WASHINGTON (25) casts off from the outside. Washington was a valuable addition to Coach Norman's yearling squad. Norman, in six years, has won 94 and lost a mere 22 for a fine .810 percentage.

KEN WASHINGTON breaks away from his man to score an easy lay-in.

Faking several Trobabs into the popcorn machines, KEN WASHINGTON passes to DOUG MCINTOSH.

Members of the 1962 UCLA Cross Country squad were: top row (l to r), Head Coach Don Vick, Gerry Mavrinac, Gary Irving, Mickey McBain, Larry Cabasino, Tom Webb, Frank Atzet, and team manager Ed Hymson. Bottom row (l to r), Bob Day, Gene Comroe, Dave Carter, Dave Browda, John Betz, and Norm Codd. Every man returns next year except Webb, and Bob Jackson.

CROSS COUNTRY

Bruin and Trojan harriers begin the two mile trek, carrying them all the way to Veteran Avenue and back again.

FRANK ATZET, consistently the top performer for UCLA's cross countrymen, assumes the lead as the pack labors up the initial uphill climb. The course, covering two miles of rugged terrain, offers a variety of conditions.

The pack of runners are off at the crack of the gun and begin to fight for position. However, the harriers are soon strung out as they begin their long trek up around the dorms, down into the sub-tropical horticultural gardens along Veteran Avenue, past the herbaceous ecdisiasts, under the slowly undulating bifurcations, and finally thread their way into reality by gingerly skirting the Cricket purleus, carefully picking a course along the ski slope, and finally descending pendulously onto the driving range of the intramural field.

A relatively young but talented Cross Country squad ended up with one of the finest seasons in UCLA's harrier history. The Bruin runners perambulated to victory eight times, while losing only three, one to SC and two to Stanford. Frank Atzet was the first man in for UCLA every time except once, and captain Mickey McBain was also a consistent front runner. The season's highpoint occurred in the final meet of the year when Bruins, running on their own course, soundly whipped the SC team 23-36. A good season is in the offing next year as only two men, Tom Webb and Bob Jackson do not return. Freshmen who will be counted on heavily to produce in the future are performers Bob Day, Gerry Mavrinac, Dave Browda, John Betz, and Dave Carter.

The fatigued harrier accepts the place stick, symbolic of dedicated execution. Cross Country is one of the most demanding of all competitive endeavors as the distance runner, often by himself, is driven on only by intense native desire.

Members of the 1962 Soccer Team: top row, (l to r), coach "Jock" Stewart, Austin Esobeque, Rich Haas, Olu Ajibade, Gary Osterberg, Ulio Slazby, Gordon Chavanduka, John Medavoy, Norman Gjestland, Bill Dunwoodie, Ali Elgabri, Frank Meyer, and Frank Horowitz. The team lost its first game this year, after running up a long string of 83 straight victories.

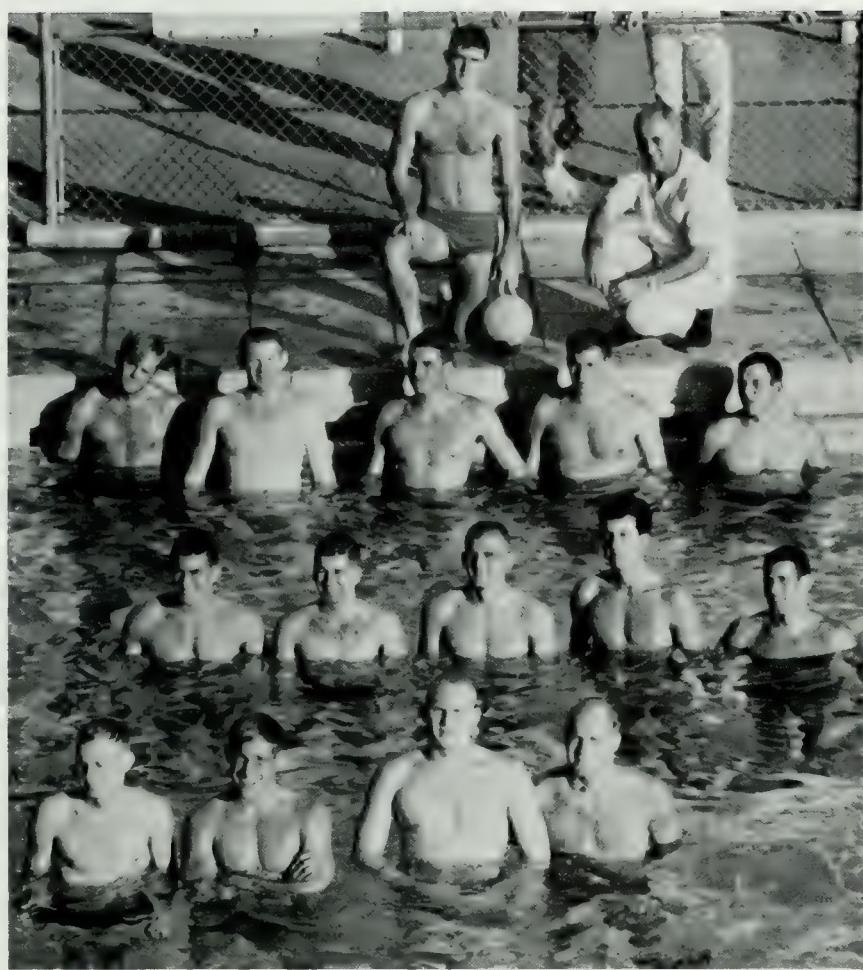

"JOCK" STEWART, flamboyant coach of UCLA soccer, possesses a remarkably consistent winning record. For the first time in six seasons, his team was second in league competition.

SOCCER

Consistency is the quality that best typifies coach Jock Stewart's teams. At the start of the season, his soccer teams had run up a remarkable string of 83 straight victories. Yet those who live by the sword die by the sword, and the squad lost this year to a tough Pomona team, 3-1. Although they beat Pomona in a return match, the Bruins finished second in league play with a 8-1-1 record. Revenge was acquired however, as in the annual All-Star game at the end of the season, the All-Stars, of whom seven were Bruins, soundly whipped the champion Pomona squad. Four players, Gary Osterberg, Rick Berger, Derrik Statt, and Bill Dunwoodie were All-Conference.

Soccer is of widespread popularity among the foreign students at UCLA, and has succeeded because eligibility is unrestricted, thus allowing graduate students to play.

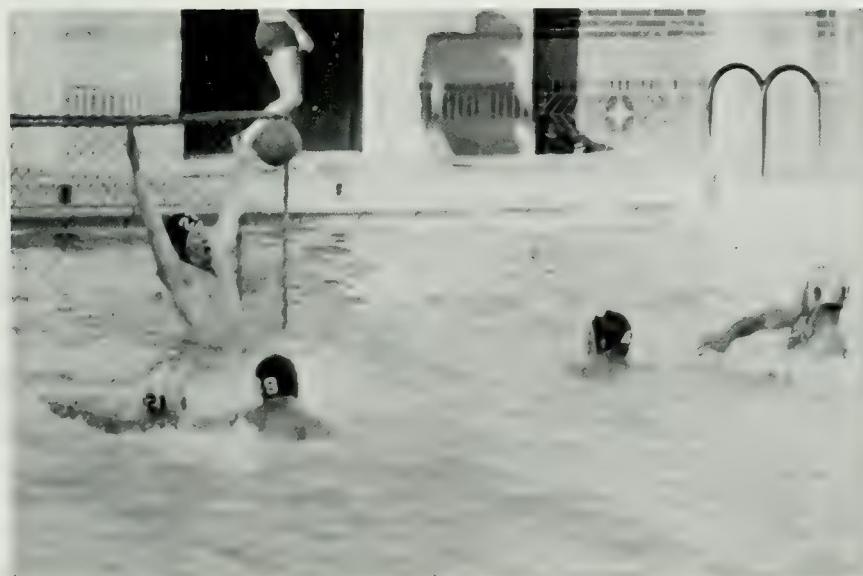

Members of the 1962 water polo team: top row, (l to r), Captain Dick Douglas, and Head Coach Jerry Astourian; third row: Al Doseberg, Don Korn, Mike Beltramo, Brian Forst, Chris Schafer; second row: Ken Meyer, Hunt Payne, Duncan Plasman, Trent Thomas, and Bruce Lucoff; first row: James Frautnick, Tom Landis, Dan Drown, and Fred Simpson. The highpoint of the season was overtime loss to USC.

A time out offers a chance to evaluate the team tactics and strategy and make needed corrections.

WATER POLO

Goalie DON KORN leaps high to make a brilliant save during a meet with Cal. The Bruin poloists split games with both Cal and Stanford, but lost two to SC.

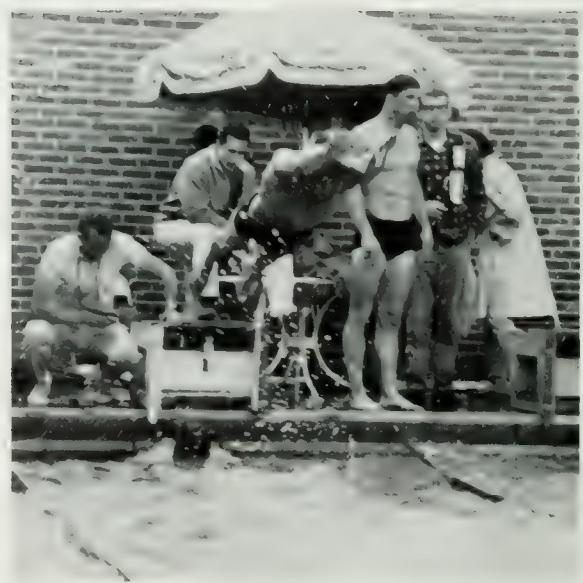

The 1962 water polo season at UCLA ended up as one of the finest in the school's history. Winding up with a better than .500 winning percentage, the Bruins placed third in the league with a 2-4 mark. The poloists split a two-game series with both Stanford and Cal, and although they dropped two to USC, the league champ, one loss was an overtime thriller in the Trojans' pool. Coach Jerry Astourian will lose five first string men in Dick Douglas, Brian Forst, Tom Landis, Chris Schafer, and Aldon Doseberg, but the return next year of Hunt Payne, Don Korn, and Dan Drown will form a solid nucleus bolstered by a number of outstanding freshmen.

SPRING SPORTS

Throughout the season, the Bruins' pitching was one of the main reasons for their success in close games.

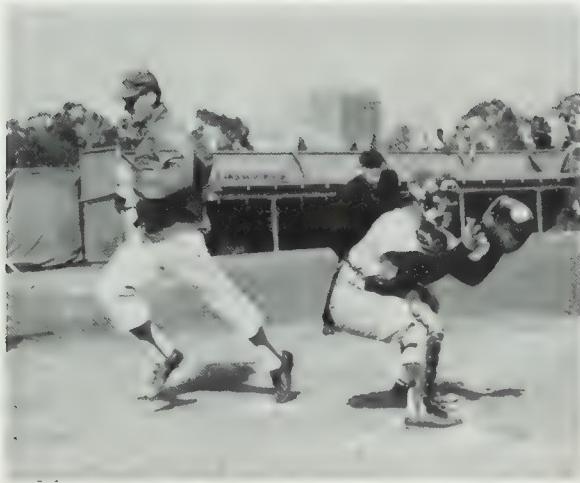

Third baseman BOB FLOYD slides across the plate, scoring for the Bruins in league competition.

UCLA can be justly proud of its fine baseball team of 1963. The Bruins had their greatest season in twenty years, finishing with a 30-17-2 mark. Ranked within the top ten collegiate baseball teams throughout the season, they took three out of four games from Arizona State, ranked second in the nation, and three out of four from USC, champs of the CIBA. The Bruins finished second by one game, the outcome being decided by a 13-inning loss to Stanford on the last weekend of the season. The year was highlighted by the selection of three Bruins, Tom Pederson, Ray Zak, and Randy Schwartz, to the All-Star team, and Schwartz's winning of the batting crown with a .388 average.

VARSITY BASEBALL

The CIBA batting champion, first baseman RANDY SCHWARTZ, belts a line drive. Only a sophomore, his awesome power and ability to hit in the clutch helped to score many runs.

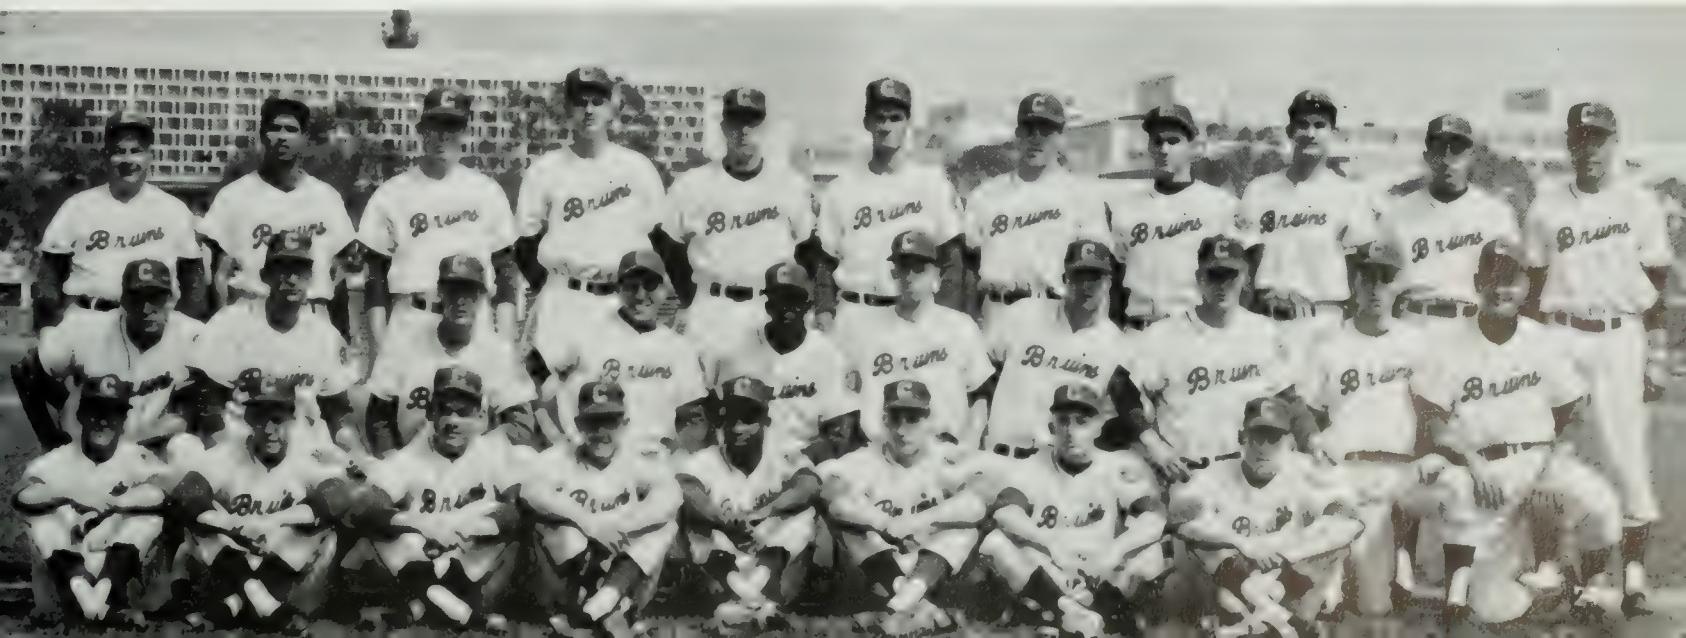

Although Bruin pitchers were notorious for stinginess on the mound, they scored their share of runs for the offense.

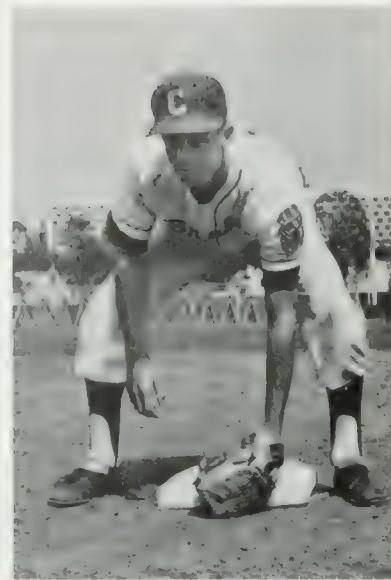

A conference at the mound between the manager and his players is not a mere formality; it is of vital importance to good baseball strategy.

CONSISTENT COMPETITORS

The Frosh team: (l to r), Dennis Sniderman, John Van, Mike Allio, Chuck Blazek, Russ Keefer, Jim Colletto, Ronnie Barr, Al Perry, Gary Harmon, Richard Reital, Chuck McGinnis, Larry Cox, Paul Bershin, Mike Mulvani, and Head Coach Scott O'Leary.

FROSH BASEBALL

Coach "SCOOTER" O'LEARY found the days got longer as the season wore on.

Under the guidance of former varsity catcher Scott O'Leary, the Brubabe horsehiders posted a 4-12 mark on Sawtelle field. Along with the dismal percentage, the Frosh were forced to accept the macabre fate of dropping five games to the Trojan frosh and having the Varsity come from behind in the ninth to win the annual Frosh-Varsity tussle 2-1. However, the play of several Brubabes indicated future varsity competition. Jim Colletto proved to be an able backstop and hit over .500. John Van, Al Perry, Chuck Blazek, and Dick Reital also shone.

Frosh baseball fortunes hit a low ebb when they blew a game to the Varsity.

CREW

The first stroke is the key to victory. He sets the vital stroking pace of the shell.

The 1963 rowing season was the finest in the Crew's short history. Starting off the season with a defeat to always tough California, the oarsmen stroked their way to four consecutive wins over Oregon State, Stanford, San Diego State, and USC and eventually wound up the season with a 4-3 slate. The highlight of the year was winning the Harbach Regatta by whipping Stanford and USC, thus ending Stanford's eight year reign over the trophy. The Bruins also posted their best time ever when they stroked the 2,000 meter course at Ballona Creek in a record 5:59.7.

FENCING

In their first competitive season, the Bruins' fine 11-1 record was the best on the west coast.

The art of fencing, one of the last remaining sports of true physical jest, staged its first competitive season this year at UCLA. Led by Coach Mel North and headlined by Mike Neery, team captain, the team compiled an amazing 11-1 record. In the NCAA championships, the Bruins, the youngest team present, finished sixteenth out of twenty-seven. Only in the embryonic stage, the Bruins' fine showing earmarks it as one of the top teams in the nation.

Captain CLIFF DAVIS confers with coach VIC KELLY on the course, the Bel Air Country Club.

GOLF

Captain CLIFF DAVIS defeated every top man in AAWU competition.

A senior who will be sorely missed next season, JOE HORACEK teamed up with Cliff Davis to lead the Bruins. A critical factor in the team's inauspicious showing was the lack of depth.

Coach RALPH BORELLI and the team captain SAM HASEGAWA discuss the past performances in preparing the team lineup. The sidehorse was Hasegawa's specialty.

Team: top row, (l to r), S. Greenstein, P. Jacobs, D. Johnson, D. Acker, R. Rempt, D. Tashiro, and B. Ida. Bottom row: D. Soule, N. Rapoport, S. Hasegawa, coach R. Borelli, J. Brandt, D. Bramson, and D. Favor.

GYMNASICS

Coach Ralph Borelli's gymnasts ended their year with a won one, lost nine mark. Despite the indigent showing, several men performed well against all league competition. The top gymnast for the Bruins was Sam Hasegawa, who placed first in the free exercise in the Big Six championships and scored fifteen points in the NCAA meet, enough to rank UCLA eighth among major colleges. John Brandt was the AAWU champion in the trampoline, while Neil Rapoport and Gary Tarr were consistent point getters for the Bruin squad.

Gymnastics offers a flair of esoteric endeavor. Although the competitive spirit often appears ephemeral, months of intensive practice lie behind all performances. Individual effort is perhaps the most satisfying.

JOHN BRANDT shows the form that led to championship approbation.

Cricket Team: top row, (l to r), Jerry Thompson, John Forestal, Coach Joe Drury, Sridhar Subrahmanyam, Lyndon Culiner. Bottom: Greg Garratt, Ian Gordon, Stonewaller Jim Church, Norm Gjestland, and Dave Philips.

Captain SRIDHAR SUBRAHMANYAM and Coach DRURY confer on Cricket purlieus.

CRICKET

Out on the Cricket purlieus, strong stonewalling and bowling were the key reasons behind the success of Joe Drury's Cricket Team. Pitted against opponents from the tough Southern California Cricket Association, the Bruins, led by Captain Sridhar Subrahmanyam, posted a won two, lost two, drew two record. Victories were recorded against Santa Barbara and Cal Tech, while the team drew with the always formidable Westwood Cricket Club. The squad's outstanding bowler and batsman, Ian Gordon, was consistently a top performer. Norm Gjestland, John Forestal, Dave Philips, and wicketkeeper Church were also consistent competitors.

1964 will mark the Thirtieth anniversary of Cricket on the UCLA campus, and will be the Bruins' first time in a collegiate Cricket league.

RUGBY

The Bruin Rugbymen completed an excellent season in the Far Western Rugby Association, compiling a 6-5 record. Notable wins were recorded over British Columbia and California. Top performers included backfieldmen Peter Nicklin, Tom Sandor, Ken Gunn, Bill Dunwoodie, and Tony Wilson. Looking to next year's team, UCLA will be somewhat weak in the forward position, but the backfield will remain strong with the return of Nicklin and Wilson imminent.

Next season, the Ruggers will be playing their first advance schedule. The program allows room for coaches to make provisions for opponents during the year.

RIFLE

Team Captain GAY GALIHER and BURTON IPP led riflemen.

This was the first year that Rifle Team participated in the National Intercollegiate Rifle and Pistol League. By first shooting and then mailing in the results to the league office, the squad was able to compete with fifty-two universities over the entire nation. Season highs of 296 by Burton Ipp and 294 by Gay Galiher were instrumental in the Bruins recording a 26-26 record. Galiher had the high season average of 284 and Steve Graham followed with an excellent 282. Graham, Erwin Brauer, and Dick Snow return as nuclei for next year's squad.

WRESTLING

RAHIM JAVANMARD, unbeaten in league competition, was awarded the trophy for the most pins at the NCAA tourney.

Success has once again returned to wrestling at UCLA as coach Briggs Hunt's matmen ran up a 13-2 record this year. The grapplers lost only to the Air Force and Cal Poly. John Arnold, Don Matson, Rahim Javanmard, and Gary Scrivess all represented UCLA at the NCAA championships, and finished in fifteenth place with Rahim garnering All-American honors. Next year the team should be even stronger as all of the men return and an outstanding freshman team graduates several promising matmen up into the ranks.

CLIFFORD TANAMACHI was one of the consistent wrestlers on the 1962 squad.

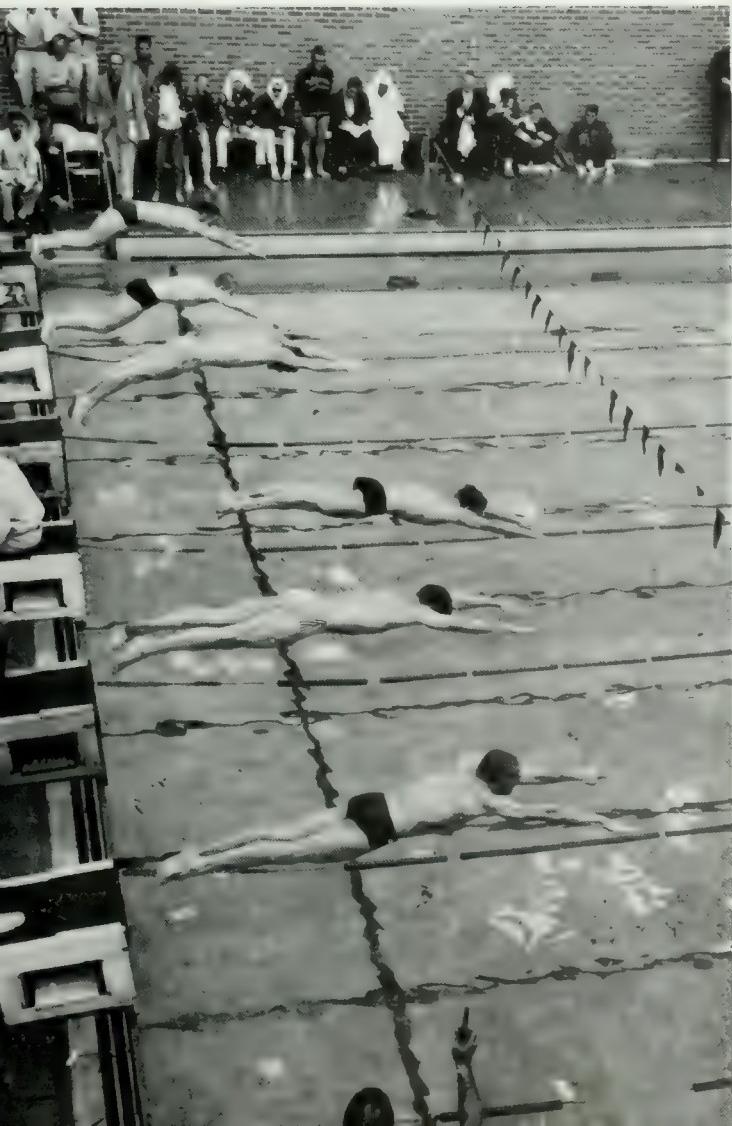

TOM LANDIS, team captain, participated in the NCAA meet.

SWIMMING

Although the Bruin swimmers finished at the bottom of the league with an 0-4 record, the season was highlighted by a second place finish in the first annual All-Cal Championships. Almost every school mark was broken this year with Dick Douglas leading the onslaught and recording times of 50.8 in the 100 freestyle and 2:09 in the 200 yard individual medley. Three Bruins, Daniel Drown, Dick Douglas, and Kirby Weedin took places in the All-Conference Championships with Weedin easing into a tight second place in lowboard diving.

Constant practice in the racing dive can result in the margin of victory in a short distance race.

Sophomores ARTHUR ASHE and CHARLES PASARELL loom as two of the greatest players in the country. Earlier this year, Pasarell upset Chuck McKinley, the nation's top netter, and Ashe beat Ham Richardson, the country's third ranked tennis player.

Seating over 1,500, UCLA's new tennis plant of eleven championship courts must be considered one of the finest in the entire nation.

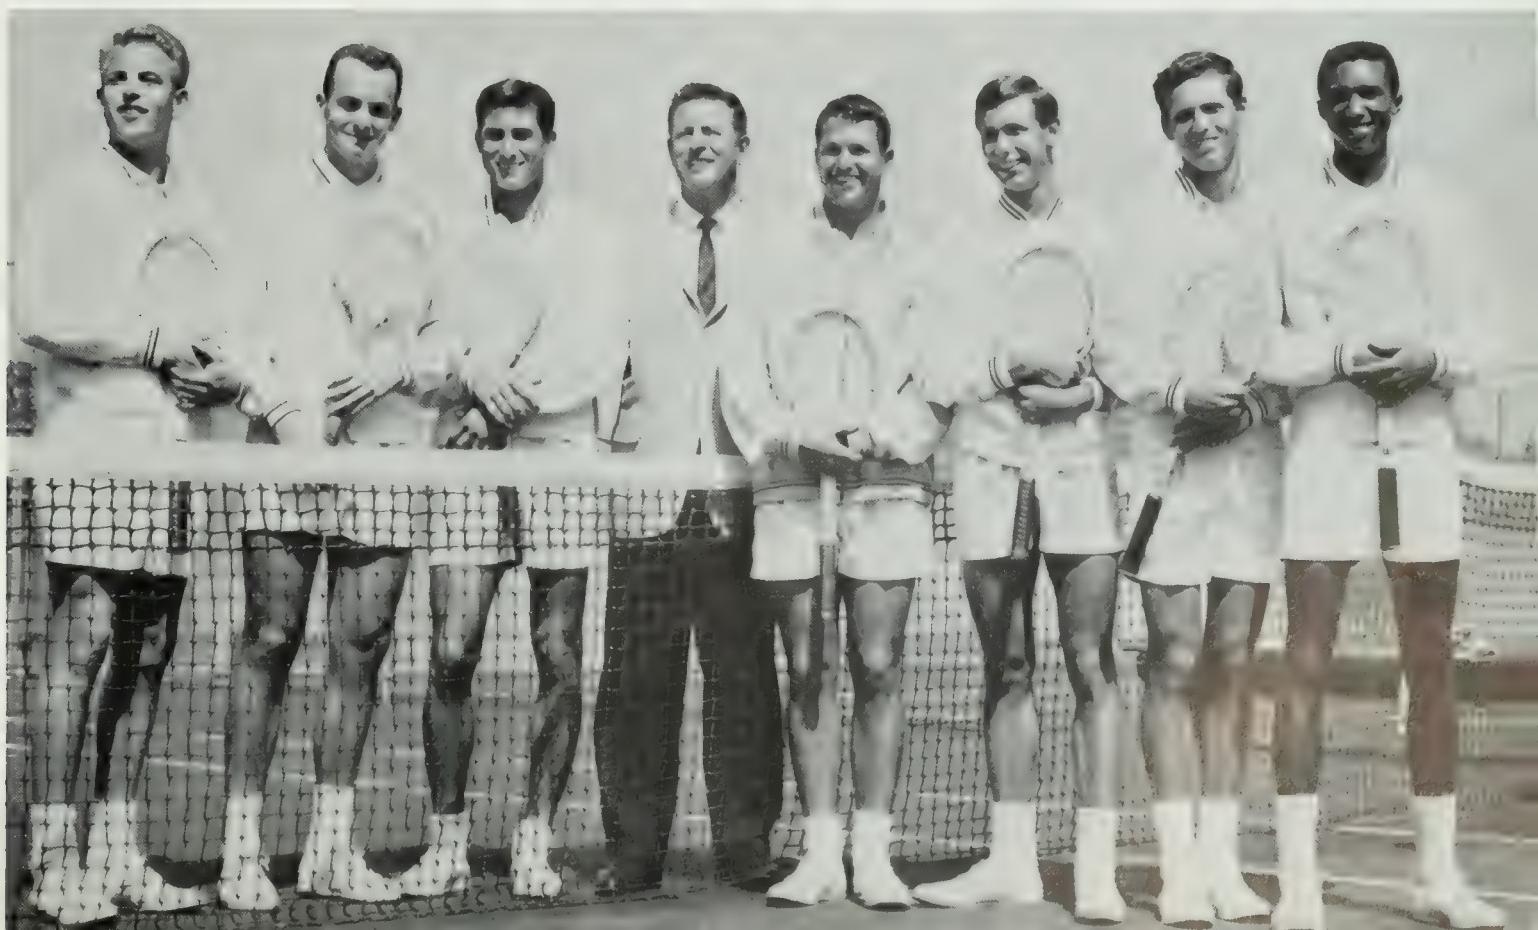

The 1963 Tennis team was truly one of the greatest in UCLA history. Winning nine matches while losing only two, both to the University of Southern California, the nation's top team, the Bruin netters were ranked second nationally. Led by sophomores Charlie Pasarell and Arthur Ashe, they swept the first annual all-Cal tourney, with Ashe taking singles and the Pasarell-Ashe combination taking doubles. Ashe also swept the singles event in the annual Southern California Intercollegiate Championships. A young team with four proficient and talented sophomores, the Bruin squad, under coach J. D. Morgan, was adept at every position. Two of them, Pasarell and Ashe, were nominated for the Davis Cup team.

ARTHUR ASHE has been tabbed as the finest young prospect in the game.

UCLA's Volleyball Team enjoyed its greatest season since 1954. Victorious in the Far Western Regionals, they traveled to San Antonio for the national championships and emerged as the nation's second ranked team behind SMCC. Three players — Jim Adamoli, John Carmac, and Al Scates received first team berths on the All-American sextet, and Steve Drummy was tabbed for honorable mention. Prior to the nationals, the Bruins held the first annual UCLA Collegiate Invitational Tournament, in which they defeated SMCC to be the first tourney champions.

Recording his best time ever, 9.4, LEN DODSON (left) upset Oxy's great sprint star STEVE HAAS early in the campaign.

VARSITY TRACK

Sophomore DAN GHORMLEY (second from left) looms as a star in the 120-yard high hurdles with a fine clocking this year of 14.4.

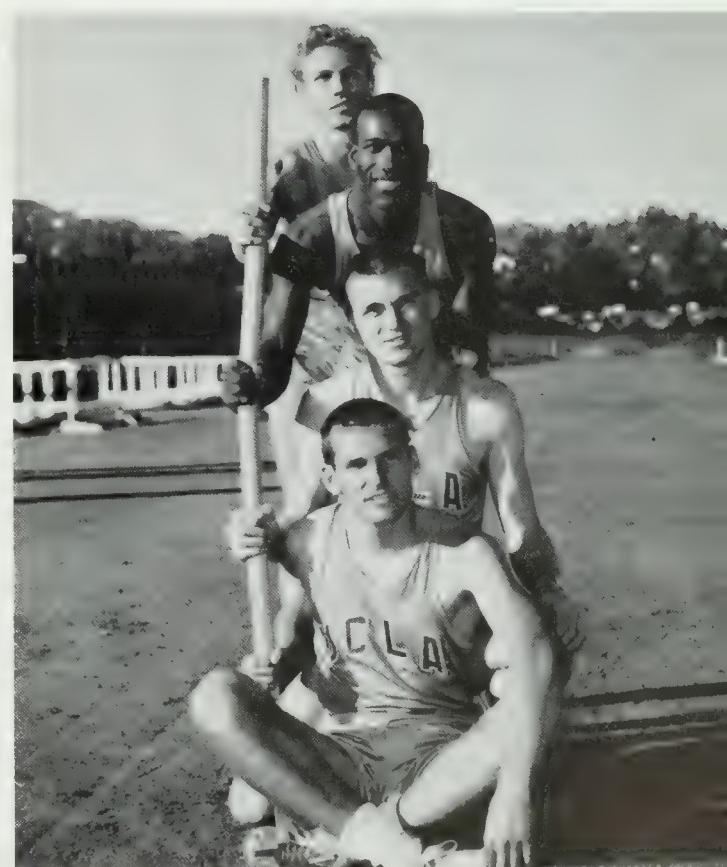

Captains ARNOLD TRIPP and C. K. YANG confer with Head Track Coach "DUCKY" DRAKE about practice schedule.

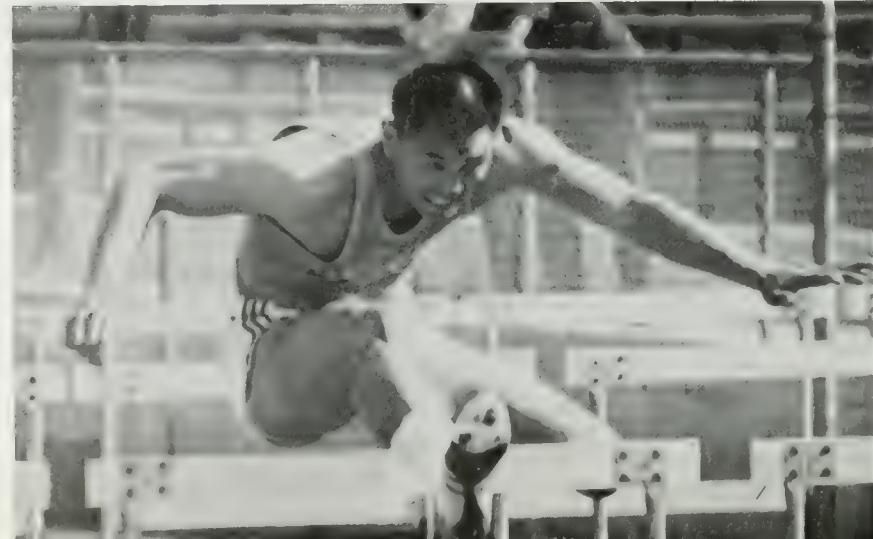

Occidental tracksters take the lead in the mile relay after the third baton pass of a triangular meet in which Stanford also participated.

Already lacking in depth at the start of the season, the Bruin tracksters were constantly plagued by recurrent and untimely injuries and had to struggle through an 0-4 season, climaxed by a 99-46 loss to SC. Quartermiler Dave Parsely, with a lifetime best of 46.8, was forced to bow out because of various ailments. Sprinter Arnold Tripp was hampered by a bad leg all season long. Sprinter Len Dodson, who was beginning to show signs of greatness with clockings of 9.6, 20.9, and 46.9 to his credit, was suddenly hit by a leg injury. Even C. K. Yang, although enjoying his greatest season, was bothered by leg cramps periodically throughout the campaign. However, there were several outstanding performances. Tom Webb achieved his all-time best with a 4:07.1 clocking in the mile, and Frank Atzet traveled the two mile distance in a fine time of 9:30.8.

The original mile relay squad: (front to rear) DALE STURDAVANT, ARNOLD TRIPP, ART STUBBS, and on top, DAVE PARSLEY.

LEN DODSON hits the tape after recording a 46.9 in his leg of the mile relay. A leg injury later hampered his effectiveness.

His coach and trainer, "Ducky" Drake, calls him the "greatest athlete in the world," quite an accolade from a man who coached Rafer Johnson to greatness. Participating in as many as six events a meet, he often scored a third or more of his team's total points. The first time he ever pole vaulted indoors, he established a world's record of 16' 3 $\frac{1}{4}$ ". In April, Chuan Kwang Yang became the first man in history to score 9,000 points in the Decathlon. Yang is the world's greatest athlete.

The highlight of the frosh year was drubbing SC.

Frosh vaulter MIKE LINDSAY set a new Brubabe standard of 14'8".

FRESHMAN TRACK

Ending the year with an 80-63 victory over the USC Freshmen, and a 9-2 record, Coach Don Vick's Brubabe spikers had a highly successful season. The outstanding competitive performance came in the meet with the Trojans, when Bobby Day completed the mile in a fantastic 4:05.7, a mere .9 of a second off the national freshman record. Day has the potential of being one of America's great milers. Another frosh record was set when Mike Lindsay pole vaulted 14' 8" and shattered the Brubabe mark. Other notable standards were achieved as Gerry Mavrinac ran a 48.1 relay leg and Dennis Breckow turned in a fine 1:51.4 half mile, also part of a relay.

A COMPLEX CATALYST OF GROWTH

The administration complex, far from the physical center of the campus, still remains the hub of all wheels. Here in a maze of tapes and punch cards, all but the actual physical being of each student has been extracted and recorded. Seldom seen by others, these whirring monsters and their masters constantly scrutinize and interpolate. What lies exposed is by definition, the individual. An individual multiplied and mediated, then gently matriculated by computer.

CONFEDERATES TO . . .

Personable Dean of Students BYRON H. "BARNEY" ATKINSON serves as the linkage between student and administrative opinion.

Though sometimes perturbed by student pranks, A. T. "AD" BRUGGER has nevertheless remained a composed Dean of Men.

Dean of Women NOLA STARK-CAVETTE has the capacity to mediate the discrepancy between mitigation and legislation.

The initial purpose for the three administrative deans is the maintenance of close contact with the student body. In order that they might ascertain the foremost campus problems, the deans actively participate in a myriad of student functions on campus, while their offices remain open at all times so that the desires and dilemma of the students may be discussed. Dean Atkinson has gained a reputation for his excellent advice on the correlation of rigid administrative policy and student group activity, thus insuring good relations. Well known on campus because of unceasing work with individual students in varied UCLA functions is the popular Dean of Men A. T. "Ad" Brugger. Certainly no less well liked is Dean Cavette, who invests much time and effort in many coed groups. It is the goal of these three to give adequate individual guidance resulting in the greatest personal advancement, while avoiding limitation of initiative.

THE CHANCELLOR

Much of the incentive for progress comes from Vice Chancellor of Planning WILLIAM G. YOUNG.

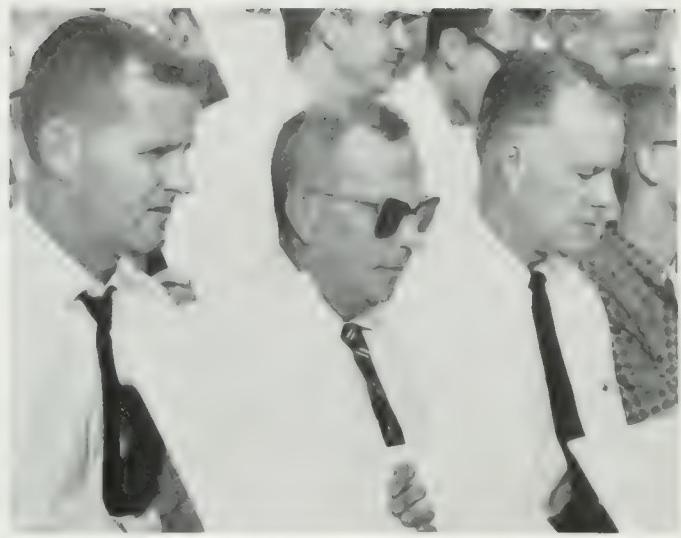

A moved from Medical School Dean to Vice Chancellor of Health Sciences feathered the cap of STAFFORD L. WARREN.

The difficulties involved in operating a university comparable in size to UCLA are not generally realized by the student. The immense responsibility of administering the many problems of the university falls mainly on the shoulders of the Vice-Chancellors, who serve as chief executive assistants. It is the endeavor of these officials to coordinate administrative, clerical, and budgetary affairs and produce greater efficacy of operation. As our campus continues to expand both physically and academically, it will also be their responsibility to meet the demands of ever increasing requirements. These men behind-the-scenes deserve much of the credit for the unique progress this school has made in several new fields, and its continuing high standards in existing departments.

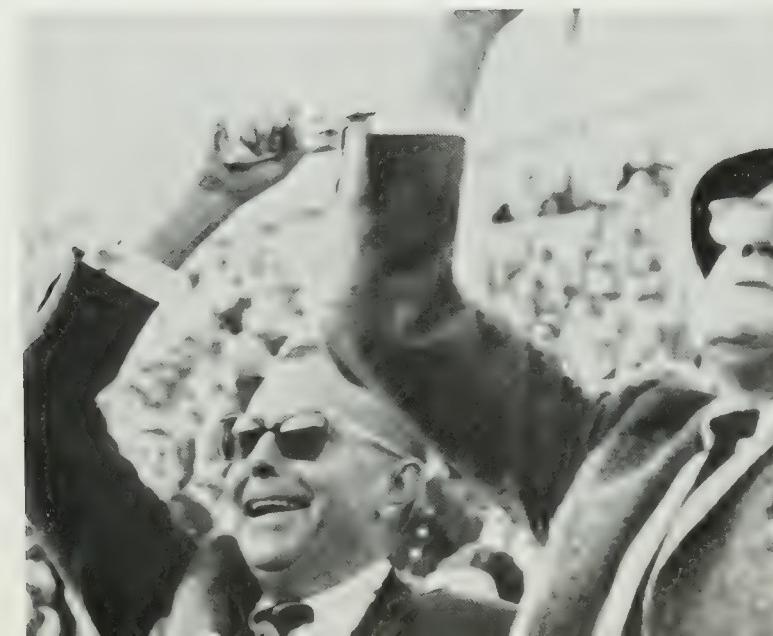

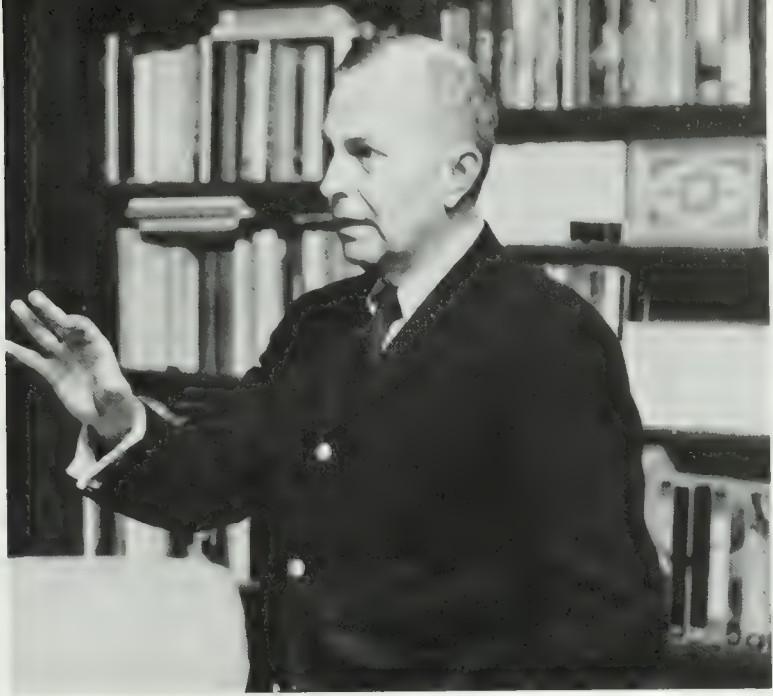

Second only to the Chancellor is FOSTER SHERWOOD, Vice Chancellor of Academic affairs.

"It is obvious that, for an institution still in a dynamic state of quantitative and qualitative growth . . . a Master Plan cannot be regarded as being cast in concrete but must be viewed as a general road map, inevitably bound to be followed down through the years." In his own terse way with words, Chancellor Franklin D. Murphy makes known the course his ship and crew are to follow. To Murphy, the role of transition lies not so much in physical progress as in directional conceptualization, orientated within academic climate and teleological design. Still, suggests Murphy, a university has indigenous views which must maintain a separate autonomy.

CHANCELLOR FRANKLIN D. MURPHY

REGENT GERALD HAGAR
CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD

For the nine campus University of California, the Board of Regents serves as the actual governing board. While the Governor of the State rules as ex-officio President for the Board, the regents each year select from among their own members one who will serve in the actual capacity of Chairman. As a functioning body, Regents have appointed the University's President to serve as executive head. It is with the advice of the President that the further appointments of chancellors, provosts, directors, and deans are made, and it is then the combination of these officials who are to administer and coordinate the affairs of the individual campuses and make the University's policy-determining decisions.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA PRESIDENT CLARK KERR

PRESIDENT OF THE UNIVERSITY

The twelfth president of the University of California since its 1868 inception, Clark Kerr succeeded Robert Gordon Sproul in the post in July, 1958, having served previously as Chancellor of the Berkeley campus for six years. Kerr earned his A.B. degree at Swarthmore College in Pennsylvania, his M.A. at Stanford, and his Ph.D. at the University of California, Berkeley. He is a professor of industrial relations, a field in which he has served as an arbitrator for a myriad of industries. In his presidential capacity, Kerr administers policy for the world's largest university—nine campuses, research stations, and extension centers in all of 70 California locations, and Agricultural Extension Service with more than 50 farm and home-advisor offices throughout the State, 4,600 full-time instructors, and 52,346 full-time students, a complexity which is almost impossible to equal.

SOUTHERN CAMPUS FACULTY AWARDS

Too often, the embryonic adult, overwhelmed by the awesome physical size of the UCLA colossus and the onerous task of absorbing the requisite amount of knowledge, becomes a mere receptacle for information, and when appropriately shaken will spew it forth exactly as swallowed. Unidentified, swept along with the swarm of students, he is dulled by repetitious material and often lacks the vital dialogue necessary to the growth of intellectual curiosity. Occasionally out of the morass of institutionalism rise certain teachers who through inspired brilliance, not only in their field but also in the classroom, distinguish themselves and their students by stimulating and encouraging them to go beyond basic classroom requirement. Southern Campus, in an effort to recognize at least a portion of these teachers, gives annual awards to those instructors who, through outstanding ability and communication with the student have awakened him, stimulating and pushing him beyond the rudimentary accumulation of facts, and who have left him with an inquisitive intellect.

The university, as soft-spoken MORRIS ASIMOW sees it, should be a constructive force, always assorting and expanding knowledge in order to transmit it to the next generation. Feeling that an education ought to assist a student in visualizing the entire spectrum of experience and aided by a broad background in industry, engineering professor Asimow effectively translated his philosophy into action by organizing Project Brazil. The program sent an interdepartmental team of graduate students to Brazil to study feasibility of small, local industry. Enthusiastic Brazilians, aided by the team, have raised the requisite capital and have already begun construction.

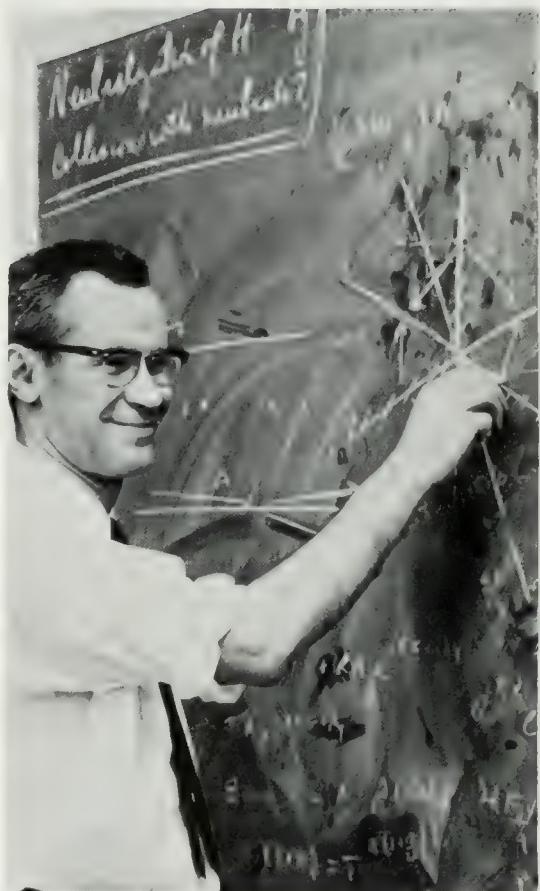

History Professor MARK CURTIS points out that university education should produce a well-rounded (in the best sense of the word) and disciplined individual. He feels that an education should prepare the individual for a full life, professionally and intellectually, and that a student's study should not cease with his baccalaureate. Contiguous with self-education as basic purpose of the university is the constant advancement of understanding through research into all aspects of knowledge. Camper, fly fisherman, and author, Dr. Curtis' recent publication of Oxford and Cambridge in Transition reflects an avid interest in scholastic complexities of the Tudor period.

Carpentry and metabolism of micro-organisms are Zoology professor BLAINE LEVEDAHL's two avocations when he is not in a classroom. In his easy and convivial manner he strives to provoke and challenge his students. A continued interest in the student without as well as within classrooms has occupied him in advising and guiding student leaders on both Board of Control and the Student Legislative Council. Dr. Levedahl feels that while the university exposes the student to his environment and provides a testing ground for new ideas, it should imbue students with a maximum amount of mental discipline and teach the organization of thought into logical patterns.

As a consultant to the Secretary of Defense, political scientist ROBERT NEUMANN brings reality a little closer to the student of government. His past experience in all modes of government enables him to offer sharp insight to the often ambiguous twistings of foreign and/or domestic administrations. Neumann does not spoon feed his students; he considers them adults and regards his task of teaching as primarily one of exposure. No pedant, he lectures easily and wittily in conversational manner. Although his various positions at UCLA and in government keep him constantly busy, he finds time to do some mountain climbing and revise his personal texts.

The esoteric subject of theoretical nuclear physics is very much a special interest to DAVID SAXON, physics professor. Endeavoring to give the student a sense of physics as a vital and living area of knowledge, Saxon believes that the fundamental of teaching lies in effective communication. Teaching, as one of the basic methods by which education is imparted, should transcend the simple relation of details and teach the student how to learn. During the sixteen years he has spent at UCLA, Saxon has stimulated his students beyond the basic requirements. Unpretentious and unassuming, Dr. Saxon is the recipient of the highly coveted Guggenheim and Fullbright fellowships.

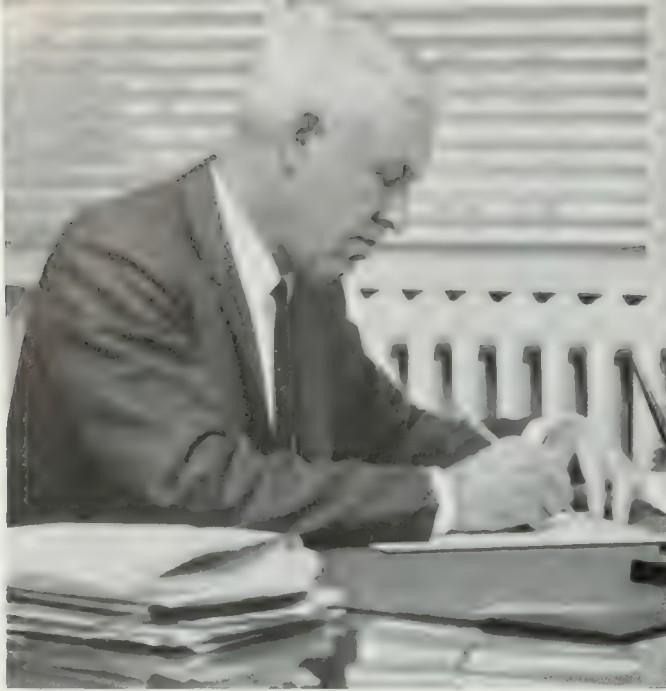

A veteran of some 19 years of UCLA classroom warfare, CHARLES SCHROEDER, botany professor in the captivating subject of plant morphology, likes to amuse both self and family with camping excursions south of the border. A graduate of UCLA, Dr. Schroeder instills an appreciation for the relationship of plants and man. The purpose of the university, as he sees it, is learning to use the tools that education supplies for the student. A sincere and humble individual, Schroeder has participated in a UNESCO program of assistance for Indian farmers, and shortly will lay course for New Zealand, taking advantage of his Fullbright Scholarship.

Endowed with an ability to transform what can be a very dull subject into a very exciting one, RAYMOND REDHEFFER, mathematics professor, is in steady demand as a popular lecturer in educational institutions of the area. If math appeals to a student, he feels that it will be much easier for the student to grasp. As a result of this philosophy, Dr. Redheffer has utilized some absorbing and unique teaching methods. In his field of mathematical analysis, he has distinguished himself with his wide publications and a visiting professorship at the University of Berlin. An avid do-it-yourselfer, he can be regularly seen swimming laps in the men's pool.

DR. SAUL WINSTEIN of the Department of Chemistry devotes his academic time to a specialization in physical-organics, a situation which has had obvious influence in his demanding philosophy of perseverance. A stimulator of contiguous thought in the classroom as well as in his laboratory, Winstein utilizes the university as the catalyst for thought and achievement, a fact to which his students will well attest. While most would expect that intellectualism demands a foreboding austerity in the personality, Saul Winstein pursues the tripping of the light fantastic in form of swing dance, no subtle contrast to the regimented organization of mental patterns.

DEAN S. H. CAMERON analyzes aspects of the coming transfer.

Professor MILDRED MATHIAS, Botany Division chief, takes interest in possible departmental expansion.

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

The College of Agriculture, one of the smallest schools on the UCLA campus, continues to draw students because of its high academic standards. An important part of the state Division of Agricultural Sciences, this local group operates an experimental research station, which is now in the later stages of completing technical research on "coated" fertilizers. Agriculture, now in the process of being phased out at UCLA, is gradually being transferred to other campuses because of the decrease in its relative importance here. To partially implement the program, the Department of Botany was transplanted last July into the College of Letters and Science, where a neoteric department of botanical science and plant biochemistry is being developed.

Research in the Department of Plant Nutrition occupies the free time of Department Head ARTHUR WALLACE.

Progress on the farms is closely paralleled with a wealth of advanced knowledge developed by research scientists, exemplified by UCLA students working in agricultural laboratories and the campus greenhouse. The student who has completed his studies in the college is exceptionally well prepared for diverse positions with institutions and industries closely allied with the agricultural sciences.

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

Its structure being unified into a single curriculum with no departmental divisions, the College of Engineering at UCLA is one of the two colleges with this type program now accredited by the Engineering Council of Technical Development. The school now stresses the basic engineering sciences, a practice which leaves sufficient room for a well-prepared major. Scholastic curriculum available to the engineering student is excellent for the aerospace industry located in Southern California, and provides the graduate with a more-than-adequate preparation.

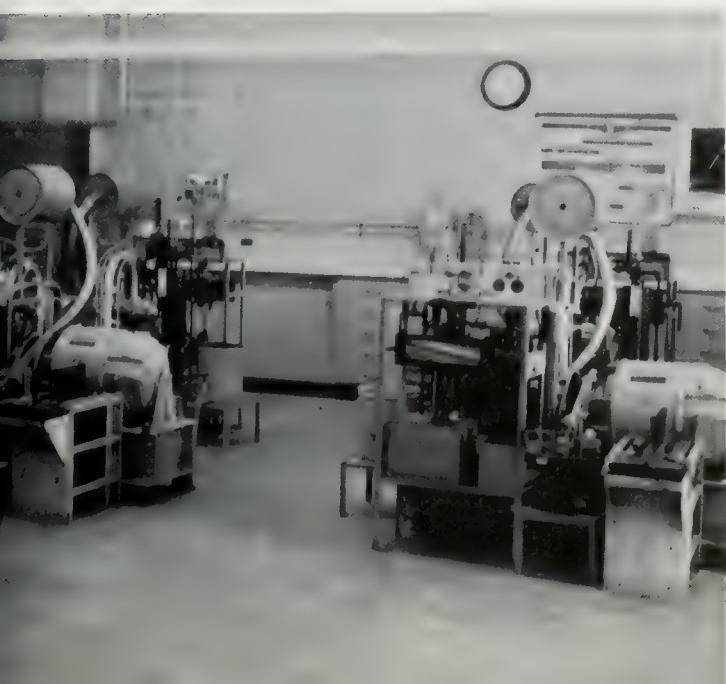

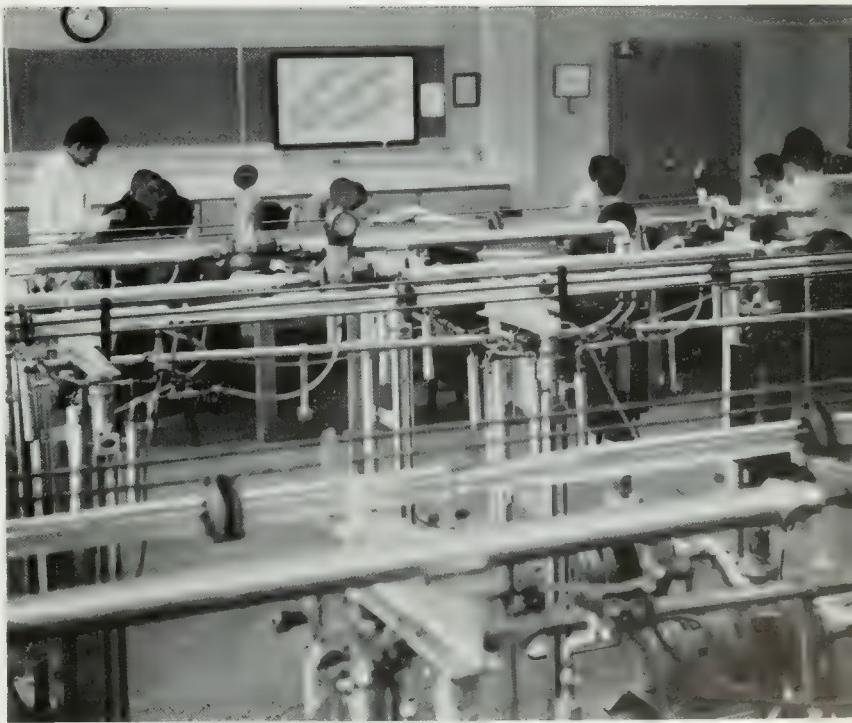

DEAN L. M. BOELTER supervises the ever-enlarging program.

Ever expanding in magnitude, the College of Engineering recently moved into its new third unit. Many classes and facilities have now been permanently quartered, as aptly exemplified by the newest of the freshman and sophomore laboratories. With the sorely needed addition of eight new professors and the prophecy that the faculty would again increase by one half, the school, with enrollment continuing to enlarge, has defied the national trend.

SCHOOL OF FINE ARTS

WILLIAM F. MELNITZ
DEAN OF THE SCHOOL OF FINE ARTS.

DR. ROBERT TROTTER has capitalized on his musical talent to become a much respected Chairman of the Music Department.

MUSIC

Though the Department of Music presupposes a basic knowledge of musical fundamentals and an ability to read music, some students are talented enough to utilize a "learn while they earn" and "practice makes perfect" program. In accordance with all over quality in the College of Fine Arts, the Music Department boasts one of the finest faculty lists on the Pacific Coast, and indeed in all the nation. The resultant of such a mixture of talent in both student and faculty personnel has made UCLA a top musical school.

Both the interior and exterior of Schoenberg Hall reflect a pre-planned strategy of eminence. Murals, busts, and renowned displays decorate both walls and halls giving ample illustration of a cultural consideration. The building takes its cognomen from the late and great 20th century composer of music.

ART

FRED WIGHT
ACTING CHAIRMAN ART DEPARTMENT

The judicious combination of technical proficiency with an intellectual approach to the subject matter is the challenging task of the Art Department. Based on the philosophy that the graduating art student should not only have a scholarly understanding of history, theory, and criticism of art but also should be a competent professional artist, the curriculum offers a wide variety of technical courses. The department, of necessity, is also concerned with educating the non-major student in the rudiments of art. The Art Department has coped with these problems to a great degree, very successfully.

A student JOHN JORDAN harrows a clay pot in the ceramic lab.

A graduate student devotes the attention that creates perfection to a gold tiara.

The plight of modern man is a theme constantly utilized by art students.

The best works of talented artists are displayed in the Art Building.

THEATER ARTS

With the long awaited transfer into the new Theater Arts building, both the faculty and students received a welcome space expansion and increase in modern facilities. Chairman Selden felt a corresponding growth would occur both in quality and quantity of student play productions, while also predicting that greater student talent would be brought into the fold by the attraction of all encompassing expansion and improvement.

One of the most anxious to move into the new building was Department Chairman SAMUEL SELDEN.

Modern statuary required mechanical lifting.

The new building expanded the TA facilities.

Professionally trained personnel enjoyed the availability of modern equipment for productions.

Student productions offered a maximum of talent, a minimum of experience.

SCHOOL OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

Rapidly rising in scholastic stature, the School of Business Administration has undergone a phase of great physical and academic growth on the UCLA campus. The new facilities, aptly manifested in the recently completed graduate building on the northern sector of campus, have been added so that industry might be better served through development of better business skills and processes. Expanding necessary management programs, the faculty of the school initiated the Senior Executive Program in 1955, and has recently aided research projects of the Western Data Processing Center, a management center which encourages statistical research. By instilling the business student with self-confidence in his own judgment and by graduating students with well developed backgrounds, the School of Business Administration has elevated itself to the position of one of the best in the competition offered across the nation.

The ideas and strategy of acting Dean GEORGE ROBBINS have forwarded the school's rise through the upper echelons.

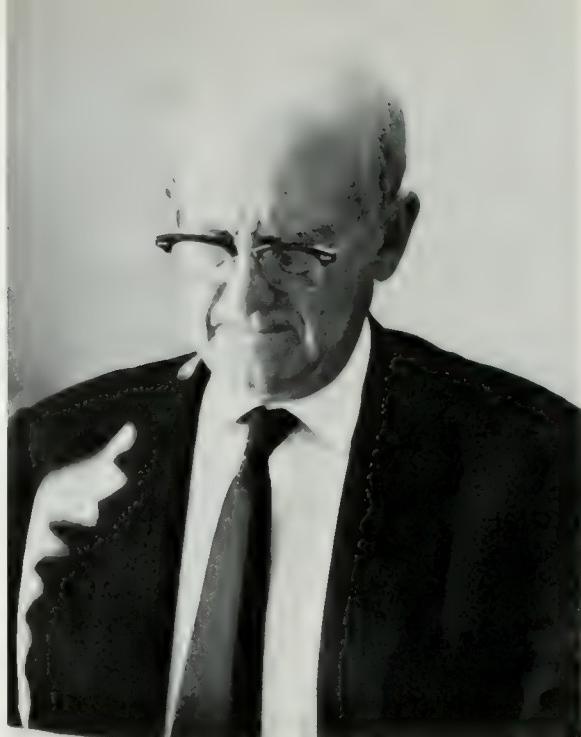

Because of the rise of academic standards in recent years, the School of Business Administration deemed necessary improvements in their physical facilities. The library building now boasts many small study areas and an exceptionally quiet atmosphere, as well as ready-available research material for essential areas of study. A food oasis in the building eliminates the necessity of interrupting studies for a lengthy period of time. Combined with excellent professors and a well-planned curriculum, the addition of the new Business Administration building has made possible improvement in lesser known, but equally important program areas.

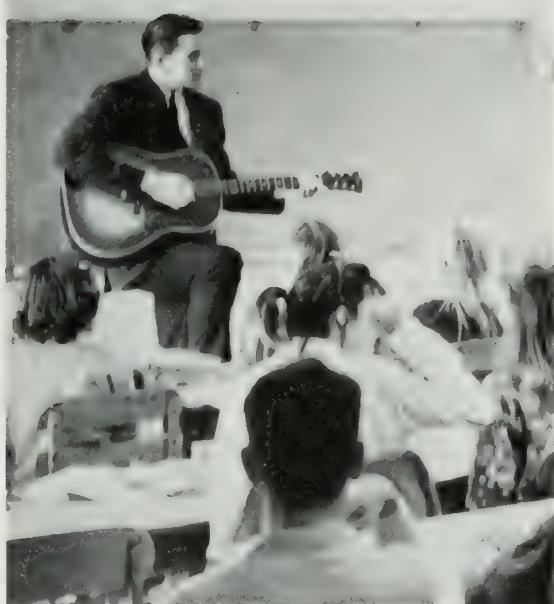

As a boon to practical application, the local University Elementary School serves as a demonstration, training, and research center. The testing of frontier curricular practices provides a unique opportunity for students to master the latest of methods in their progress to higher echelons of theory. Along with this most modern of ideas, the school often falls back on its historical roots which date back to 1881, a period when education was more of an amusement than a necessity. The modern school encompasses courses of instruction reaching from kindergarten-primary to advanced university instruction, supplemented by more specialized programs in remedial education and exceptional children's administration. Such curricula are maintained through both the regular session and the summer session.

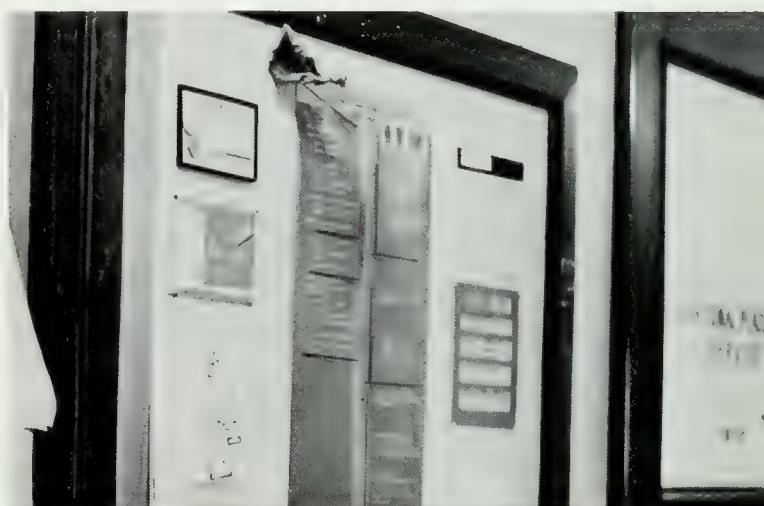

The School of Education's Dean HOWARD WILSON commends the new attempts to alleviate teacher shortages.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

A well written story commands attention, and often communicates an extensive amount of knowledge.

Bulletin boards of Moore Hall are a source of varied information.

Topics of the day receive a brilliant informal discussion during the lunch hour.

Dean of the UCLA School of Law is RICHARD C. MAXWELL.

SCHOOL OF LAW

Established in 1947, UCLA's School of Law seeks to prepare its students for professional practice in any of the areas of common law, emphasizing spirit, ideals, ethical standards, and common legal heritage of the English speaking peoples. Students are given adequate opportunity for actual participation in legal activities through the Moot Court system, a practice court teaching trial procedures and techniques through applied methods. The Roscoe Pound competition brings recognition to those students who display a superior ability in writing briefs and presenting arguments, while a position on the UCLA Law Review is an honor awarded only to the most qualified; membership on the Board of Editors carries singular prestige in the legal profession and those familiar with the law.

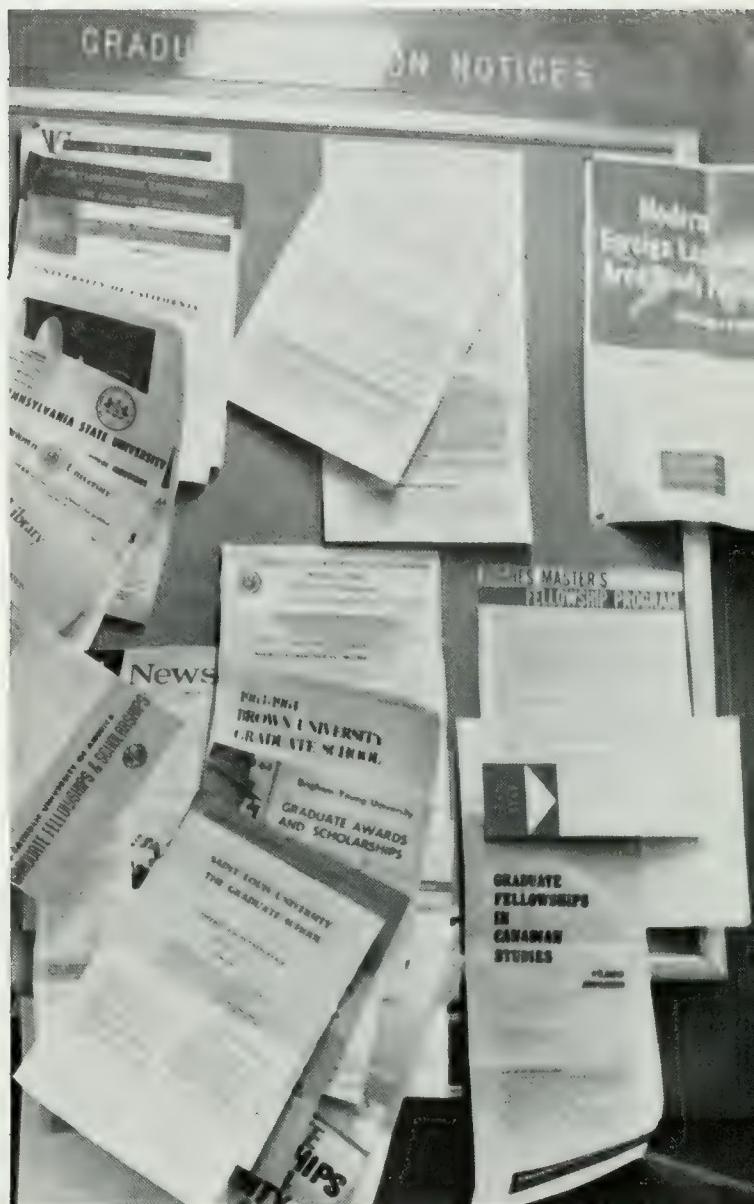

DR. HORACE MAGOUN has advanced from student to Dean.

GRADUATE DIVISION

The Master Plan of the University of California calls for increasing emphasis on, and development of graduate programs, not only at UCLA, but within the entirety of the university. Since the intrinsic purpose of UCLA will thus be graduate study, Dean Magoun is shouldering the responsibility for converting what is now an immense organization into an even greater complexity. Greatest of the foreseeable difficulties is maintenance of a personal consideration, while constantly absorbing an always greater mass of individuals; the paradox which faces all major universities is thus in the offing for UCLA, both in whole and part. Projected graduate enrollment for 1970 evidences a 100% increase, bringing forth a massive total of some 12,500 admissions to the graduate program. Providing for proper and adequate expansion of research and graduate studies, Magoun has outlined a need for a general support of research with fiscal and physical provision for postdoctoral students.

Dean of Letters and Science is DR. FRANKLIN P. ROLFE.

The overwhelming inundation of students, typified by omnipresent lines, impresses the College of Letters and Science with the task of providing sufficient buildings, classrooms, and laboratories while sustaining and accelerating its already high academic standards. The construction program is already under way with the recent erection of a ten-story social science building on north campus and near completion of the physics building. The enormity of supplying adequate facilities has not been allowed to overshadow the importance of high standards for faculty and students, for addition of new and gifted instructors has supplemented an already excellent staff. A rigid enforcement of selectivity, harsher requirements for graduate school, and the resultant increase in competition has led towards heavier emphasis on undergraduate performance. Letters and Science has played a key role in assembling and utilizing the materials essential for sustenance of this stringent program.

LETTERS AND SCIENCE

The arches of Royce Hall are situated so that students can absorb both sunlight and knowledge.

The sudden heights of social science are not unique.

The physical aspects of Letters and Science are undergoing vast changes. With a total projected enrollment of 27,500, the brunt of which Letters and Science is scheduled to bear, the building program is rapidly expanding in previously neglected areas. The growth of L&S is indicative of comprehensive changes taking place in all university spheres. Quality, however, has not been sacrificed to "the beast of many heads;" it remains as the basic ingredients of university life.

New street signs give a subtle hint of future regimentation.

The Archeology Department is benefiting from the wisdom of its chairman, PAUL CLEMENT.

Service, research, and advice are a few duties of HUGH G. DICK, English Department head.

Dean CARLO L. GOLINO's smile reflects pride in the progression of the Humanities Department.

HUMANITIES

That Humanities may be placed at the periphery rather than in the mainstream of our culture is an obvious danger in periods of scientific revolution. UCLA has compelling obligations to develop not merely an adequate, but a really outstanding program on the solid basis of excellence which already exists. A center for linguistic studies and departmental programs in comparative literature are to be investigated within the next decade in hopes that a broadened spectrum of linguistic study might be offered. The responsibility of accomplishment rests particularly with the Western States, for in spite of the contributions of distinguished individuals, scholarship in humanities has not ripened to its full fruition and potential.

An aura of scholarship surrounds STANLEY L. ROBE, who heads the Spanish Department's functions.

FRANCESCO DELLA TERZA enthusiastically approaches the Wetwood Italian Department.

Physical Education's organization is in the capable hands of Department Chairman DONALD HANDY.

LIFE SCIENCES

With present-day scientific emphasis leaning toward meeting the requirements of the space race, Life Sciences are not to be passed by. UCLA's own departments are moving forward at an explosive rate, attempting to meet the demands of the nation at large and to fulfill the requirements of competence and capacity placed upon them by the students. Local Life Sciences are fortunate in having an adjacent Health Science complex whose close alliance has made possible genesis of new graduate programs in molecular and cellular biology, as well as expansion within the传统als.

Psychologist F. NOWELL JONES is a firm believer in application of clinical methods and routines.

Dean of Physical Sciences FRANCIS BLACET.

"The voluntary program has strengthened Military Science," claims Colonel PAUL BURNS.

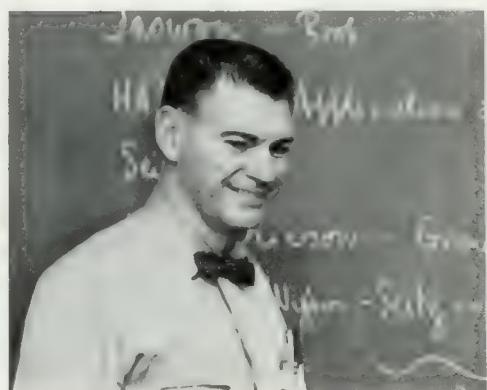

As Chairman of the Physics Department, Dr. LEO DELASSO stresses mathematical sciences.

"Our officers cannot be replaced by machines," says CAPTAIN EDWIN HITCHCOCK, Naval Science.

Because of its inclusion of such collegiate nemeses as physics, math, and chemistry, the Physical Sciences Division is often regarded with a dubious attitude by students. To those actually within the department, there is not so much fear as pride. This pride is not generated solely by the enviable quality of the faculty or the achievements of the student body, but also receives impetus from the recent expansion of facilities. Enlargement of the department has, of course, been stimulated by national emphasis on sciences, but local individuals also deserve a measure of credit for its unsurpassed canons of excellence and accomplishment.

Dr. ANGUS E. TAYLOR of Mathematical Sciences claims that even math can be enjoyable at times.

The complexities of Astronomy only lend enthusiasm to Department Chairman Dr. DANIEL POPPER.

Geological field trips are a frequent pleasure, not a task, for Department Chairman KEN WATSON.

While comprehension of the natural sciences is necessary for the individual, the modern world demands even more that queries be made into the development of man himself. In attempting to keep pace with such a responsibility, UCLA's Department of Social Sciences relies heavily on the abilities of Dean George Mowry. Under Mowry, the division has seen not only the enlargement of Franz Hall, for the psychologically orientated, but acquisition of nationally prominent professors and lecturers in all departments, from history, to geography, to sociology.

SOCIAL SCIENCES

Political Science Department head IVAN HINDERACKER leads a graduate seminar on political and electoral problems.

Geography Department Chairman CLIFFORD MacFADDEN explains power politics in terms of geographical position.

Anthropological evolution of the human form still has the capacity to fascinate Department Chairman C. W. MEIGHAN.

Dean of the Social Sciences Division is Dr. GEORGE MOWRY, who gained experience as a history professor.

THEODORE SALOUTOS believes that a History lecture has the purpose of informing, not just entertaining.

Chairman H. M. SOMERS claims that many economic theorists base the majority of their ideas on common sense.

SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

SHERMAN MELLINKOFF is Dean of the School of Medicine.

With only one in ten applicants now being accepted to UCLA's medical program, plans call for enlargement of the freshman class from 72 to 128 by September, 1968.

For 54 June graduates, the sprawling "Center for Health Sciences" has lost that strangeness most UCLA students feel on venturing within its 13 miles of corridors. They have become as familiar with its services and machines as with the human body they strive to understand. From lunch in the patio to odoriferous rooms of cadavers, medical school is a full-time, often frustrating occupation. Guided through oceans of knowledge and unanswerable questions by experienced teachers and 153,000 volume library, these future doctors look forward to days when "M.D." will appear after their names. Since former dean, Stafford Warren, was asked to work for President Kennedy, Sherman Mellinkoff has led and coordinated this 360,000 sq. ft. school.

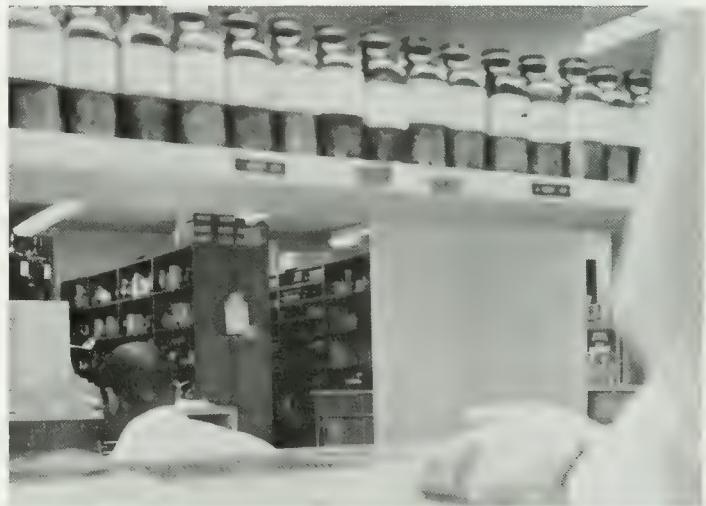

Modern equipment can do analysis or help confirm diagnoses.

STUDENT HEALTH SERVICE

To be eligible for free medical attention and pharmaceuticals, students need only endure the wait.

Eyes won't focus? People give you funny looks? Why not try Student Health? It's free. After presenting your reg-card and a list of ailments—after 2 hours of "Time"—after 15 minutes in a tiny room, a doctor emerges to say, "Yes, you may see the dermatologist Friday at 3. Goodbye." Many additional services are provided all students. Chief Pharmacist Joseph Beckerman's department can fill orders for UCLA's students, hospital, staff, and out-patients, as well as Santa Barbara, La Jolla, and Riverside campuses. Clinical laboratories do blood tests, while adventurers receive hypodermic protection for July safaris.

DEAN LENOR GOERKE heads a small, but important school.

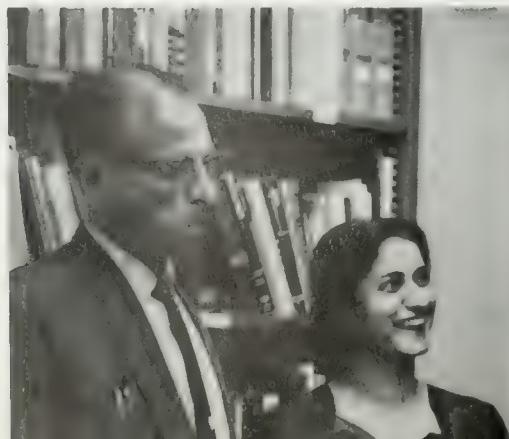

One of the newest branches on the UCLA campus, the School of Public Health was aided by almost one million dollars from private sources. Organized by Dean Goerke, the faculty stresses prevention through organized public cooperation rather than treatment. Upper division and graduate students receive education in all problems of health and welfare within present-day societies; the purpose of the program is to provide the student with a thorough understanding of the principles of public health. Significant research in the area of preventive medicine being pursued, the student obtains a working knowledge of research methods. Although still small in size, the school has attracted international students.

SCHOOL OF PUBLIC HEALTH

Attracting students by means of its excellent facilities, the School of Public Health offers laboratories for the study of both microbiology and nutrition where relevant or applicable for successful regulation of man's environment.

DEAN LULU HASSENPLUG demands assumption of responsibility.

SCHOOL OF NURSING

Technical skill is not the only requirement required in the nursing practice; the patient himself must somehow be instilled with desire for recovery. Dean Hassenplug emphasizes the development of this essential, while also providing the nursing student with the necessary medical knowledge. Each student is assigned to the care of a qualified faculty member who serves his charges as an educational advisor. Controversial issues are freely discussed with the hope of developing the individuality required of a nurse. Entering the school after a minimum of two years preparation, the student trains for a five semester period, after which a Bachelor of Science degree and a certificate of qualification are awarded.

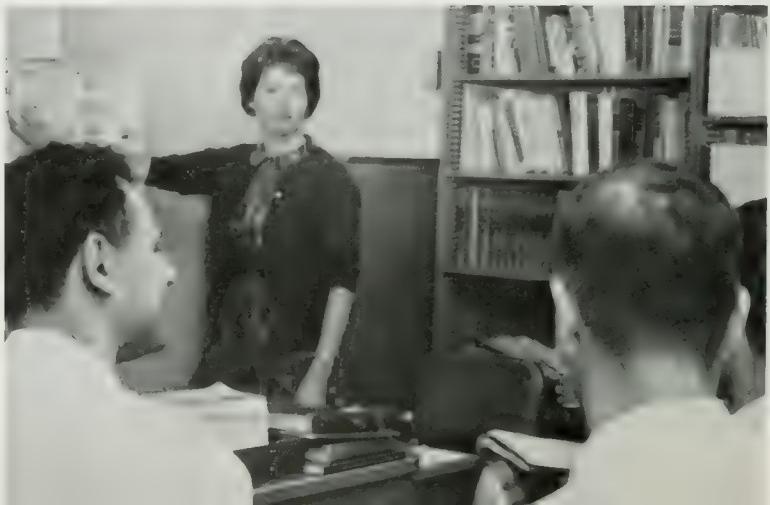

Newly appointed Dean of Social Welfare is RICHARD T. MORRIS.

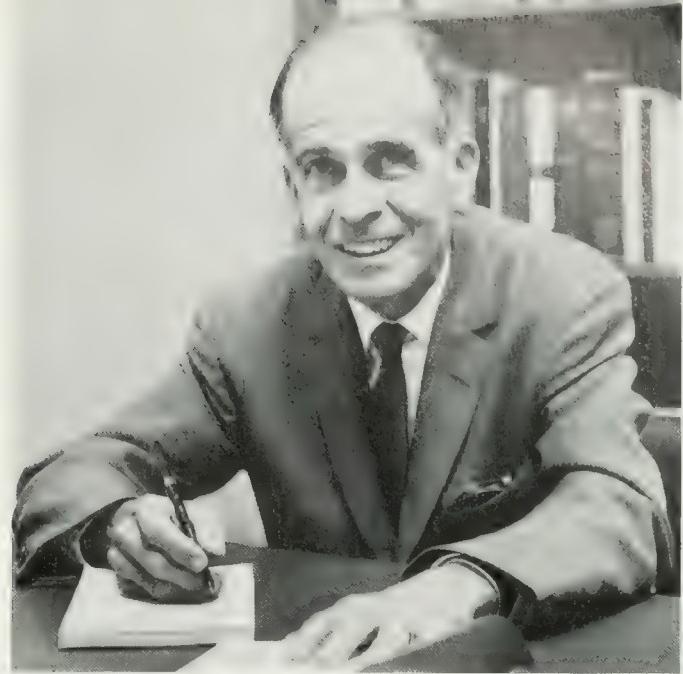

Interesting, challenging, and rewarding as a field of service, Social Welfare bemoans a chronic shortage of qualified personnel. An estimated 10,000 vacancies presently inhibiting work, and a projected 10-year shortage make the task of UCLA's own School of Social Welfare a difficult one. Administrators such as Dean Richard Morris have called for equal emphasis on both long range and short term plans in order to offset the situation. The school now offers a two year graduate study leading to a Master of Social Welfare degree fully accredited by the Council on Social Work Education. Primary basis for future plans rests with the university as a whole, for the school does not regard quality reduction as a remedy for quantity.

SCHOOL OF SOCIAL WELFARE

SCHOOL OF LIBRARY SERVICE

Established in 1958, the Graduate School of Library Service remains the youngest academic endeavor of the campus. Basic to the intentions of the program was the recent acceptance and full endorsement of scholastic quality by the powerful American Library Association; UCLA's M.L.S. degree has thus been credited with the highest possible approbation. Requirements for admission specify a normal completion of undergraduate study and recognized graduate standing, plus a minimum reading knowledge of at least two foreign languages, preferably French and German. Such rigid requirements make matriculates eligible for a full selection of reference and cataloging opportunities, and a wide range of selection in geographical locale.

FRESHMAN CLASS

Although sometimes slow to get off the mark, the Freshmen of 1963 vintage were not the type to lag behind even those who were most active. Under the enthusiastic hand of new President Bob Glasser initiative was the password, as tradition fell by the wayside. Class programs included the instigation of "Sunday Sessions," a series of folk-song performances in the Coop resulting from semi-ideological campaign promises extracted during the Freshman elections. Capitalizing on achievement, Glasser again advanced to SLC when the results of Spring Elections were posted.

Even the youthful Freshmen are capable of some sophisticated campaigning when elections come.

Songstress JUDY HENSKE headed the list of Sunday performers.

Sunday Session folk song enthusiasts packed into the Coop to hear the warblings of proffered talent.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

Traditionally class administration has always been a step to greater and better things in student government as a whole. Sophomore President Henry Billingsley carried on in the activation of his class; Sophomore Sweethearts were created in order to give the newly founded Sophomore Newsletter something to talk about. While making his group into a much closer unit, Hank also sponsored a production of Death of A Salesman and Nightclub Night, thus making his year a success.

Sponsored by the Sophomore Class, Death of A Salesman and Nightclub Night brought in a touch of culture to the campus, while also serving to enlighten the local social attitudes.

DEATH OF A SALESMAN starred Herschel Bernardi of Peter Gunn fame.

Nite Club Night found the Sophomores and many others rotating in the Grand Ballroom.

JUNIOR CLASS

A veteran of innumerable political campaigns and two years on SLC, Dick Weisbart took the position of Junior Class President to make it three years in a row on Council. Under Dick's strong leadership, and with track star Robin Moore in a supporting role, the Juniors made their ideas stand. It was this united group which led the way for the Chancellor's Committee on Discrimination, and an intense investigation of questionable profit margin in the Student's Store.

JUDY CONGER

Doing their part for the Winter Windup, the Southsider's Dixieland Combo made Coop music.

Their concert underwritten by the Junior Class, the Four Preps made a smash with local pop music fans.

While having to spend a large amount of their limited time in a morass of meetings and lectures, Junior Class politicians also managed to come up with some fine activities. Among these were the raucous and ribald Four Preps recording session-concert and the Winter Windup. Juniors found recognition does not always depend on constructive action.

Perhaps alone in their performance, but not conforming in their style, the surfers take over in the Coop.

TWENTY-FOUR ADDED TO SENIOR HONOR ROLL

BARBARA CALEEN

Although involved in a myriad of campus activities, Barbara managed to direct much of her time and abundant talent to the fostering of an Indian-American understanding through Project India.

KERMIT ALEXANDER

An outstanding halfback for the Bruin gridiron squad, Kermitt also displayed the unexpected intellectual poise and diplomatic ability, exemplified in his presidency of the campus Varsity Club.

JERRY CHALEFF

A veteran campus politico, Jerry has served the school for three years as a talented member of SLC. Under his leadership the local chapter of Phi Sigma Delta received national honors.

BOB GREENFIELD

As a member of the Student Judicial Board and as president of IFC, Phi Beta Kappa Greenfield worked for a greater effectiveness at the fraternity level of student government structure.

GERRY CORRIGAN

The first Irishman to become president of the student body, Gerry utilized natural Irish charm to facilitate in directing and coordinating activities and policies of the associated students.

GWENDA BOYDSTON

In her capacity as the President of Associated Women Students, Gwenda made valuable contributions to campus life. At the end of her junior year she was honored as Woman of the Year.

ANN DENSMORE

Ex-Belle of UCLA, Ann is a member of practically every organization open to female students. As president of Bruin Belles, her outstanding public relations added to UCLA's stature.

CORKY GELFAN

Corky, in her second year as a songgirl and her first as the head of that group, worked with the girls to enhance their routines and coordination. Her success is reflected in her own lively spirit.

JIM MAHONEY

Successfully integrating subtle thought with aggressive action, Mahoney headed the URC student advisory council, was NSA Representative, and was the 1963 Senior Class Valedictorian.

JANET NEAL

As a veteran songleader, Bruin Belle, and Snow Queen, Janet added to the spirit and enthusiasm through her bouncy cheerfulness and ebullient vivacity, perhaps the prime keynote of her success.

BOB KAY

His versatile talents utilized in four years of work for Uni-Camp, Bobbie unselfishly shared his time through a constant devotion and service to the purposes of ASUCLA leadership.

RICH MILLARD

Unequaled in his devotion to UCLA, Rich translated his thoughts to action by serving as president of Pi Lambda Phi, working diligently for Uni-Camp and the UCLA Cat Club chapter.

FRANK NYULASSY

For two consecutive years, Frank was president of ISA, bringing to it such leadership that it significantly expanded its scope and membership, increasing its attraction to students.

LINDA McCREA

Quiet but not to be overcome in her ineluctable manner, Linda served her sorority, Phi Mu, as president. She was also an active member in Prytanean, Anchors, and honorary Mortar Board.

STEVE MOOSER

As Senior Class President, Steve worked towards greater class unity and action. Serving as head of the student committee to boost Proposition 1A, he fully utilized his vast campus knowledge.

SHERRY KAUFMAN

Selected as 1963 Woman of the Year, Sherry served as ASUCLA Vice-President. Evidencing an analytical intellect, Sherry's open sincerity limned her governmental contributions.

TERRY VAVRA

Two-year Chairman of Mardi Gras, Terry demonstrated an unlimited source of ideas and a viewpoint which was anything but circumscribed while making his fair Uni-Camp's greatest fund-raiser.

PATTI PIPPEN

Patti's remarkable abilities proved equal to the tasks of songleader, house president of Kappa Alpha Theta, an active membership in Cal Club and scholastic honorary Mortar Board.

RICHIE VERHAGEN

As Vice-President of Sproul Hall, Richie found fertile ground for the seeds of her talent. Now, as a floor advisor and as an active member of Cal Club she epitomizes true achievement.

NANCY WOLLMER

As an energetic member of Cal Club and as the hard-working Mortar Board President, Nancy has well demonstrated her leadership and service activities, her scholastic ability and school loyalty.

DON VENA

An outstanding end for Bruin football, Don roamed far afield, once presiding over the Kappa Sigs. He also contributed his time and talent to Gold Key and even got into the Kelp activities.

C. K. YANG

Surpassing all past decathlon records, Chuan Kwang has a versatility and ability which are undisputed. He has no peer, for he is termed by many as the best athlete of the modern world.

DON WELLS

Southern Campus Editor, Wells has sacrificed his fortune, health, and scholastic achievement under pressure from an unfathomable urge driving him to attempt the impossible, produce a book.

EZELL SINGLETON

Holding down a top spot on the Bruin football team, Ezell shows versatile abilities by appearing as a shortstop for the Bruin baseballers, whom he also served as the varsity Team Captain.

SENIOR PANHELLENIC

Composed of representatives from each of UCLA's twenty-two national social sororities, the Panhellenic council meets twice monthly to discuss mutual problems of standards, scholarship, activities, inter-sorority functions. In addition, Council promotes workshops of discussion in order to gain a richer knowledge of all phases of sorority life, as well as the annual Greek Ball and many get-acquainted teas. The year's success was well evident in the awarding of four Panhellenic women's scholarships, three more than the usual number.

Soliciting suggestions are Panhellenic members (l to r) JULIE WELLENDORF, MARILYN McDONALD, MARY COSGROVE (President), CANDY POPE, and JUDY HARE.

The administrators for Junior Panhellenic include (front to back) KAREN CHRISTOPHER, BARBARA OLIN, LIBBY ROBERTSON, DALE HYPES, and JUDY HARE.

JUNIOR PANHELLENIC

United Greek spirit, inter-sorority pledge relations, Panhellenic organization—these are the objectives of Junior Panhellenic, an organization of representatives from each of the fall pledge classes. At the bi-monthly meetings, members consider furthering of Panhellenic goals and make their social plans, including, as always, the annual pledge banquet, this year held in December at the plush location of the Riviera Country Club.

Carrying out their three-fold program of social events, scholarship with campus activities, and the Christian life, the sisters of Alpha Delta Chi had a different year. Socially the ADChis held Fall and Spring formal recognition banquets as well as lighter activities including hayrides and exchanges with AGO and Biola. Pledges contributed their part with the Halloween party and a ditch. The year's climax was a spring retreat with other local ADChi chapters.

DELTA SIGMA THETA

DST party plans began the year with a bang! Their coffee hours in the SU, rushing activities, induction rituals for new pledge club members, and a "Crazy Pants" party gave the Deltas a running start. Other social activities included the Pajama Party, the Big-Little Sister Christmas Party, and Initiation Banquet held at the Fog Cutter. The year was duly limned by selection of Emily Chretien as a finalist for UCLA's Homecoming Court.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

Parties, Princesses, Pledges, Pscholarship—all areas in which Alpha Chis are prominent and proud. From Pledge-Active to Luau (that includes the Winter Formal), from Presents to Mardi Gras, and from Dad's Night to the Big Lyre picnic, the girls had pfun, pfun, pfun. Both actives and pledges represented the house in Spurs, Chimes, Bruin Belles, and Shell and Oar. Alpha Chis were also affiliated with both Anchors and Angel Flight. Judy Burns was Upper Division Women's Rep., while Holly Schuetz placed her interest in the NSA convention. It remained for Sue Sullivan to beautify the Homecoming Court, with Pam Simms and Cindy Gillespie contributing as fraternity queens. Keeping this social calendar in mind, it seems a little difficult to comprehend the high Alpha Chi Omega scholarship.

ALPHA DELTA PI

Another boisterous, almost rowdy year for Alpha Delta Pi. A Barn Dance theme for Fall Initiation provided the necessary and sufficient impetus to get things rolling. December saw the A D Pi's getting together with the USC delegation for an annual Christmas Party function. On March 9, thirteen pins were issued to proud initiates during an Initiation Dinner and Dance at the Bel Air Hotel. Highlights for the Spring were found in an uninhibited Bowery Show for Mardi Gras and the melodious Spring Sing sessions with Alpha Gamma Omega. True to tradition, the A D Pi's kept up their numbers with a strong Fall pledge class choosing to wear the diamond pin, while a bevy of matriculates returned in the Alumni chapter. Though always socially successful, A D Pi strove for individual maturity.

Although a bridge epidemic hit the Phi house, the girls pulled through well enough to grab a City Panhellenic Scholarship Award, in addition to four members gaining Phi Beta Kappa recognition. They even set their cards down to participate in Homecoming, placing a float in Originality Division, and Judy Kretchmar and Arline Puro on the Homecoming Court. In addition to a winter formal-dinner dance, pledge party and retreat, the girls planned a theater party and donated all proceeds to the Well Baby Clinic. Student activities provided outside interests for Sherry Kaufmann (ASUCLA Veep) and Bruin Belles Puro, Fenster, and Savitz. Highlight of the year for house hashers came with "Hashers Night", which saw a turning of the tables as girls served boys and got a small taste of what goes on in the kitchen.

This year the Alpha Gams set out to prove that Tony Weizorek was the ugliest man on campus. They found he was only the second ugliest. Other things considered, however, the year was definitely a winner. Halloween found the girls putting on a carnival at Barrington Playground with the men of Acacia, and Homecoming brought co-operation from the Sammies. Sigma Alpha Iota, a women's professional music fraternity, claimed Lou Anne Hicks and Sandy Rissling. Pat Packard joined the Daily Bruin staff, Tam Durnall was active in Kap 'n' Bells, and Millie Klauz was champ of Intramural Tennis. A successful Alum Tea, the Christmas Formal at John Carroll's Ranch, a May Luau, and sponsorship of John Wooden as Mardi Gras King helped to round out the year.

The AOPi activity schedule was initiated by a Fall Formal at the local home of Cindy Dickranian, a program which centered on honors for the fall initiates. November brought the annual Mardi Gras theme pledge party, closely followed by a December spurt including a family night dinner, a tree trimmin' party, a Christmas Formal, and the usual exchanges. With Mardi Gras as a basis, the Spring semester was no less a time of achievement.

ALPHA PHI

After presenting twenty fun-loving pledges with the ivy leaf pledge pin, the Alpha Phis began another active, memorable year. A refreshing weekend in the mountains was followed by an unusual Initiation Dance in La Canada commencing a new fall social whirl. Dad's Night Dinner, exchanges, and the Pledge-Active party "Along the Nile" were most successful events. Some bustling spring activities were Mardi Gras, a Theater Party, collecting for Cardiac Aid and the German Beer Garden Party with the Sigma Nus. Fleas were also active on campus and special honors went to Meg George and Lynn Foster, Project India Finalists; Barbara Alvarez, Sophomore of the Month; Penny Bryant, Phi Beta Kappa.

Hay wisps in their hair, Alpha Xi's initiated the year with a rollicking hayride, soon followed by the Pledge Party—"Stumble to our Rumble"—an indication that the wisps of straw from the first party had carried over in theme to the next. November was a busy month, including the annual trip North, this time to Berkeley quarters for participation in All-U Weekend. Within the week, the pledges had disappeared, leaving actives with their room lights blinking and no dinner. After the Christmas "vacation" actives declared "hell week"; pledges endured and obeyed, and soon were released from duty to cram for finals. Starlight Formal served as a last fling.

Close on the heels of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Ivy Leaf Initiation ceremonies of November was what is always a highlight of the semester, the Fall Formal with a Hollywood Palladium location. No less than thirteen neophytes were presented as Snow Princesses in keeping with the "Winter Wonderland" theme. As before, the year's most important event was Alpha Kappa Alpha Founder's Day, set aside as a time of dedication and honor for the National's founders and originators, this year held at "Tail O' The Cock".

With September the Chis began their fall semester by welcoming twenty-two pledges, all of whom were later presented at the Surf Rider Inn. The active year saw events such as hostessing at a foreign student's reception, an annual Christmas Dance at the Ambassador, and a formal dinner and dance at the Bel Air Hotel. Chi Alpha Delta was justly proud of its many members found in Bruin Belles, Mortar Board, and a myriad of other honoraries.

Alumni were in attendance at the Christmas reunion party.

Pledges mastered a routine suitable for party entertainment.

Keeping up their reputation for a busy round of social and academic activities, Tri-Deltas found themselves again in the center of life at UCLA. High scholastic averages were maintained with 23 girls earning a 3.0 GPA minimum. Zeta Beta Tau lent their forces and voices as Tri-Delta attempted to make it two years in a row as winners of Spring Sing Sweepstakes. In the beauty department, both Susanne Roshay and Karen Kyson were listed as Sweethearts of Sigma Chi, while AWS President Liz Lambirth and Bruin Belle President Ann Densmore contributed service.

"Anchors Aweigh," and the D.G.'s set sail for another great year. The enthusiastic pledge class and the rest of the crew participated in Homecoming with ZBT's, the traditional Dad's Dinner, and exchanges. Mary Martin was named Delt Queen, Sherri Goodner was crowned as Southern Campus Fall Queen, and the Pledge Class sold itself at the Uni-Camp auctions. Throughout the year individual honors were divided among Spurs, Chimes, and Bruin Belles, with Marilyn (MJ) Johnson contributing her Summer time to Project India. As Spring came on, DG voices tuned for Spring Sing with the Sigma Nu's. Voices thus worn out, the girls turned to their ukuleles for annual festivities in the Delta Gamma Luau.

For D Phi E's, the winter semester recalls memories of their beautiful pledge class, the second place float in Homecoming, the pledge formal, Underwater Fantasy at the Surfrider Inn, and of innumerable engagements, pinnings, and marriages. Spring semester brought a new set of officers, and initiation of new pledges climaxed their Purgatory Week. Hollywood Bowl beckoned as the D Phi E Quartet eagerly prepared for Spring Sing. Active in extra-curricular activities, they have worked for Uni-Camp and taken part in Mardi Gras. Rozalind Salzberg received an "Oscar" from the UCLA Theater Arts Department as Best Supporting Actress for her role in George Bernard Shaw's You Never Can Tell.

With Charlotte Hofer as President, the Delta Zeta girls made both Fall and Spring semesters a lasting memory. Utilizing the spirit of some enthusiastic pledges (20 in all), DZ teamed up with Theta Xi to construct a Homecoming float which found a place in "Most Beautiful" awards. Even with the busy social calendar, Delta Zeta found activities enjoyable; representatives may be discovered in Spurs, Chimes, Mortar Board, and Pytanean, with Lynne Ball receiving an honor as Saber Vice-President, and Judy Wood and Sharon Brinton as senior class officers.

September came and brought 20 spirited pledges to the surprised actives. Vigorously plunging into the social whirl, the pledges soon learned what sorority life means. Sweeping nonchalantly through November, the Gamma Phis held their Crescent Ball, celebrated their 90th birthday at the Founders Day Banquet, and capped it all with a couple of exchanges and a first place Homecoming float. While continuing with their impressive social calendar, other Gamma Phis scored activity points, particularly outstanding Junior Robin Moore, who ably served as Junior Class Veep and as Commander, Angel Flight.

Beginning another exciting year for Kappa Alpha Theta, the pledges hosted the actives to a party and hayride. Gilda Lee reigned as Homecoming Queen and the Theta-Phi Kap float was awarded sweepstakes for its originality. Supporting Uni-Camp, "Bag a Beta—Bag a Theta" was the theme for Mardi Gras. Thetas were also leaders in little sister groups, Cal Club, Bruin Belles, Mortar Board, and in many other campus organizations.

The Kappa Delta diamond shield shone brightly at UCLA as KD's pursued an assortment of activities in time not spent studying. After rushing, actives and pledges enjoyed a country retreat. Homecoming week found KD's busily making thousands of paper roses for their float with the Sigs. A "Roaring Twenties" party, the initiation dance, and the Diamond Dagger capped off the fall semester. Spring initiation, Mardi Gras, and Spring Sing precursory to the always exciting KD Luau climaxed the end of an outrageously eventful and spectacular year.

PHI MU

With commencement of the Phi Mu fall semester came pledges, and with pledges came affairs which did not always conform to a concentrated program of study. Exchanges, a trip to Dodger Stadium, a Big-Little Sister fling, the now infamous Pledge-Active bash at POP, an Old South Ball at Bel Aire's Bay Club, the Spring Formal, and a beach rollick were all starred events on the Phi Mu Calendar. In spite of the prominent achievements of 1962-1963, Phi Mu girls took pains to insure that an expansion and improvement would not be slow in following.

The Phi Sigs initiated a fulfilled and profitable year, earning coveted Bruin honors through numerous campus activities in both fall and spring. A leader in both beauty and intellect, President Arlene Duga allowed for a short break to achieve the Belle of UCLA title. No little factor in the motivation of house spirit, a rivalry between pledges and actives resulted in a morass of parties and frolics and instigated a competitive attitude always so necessary and valuable in a productive program. Most popular as diversions were campus queen contests.

PI BETA PHI

The golden arrow, symbol of Pi Beta Phi, hit the bullseye in both scholarship and activity accomplishment. One of the early highlights of the year was Homecoming, where Niki Pollack and Candy Pope were court finalists. Alka Pevec was Best Dressed Coed on campus, while at the other end of the beauty list, Pi Phi's ugly man, Gene Genson, won the prize, in form of a four foot trophy. Toward the year's end, Mardi Gras with the Phi Kaps, and Spring Sing with the Phi Psis again saw the arrow hit its target. On campus, Bruin Belles, Sophomore Sweethearts, Anchors, and the Uni-Camp Board all had members of the Pi Beta Phi sorority.

With sorority row's second best scholarship, a neoteric housemother, and an abundance of never unwelcome charm and beauty, it was no trick for the Sigma Delta Tau girls to make their move, as in Homecoming, when active femmes brought home a trophy with the unveiling of their crepe endeavors. Individual honors make a list which continues almost ad nauseam, combining not only the usual and the ordinary, but adding a large smattering of singular and unique distinctions arising from SDT participation and peerless achievement in virtually every campus activity.

Though the hectic rush period was not without its effects, balance returned with a revivifying weekend at the Sigma Kappa retreat by Lake Arrowhead. The pledges picked up the spirit (perhaps a little too much) and as compensation for their ditch with the Lambda Chis they presented actives with an unparalleled party. While the girls romped at home, Nancy Rockoff, Carolyn Montgomery, and Carol Humble sought and achieved recognition on the campus. On the sports scene, Carole Mac Sween brought home a National Ice Skating Championship, while more academic personnel produced a recognizable advance in scholarship.

THETA KAPPA PI

With a varied program on tap for the year—socials, service, scholarship, and culture, the Thetas commenced events with an impressive Pledge Presents at Hollywood's Knickerbocker Hotel. Other fun-filled activities included a Halloween Service Project, All-U Weekend, and an uproarious exchange with the S.C. chapter of Alpha Iota Pi. A Mardi Gras booth made money for Uni-Camp, and a Sweetheart Swing was responsible for joviality on the part of many of the sisters.

The "Pledge Surprise" had a "Kid Stuff" theme.

Theta Kappa Phi rushing endeavors brought in twelve enticing pledges with membership aspirations.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

Zeta Tau Alpha commenced the year with a purpose in mind, that of developing leadership and individuality. Members worked fervently on their Homecoming Float, and found justification in their award. Socially, the season found notable events in the Initiation Dance, the annual White Violet Ball, and the (last, but not least) Spring Luau. Senior Mary Cosgrove proved worthy of her selection as Panhellenic President, while other ZTA personnel collected additional prominence on the campus through a program of scholastic endeavor.

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

The Interfraternity Council serves as the basic means of fraternity self-government. Systematically, a President's Council sets policy and co-ordinates the plans and problems of the fraternity system. On the legal side, an Executive Committee handles judicial cases and returns its decisions for the consideration of the Council. Not entirely serious, IFC annually plans a retreat for all its members, in order that they might enjoy a quiet day of relaxation in a more thought provoking atmosphere than the urbanized campus area.

ALPHA SIGMA PHI

Brothers of Alpha Sigma Phi returned in the fall to promote a new idea in their fraternity life. Members selected men who would best represent their chapter in social, athletic, and scholastic fields, and then initiated them on the basis of mid-term grades. A pre-Christmas rush was also held to build a greater chapter membership. Intramurals, however, were not as successful, as ASP somehow lost a basketball game by an amazing 100 points.

ACACIA

JAY JORBAN
PRESIDENT

Acacians, along with their poodle-loving St. Bernard, started off the year with a rousing game of 20 Questions, or Who Ate The Show Dog. Acacians, after the last rites, celebrated the occasion making good use of their location on Sorority Row by providing free lemonade (spiked) to eligible Pan-Hellenic rushees. Other activities include infiltration of such organizations as Mardi Gras, Spring Sing, Orinco, Finance Committee, Elections Board, and IFC. The brethren, in true Greek style, kept a busy social calendar. From Formal Blasts to Black-Out Firesides, Acacians always came out on top. Capping off the year with a quick trip to T-town, they have even greater plans for next year.

FALL PRESIDENT J.B. REIDDER
SPRING PRESIDENT HARVEY ROWEN

Under the quality leadership of presidents "J. B." Reiddler and Harvey Rowen, the Apes have made prominent strides in performance. Socially, the season was highlighted by a Spring Formal Weekend held at the Death Valley Inn. Other events of the year included Homecoming, Spring Sing, and a visit from the LAPD concerning the broken "water main". House Jocks were seen in intramurals, and as usual were virtually undefeatable in all sports. Special emphasis was placed on Schwartz's mystery team. Keeping in touch with policies of the U.S. government, "deficit spending" was the year's watchword.

Challenged by the requirements of love of God through Jesus Christ, the men of AGO worked through the year with great enthusiasm. Featured during the Fall was the victorious pilgrimage to UCB and an entry in the Homecoming Parade. Special mention, however, must be made of the autumnal inundation and eventual obliteration of Triangle, or as commonly expressed, the water fight. Spring's dear study time was consumed by Sing rehearsal and the world-renowned Pok Hauot which is Southern Ostyak for something. The intramural Chinese checker team lost in the finals to the Fijis when Sundin caught a splinter in his right index finger. Other than that it was an excellent year for the AGOs.

AGO little sisters present an unusually refined image.

When water fights and parties get out of hand, intervention comes from the local fuzz.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

It was an exciting and titillating year for the Taus. The traditional Winter Formal spotlighted December and later a good part of sorority row frolicked in candy striped ATO nighties. The excited girls included ATO Queen, Carol Quinn of Chi Omega, and Princesses Nancy Goldsen, A E Phi, and Cheryl Stocker, Tri-Delt. On campus, Mooser headed the Senior Class and Roach served as treasurer and graduation chairman. All-Cal Weekend was highlighted by a mass migration to the home of little sister Terry Wagener in Palo Alto to celebrate UCLA's triumph. ATO again tapped many top girls on the row for Little Sisters of the Maltese Cross. Greek Week Athletic Day sweepstakes honors went to Alpha Tau Omega and Delta Gamma. Taus scored again in intramural athletics and Spring Sing. The traditional Heidelberg party rounded out what might have been a banner year except for the action of neighbors and Dean Adolph Brugger.

SPRING PRESIDENT NELSON RISING

Utilitarians to the hilt, Beta Theta Pi prodigies again moved ahead in their undaunted fashion. The year's activities included formation of a committee for investigation of moral attitudes of the campus, commensurate with construction of a concrete lion to guard the house. Responding to agitation by the cultural factions within the chapter, the Betas replaced their juke box with the Mormon Tabernacle Choir and encouraged talent with the recording of morning showers. Sportswise, Beta athletes found their hopes limned by Port's outstanding pole vault performance, while Bergman gained his third gold medal in an Intramural rivalry of the terpsichoreally inclined.

DELTA SIGMA PHI

Under capable John Zopelis the Delta Sigs had quite a year. In the fall with Dathe, Francisco, Finstad, and Locurto carrying house colors in varsity football, the remainder of the house got together with SDT and produced a Sweepstakes float for Homecoming. Socially the year was a great success (as neighbors will attest), with the Carnation Ball held with Alumns at Fox Hills Country Club, and Linda Weeks chosen as their Dream Girl. The Landfair Hill Mob, Pajamarino, a number of fine exchanges, and the Sailors Ball rounded out the year. Intramurally the Delta Sigs were strong, as they again pressed for All-U. The spring semester saw brotherhood rise, as the password was remembered, "When all else seems doomed to failure, HUNCH!".

Delta Sigs find many opportunities to use the sparkling pool.

DELTA TAU DELTA

Water fights were on the way out, as holes in the Delt firehose got larger and "bird-dogging" became the rage. Although Delt freeloaders were hit hard by the "closed party" rule and so, were forced to give a few parties of their own, any Delt who ended up with his own date did so only by coincidence. Once again everyone went wild over the featured entertainer at the renowned "Beaver Follies", while Spring Sing with the Chi Omegas brought huge dividends to many of the alert brothers. Delt's intramural baseball team, led by the "Blade," set out for another intramural prize after representing UCLA in All-Cal sports weekend at Santa Barbara. Mark Leicester again found an excuse not to study by meddling in campus politics, while the rest of the brothers raised their GPAs when they found that BA and BAE were not the same.

PHI DELTA THETA

MIKE DOWNEY
PRESIDENT

Phi Delta Theta survived another year at UCLA, again excelling in every single endeavor. Fortunately, they limited the number of endeavors attempted. Socially, the year was uneventful and unspectacular until the KKK party, highlighted by a long overdue lynching of a somnambulistic Social Chairman. Intramural competitions were again blessed by continuation of an age old Phi Delt tradition — winning the chariot race. This year's production was so close that ZBT lost by just a nose. Athletically, Phi jocks continued their terrorization of intercollegiate athletics in virtually every field of manly contention.

PHI GAMMA DELTA

Fraternity Row's chief purveyors of naturalism in the sense of adherence to individualistic standards and opinions, Phi Gamma Delta has always had a marked propensity toward realistic attitudes. In scholastic achievement, the "Fijis" have the aura of the "dark horse", but may be regarded as future contenders, while socially and athletically they have not only arrived but have achieved a position of prominence. Traditional for the Spring is a "Fiji Islander", a time of retreat and meditation with the intrinsic purpose of preparing the body for the intemperate conditions of final exams and disciplining the soul for self denials of summer.

Phi Psi life, to say the least, has been varied and even chaotic. During recent periods, the amiable brotherhood has accomplished many of the more tangible goals; intramurals saw an intense, and at times comical participation, calling out high individual efforts in every sport, while girl lovers saw their fondest dreams realized in an expansive exchange program. Nor were the activities of a lesser importance excluded, for scholastic averages skyrocketed and even such negligibles as the pledge program were revamped. With close to one hundred per cent of the bros set to return, accomplishments specified for the future (like graduation) should not be lacking.

PHI KAPPA SIGMA

Under the leadership of Presidents Delagrange and Janson, Phi Kappa Sigma again maintained its position among UCLA's fraternities by excelling in social, scholastic, and intramural endeavors. The year's social life included the traditional Winter Weekender, Homecoming with the Thetas, and climaxed with the 25th annual Hawaiian blast. On campus, Terry Vavra made it two consecutive years as Chairman of Mardi Gras, while Ron Stephans and Keith Kelley were mainstays for Elections Board. The Phi Kaps' little sisters, better known on campus as FAMACS, were again brought out in force in an endeavor to raise both morale and morals.

Although funds were difficult to appropriate, Phi Kaps finally secured their long awaited annex.

PHI SIGMA DELTA

Surviving the slow depression of the Fall semester, Phi Sigma Delt brothers avoided boredom by occupying their busy little minds with intramurals, student government, and Homecoming. Similar activities in the Spring were highlighted by a Formal at Lake Arrowhead attended by the intemperate membership and their dates. National honors came with awarding of the Leon Brummer Award representing all-around achievement and signifying the local chapter's selection as the organization's best. ## SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

Last year, SAE's valiantly tried to overcome their stereotyped campus image. They had parties (with girls); they participated in intramurals for the first time in five years, and they turned in unprintable copy to SoCam. With their new found physical freedom came a cerebral spurt as SAE's re-examined the basis of brotherhood. The usual activities included exchanges, parties, weekenders, and campus politics. Unusual activities were all night pledge watches over the lion to insure that his color remained the same and making book on pedestrians as they jaywalked across Gayley in front of the house. Unfortunately the latter activity was discontinued after one of the shrewder brothers was discovered bribing drivers to occasional misses.

Sammies held a combination work/play Homecoming exchange with Alpha Gamma Delta.

The pledge party entertainment was indigenous.

'Where have all the Tri-Delts gone?' was the often repeated refrain early in the Fall, as Sigma Chi's pledge class kidnapped the Tri-Delt pledge class for a sun and sud soaked day in Santa Barbara. The selection of beauteous Susanne Roshay to be the local Sweetheart of Sigma Chi for 1963 came as one of the satisfying social highpoints of the semester. Homecoming was rotten, but the Sigs had a blast trying. However, they did manage to eke out a first in a Mardi Gras Mask Contest and rake in the most money for the kids. A feminine touch was added by Little Sigmas.

SIGMA NU

The other day some roustabout suggested to me that we change the name of Sigma Nu. "What!", said I, "Change the name of Sigma Nu? Why, that would be comparing the sweet strains of Mozart to the crude mouthings of a brawling Fiji! That would be like comparing the fearful might of brotherhood to the sniveling punity of a sterile Beta! Why, that would be like comparing Cleopatra in all her loveliness to the stark repugnance of a Phi Psi date! Flash on the Phi Kap lawn!! Scorn the smile of a Homecoming Queen!! Thumb your nose at a Campus Cop! But would we change the name of Sigma Nu? Not by a crockful of Scotsburgers!"

SIGMA PI

After the student riot known as Registration, Sigma Pi kicked off football season with a few after-game spirit parties, winding up the season with their grossly infamous Pajamarino. A last minute fade caused it to run with but one band, leaving those in the far corners to find other ways of spending their time. Following reconstruction, was a Pledge-Active Surfer, serving to reorientate the brotherhood to the quiet life. After everyone had "kicked in (for) the kids" at Mardi Gras, things ran to a close with the Orchid Ball in a Del Mar setting. A '64 projected projects list includes an orbited exchange.

Founder's Day brought back Alumni to renew memories.

Brothers were sometimes bothered by afternoon sun until SC graciously lent their victory banner for a shade.

In the late hours of exchanges, some found difficulty in standing, much less dancing.

The Tau Delta Phi Luau Party got the year off to a fiery start when the volcano erupted, but the brothers recovered in time to clear the wreckage and install mattresses for the P.J. Party. Meanwhile, the audience at the Soap Box Derby fell into uncontrollable spasms of laughter as the Tau Delt entry placed in what might be termed as "dead last." Homecoming brought the house another trophy as their float rolled down the boulevard in a hail of noise. In Mardi Gras, several ambitious brothers ran the only free booth; it just sat there and did nothing. Easter found most members in Palm Springs, their exit timed to the cops arrival.

Replacing "Sir Bernard Studley," Robert See led the Theta Delt through the year. Socially, the fall term was highlighted by the Winter Formal at the Beverly Hilton, the infamous Pajamarino, and Homecoming with Gamma Phi. Activities in the Spring included exchanges with the Gamma Phi's, the Chi O's, an overnight in San Diego, TGIF beer parties, and the annual Virgin Islands party. As ASUCLA President, Gerry Corrigan led campus representation. Other BMOCs included Dick Underwood, Dublin Ball Chairman; Bob Weeks, IFC Secretary; Sal DiMarco, president of the Young Republicans. In spite of politics, Theta Delta Chi members somehow managed to attain a pinnacle in grade point scores, and amass a fine record of accomplishment.

THETA XI

When Theta Xis gather for Thursday night meetings at the Bowling Alley, discussion and conversation are apt to vary a little. Among topics are a profound abundance of 3.0 grades, and such social events as the Pajamarino, the Luau, and the now infamous Roman Orgy, but ramblings are most likely to turn to sporting events. Theta Xi boasts an abnormal amount of indoor athletic enthusiasts, for most of the brothers are shrewd card sharks. No friends of economics, languages, or even family living, the Xis propose fundamental classes in bridge, poker, and casino; of course, cards are not the only indoor sport, are they Leo?

Theta Xi teamed with Alpha Delta Pi to capture Mardi Gras honors with their annual "Bowery" production.

Triangle spearheaded the semesters with a 23 man pledge class and highlighted its activities with a pajama party and their own mysterious version of an underground "coke fest". Under the questionably able leadership of President Bob Hess, the house participated in the usual turmoil of mixed studying and other ramifications as an excuse for staying in school. In sports the brotherhood aced out to tie for first place in intramural wrestling, while the less athletic devoted their time, talents, and enthusiasm to Mardi Gras and Greek Week, with campus politics consuming a proportionate amount of time. In the more academic pursuits, Triangle again managed to place its engineering talents in good stead to acquire campus scholarship honor.

Specialists in just about everything, and experts in almost nothing, Zeta Beta Tau brothers were forced to rely on the inefficiency of chaperones to develop their own proficiency. Outstanding as good sports in defeat, but regarding it basically better to win, the brothers limited their list of championships to All-U football, held down their GPA to number one on the row, and achieved a minor position of popularity among the more naive sorority girls. Looking at the social side, the bros saved coins by creating their own two-piece orchestra, but balanced their frugality by using gross quantities of petrol in the drive to little known, but isolated, Highland Springs, site of another insidious and ribald Spring Weekender.

With a few applications of their secret formula (nothing succeeds like excess) and aided by mammoth Zeta-size portions of a special secret ingredient (Brother Coors' finest) the Zetes this year brewed up a mighty big batch of collegiate success: athletically (jocks everywhere), socially (incomparably intemperate), scholastically (amazing high GPA!). In between nabbing 1st place for Homecoming's Most Beautiful Float and winning the All-U coed softball championship, the dauntless Zetes were awarded a little social pro for good measure. Included among the bros was famed cartoonist, Tony Auth, whose work has appeared in such inauspicious opuscles as Satyr and the Daily Bruin.

Vivacious and charming young maidens have always characterized Zete Little Sisters.

Phi Epsilon's Pi's Homecoming contribution proved the work worthwhile.

Casual discussion is often a fine means of problem solving.

Starting out the fall semester right, UCLA's newest fraternity, Phi Epsilon Pi, moved its brotherhood to the oldest fraternity house on campus. Inspired by the largest pledge class in Phi Ep history, brothers went on to capture second place in Homecoming, promote a successful "Ugly Man" candidate, and maintain the highest grade point average at UCLA (3.0). With their rafter-raising New Year's Eve Party as the criterion of accomplishment, the Phi Epsilon Pi men look forward to even more productive future semesters.

THETA CHI

For the brothers of Theta Chi, setting records is a simple matter of course. Of the standards to meet displacement in 1963 were the seemingly unmatchable "Most men in a desk drawer" and "Fewest men studying at a single time" championship. Theta Chi managed to better previous marks and a myriad more in their battle to eliminate evils of life. Non-participants, however, took a dim view of the proceedings and relied on more profound measures of accomplishment.

Interior activities of Theta Chi include the intellectual exercise of bridge.

Fall semester often heard the halls of Browning House ringing with the strange sounds of girls trying new approaches to the age old "study break." Impromptu lessons in the Watusi and Hora occurred in many girls' rooms. Surprise study breaks took place in the lounge . . . only girls in baggy pajamas, curlers, and no make-up allowed. ## SPROUL HALL

Overlooking the entire campus, four story Sproul Hall does not provide the proverbial gracious living. However it does feed and house 800 students reasonably comfortably, offers them a chance for a well-rounded social life, and provides a semblance of self-government. On campus housing plays an important role in integrating the freshman student in campus life, for life in a dormitory places the student in 24 hour communication with the campus community. If not always a positive force, the "dormie" at least does not feed off and parasitically drain university vitality. Sproul Hall is one of the few collegiate dormitories in the country that offers co-ed housing; this unusual living arrangement offers unsurpassed opportunities, to say the least.

The Sproul Hall assembly gives Sproulites an opportunity to have a voice in the administration of their nine month home.

Sprout lounges offer fertile ground to aggressive hustlers.

Sparkling cuisine and brilliant dinner conversation make a Sprout Hall meal an unforgettable experience.

INTRAMURALS

While intramural sports are often looked to as the prime measure of group ability, their real value lies in individual leadership effort, for the competition involves both team sports and singular efforts each relying on top performance by every man involved. All-University champs in every sport are well respected, for it takes not only athletic prowess, but a good attitude.

Cross Country starts suddenly and, for many, ends quickly. By finish time, all but a few will have faded.

AMATEUR ACES

One of the most hotly contested sports, basketball drew top JC and high school players for intramural squads.

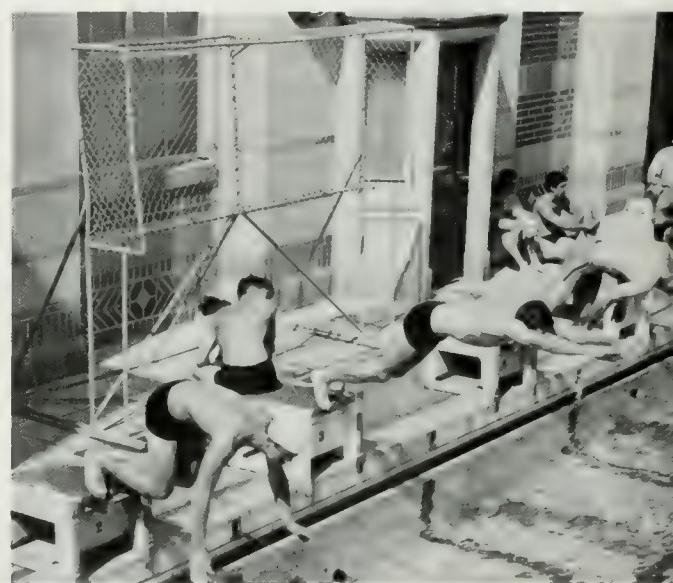

Although not a big crowd attracter, tracksters faithfully trained for intramurals.

A very esoteric sport, putting the shot still found avid devotees.

In UCLA's "Olympic Stadium," intramural wrestling evoked groans from all participants.

Balmy weather drew Southern California swimmers to intramurals.

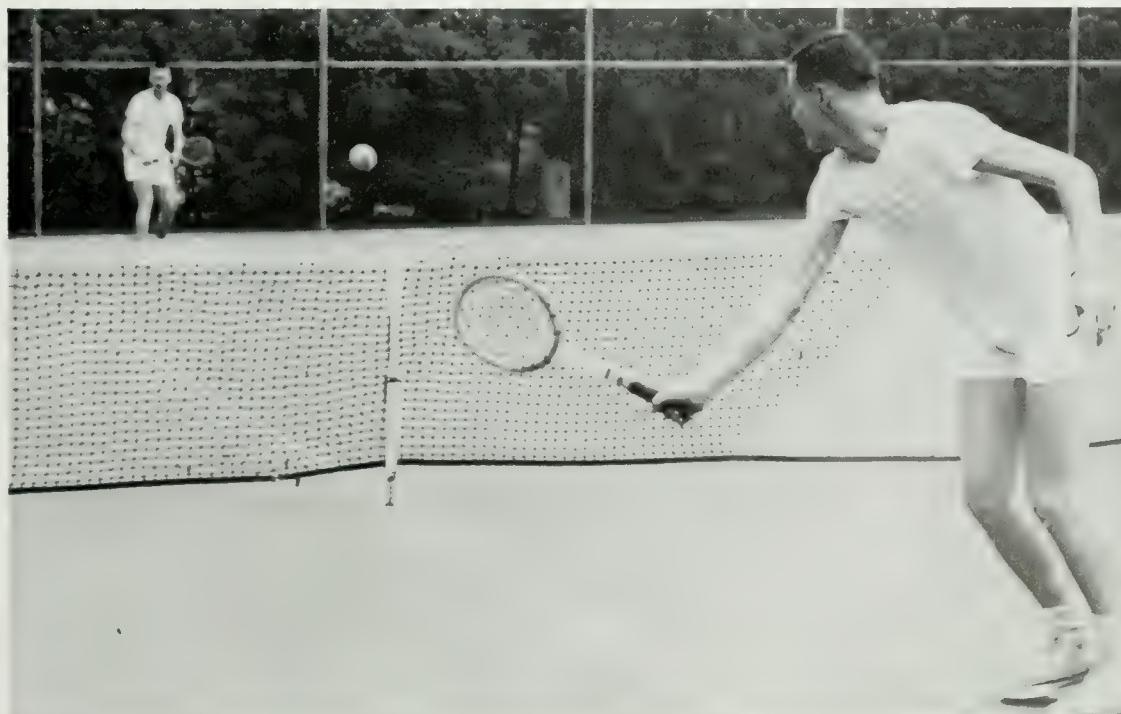

One of the final spring sports, softball often decides the All-U intramural winners.

Surfers utilized their unique talents in intramural volleyball.

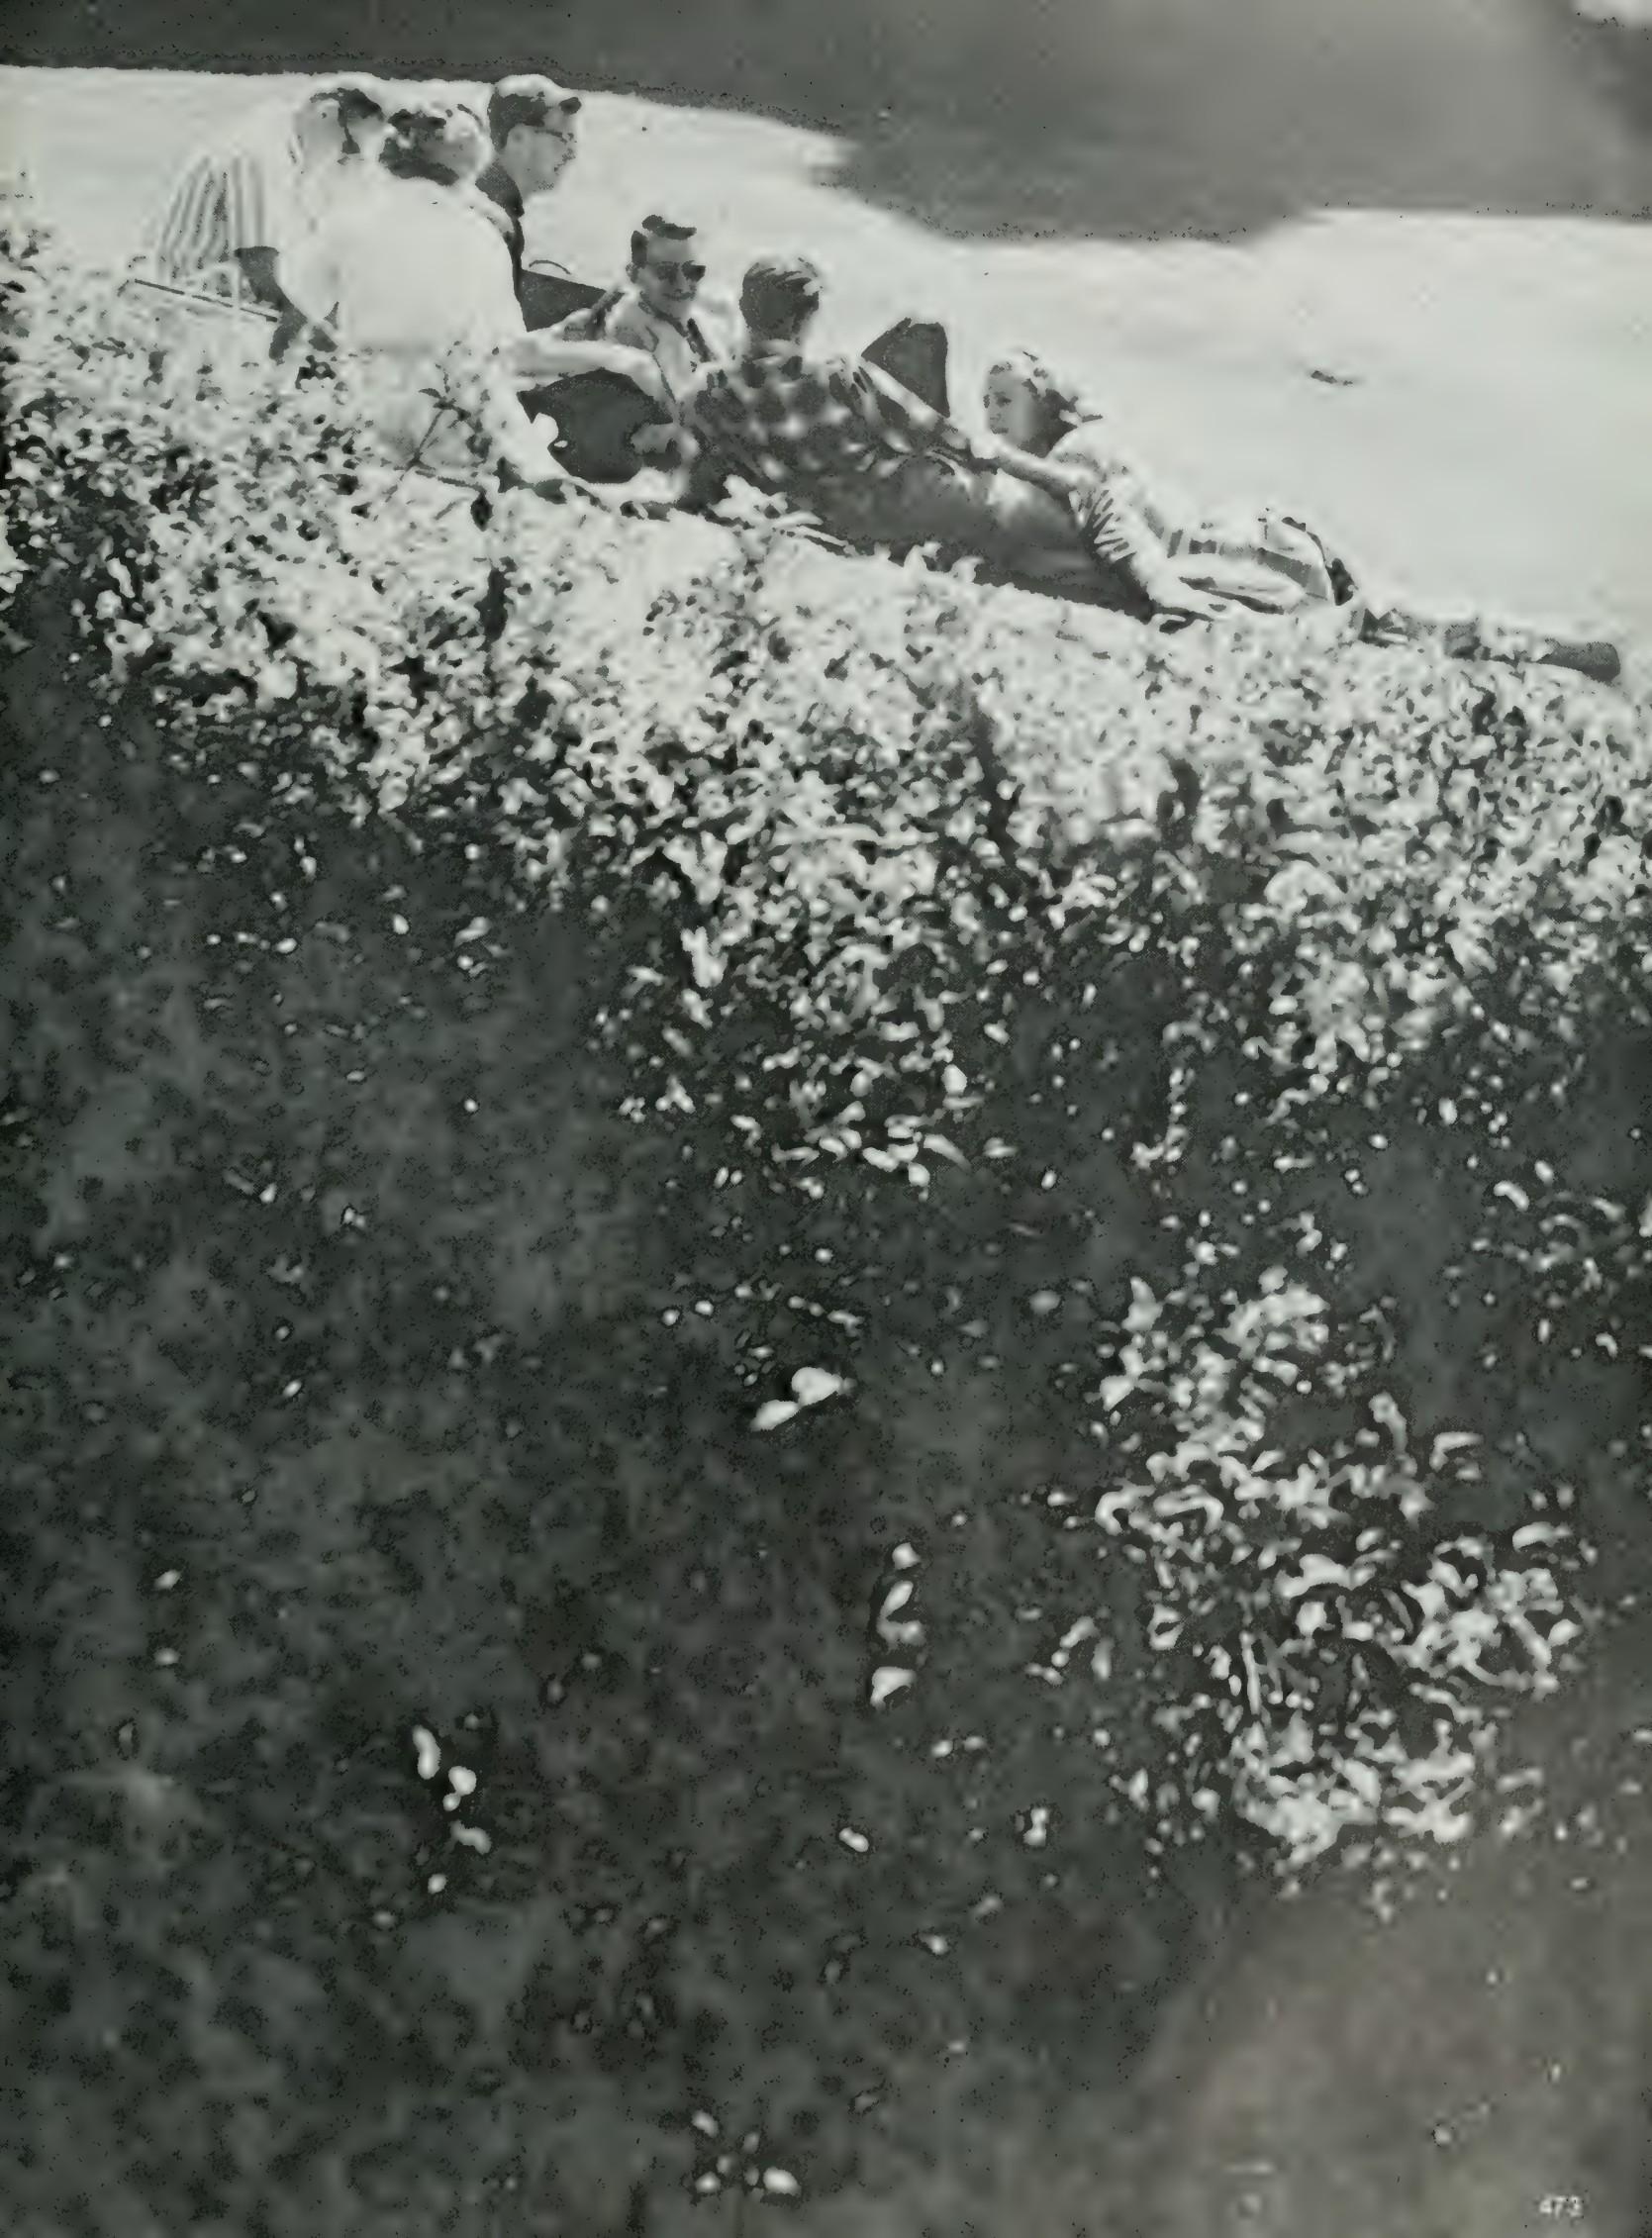

Amused spectators find unusual enjoyment in intramural bowling.

Aspiring Davis Cup players found that wearing basketball shoes gives added support to tennis performance.

Chancellor FRANK MURPHY finally made his much delayed speech to the students.

STATE OF THE UNIVERSITY . . .

After his speech, MURPHY talks with students, further expounding and clarifying his views.

A past district governor of Rotary presided.

Chancellor MURPHY spoke to Rotarians.

Over 500 students visited the UCLA campus as part of the annual Visiting International Student Activities student assembly. VISA, sponsored by the Rotary Club, provides the warmth and friendship of an American home and family for young visiting foreign students. Nguyen Luong Thien was the student chairman of the event.

VISA DAY

Talented foreign students entertained the visiting Rotarians in the style of their native country.

Balinese drummer provided exotic Asian rhythms.

Looking forward to Provo, exuberant Bruins add a personal touch to their bus.

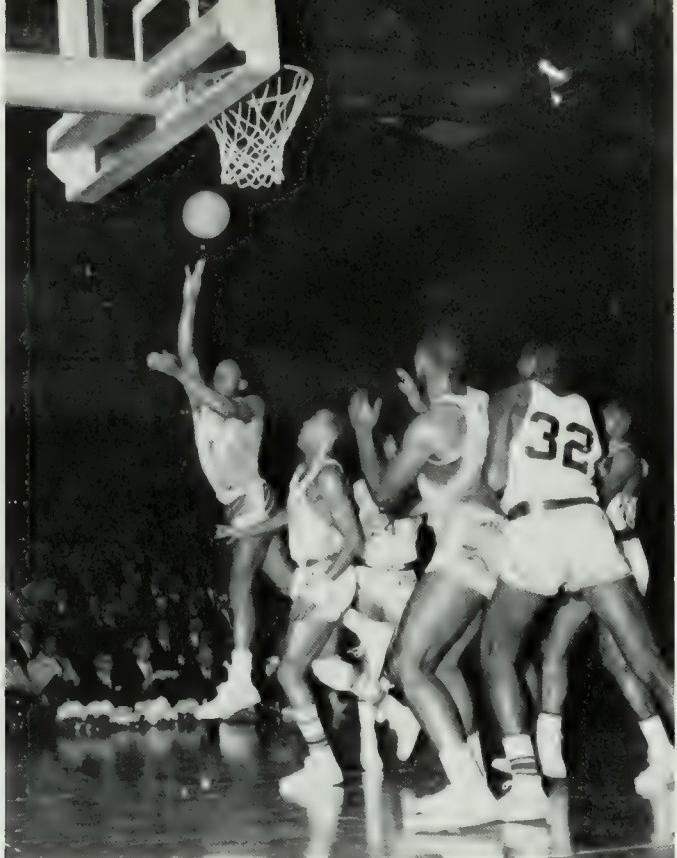

Bruins found that snow and ice required more than mere tennies and sweaters.

PROVO . . . THE SECOND TIME AROUND

For the second year in a row Bruins made the 1500 mile trek to Provo in search of another basketball championship. The basketball team flew, others went by charter bus, and still others squeezed into tiny Volkswagens to follow and cheer our zealous team. Tennis shoes and light jackets were hard put to cope with the frigid climate and so, also, was our Bruin team as they met taller, stronger, better shooting Arizona State. Dismayed Bruins discovered the illusory nature of greatness, seeing that which was violently fought for and achieved can be suddenly lost.

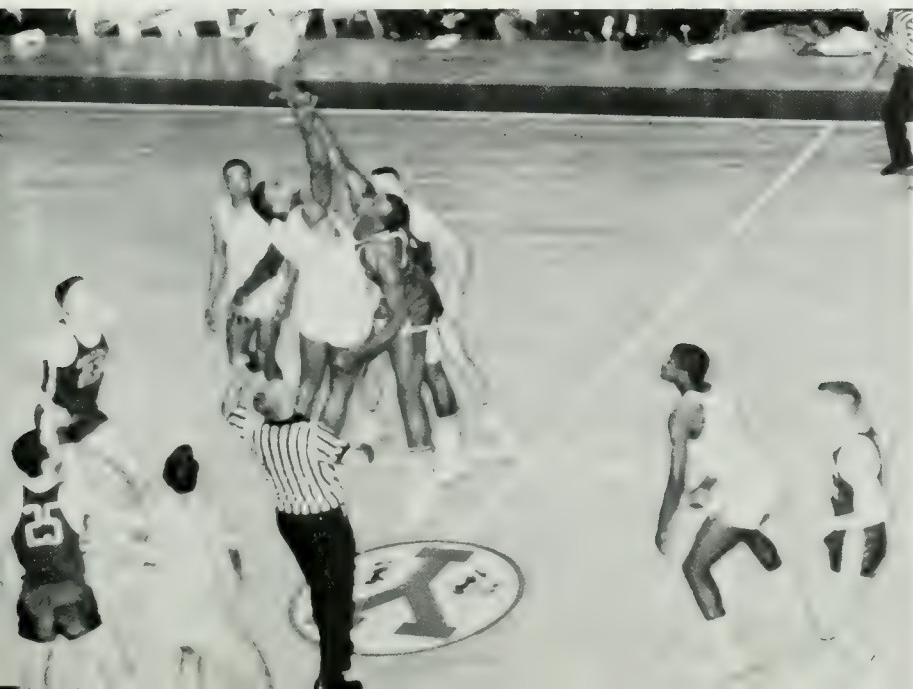

Baskets were easier to come by in the second game against USF.

Bruins fight with Arizona State for rebound in an aggressive yet futile game.

The played out Bruins could not beat USF in the second game.

In the annual Kelp production highlighted by emigrants of El Monte Legion Stadium, the foundlings of Uni-Camp send their seniors to discover the benefits of contemporary culture. Though music is intended to be the mainstay, not all the fine performances are on the stage, with 1963's fine rendition being no exception.

KELP ROCK & ROLL

Some of the more inquisitive came to ponder, others to derogate.

LIPCHITZ EXHIBIT

Flown in from New York and lifted into place with the assistance of a mammoth crane, the modern creations of sculptor Jacques Lipchitz found a resting place in the Dickson Art Court. Lipchitz, a creator of metal inspirations of the intellect, compliments his choice of varied themes with equal liberty of form and size. Universal in the display was that element intrinsic to the majority of modern art—a style which evokes a varied set of compliments, questions, or defamation.

Purchased by UCLA for 75,000 dollars was massive "Song of the Vowels."

CHRISTY MINSTRELS AND ANDY WILLIAMS

Spring Drive for Uni-Camp found its budget well furnished by a charitable New Christy Minstrel songfest. As a brainstorm of Chairman Bobby Kay, locals were also treated to the guest appearance of songster Andy Williams, who gave added incentive to applause with a not so solo vocal performance.

THE MONOLITH OF MARDI GRAS . . .

Almost an entire year spent planning and organizing, arranging for publicity, contacting entertainers, and a total expenditure of 12 reams of carbon paper, 3,679 paper clips, 89 thumb tacks. Result: one day and two nights of delirious, tumultuous chaos. Having little in common with its namesake, Mardi Gras provided entertainment ranging from Bud Shank and the Tijuana Brass to Monty Montana and the Oscar Meyer Weinermobile. Billing Mardi Gras as the "World's Largest Collegiate Activity," veteran chairman Terry Vavra raked in $43,000, the largest sum yet, enabling Uni-Camp to send 1,230 "hoods to the woods."

Friday, TEDDY BUCKNER played his Dixieland.

Mardi Gras was brought to life on KLAC.

A stand-in played the role for Mardi Gras King ANDY DIVINE.

Mardi Gras sought and received publicity.

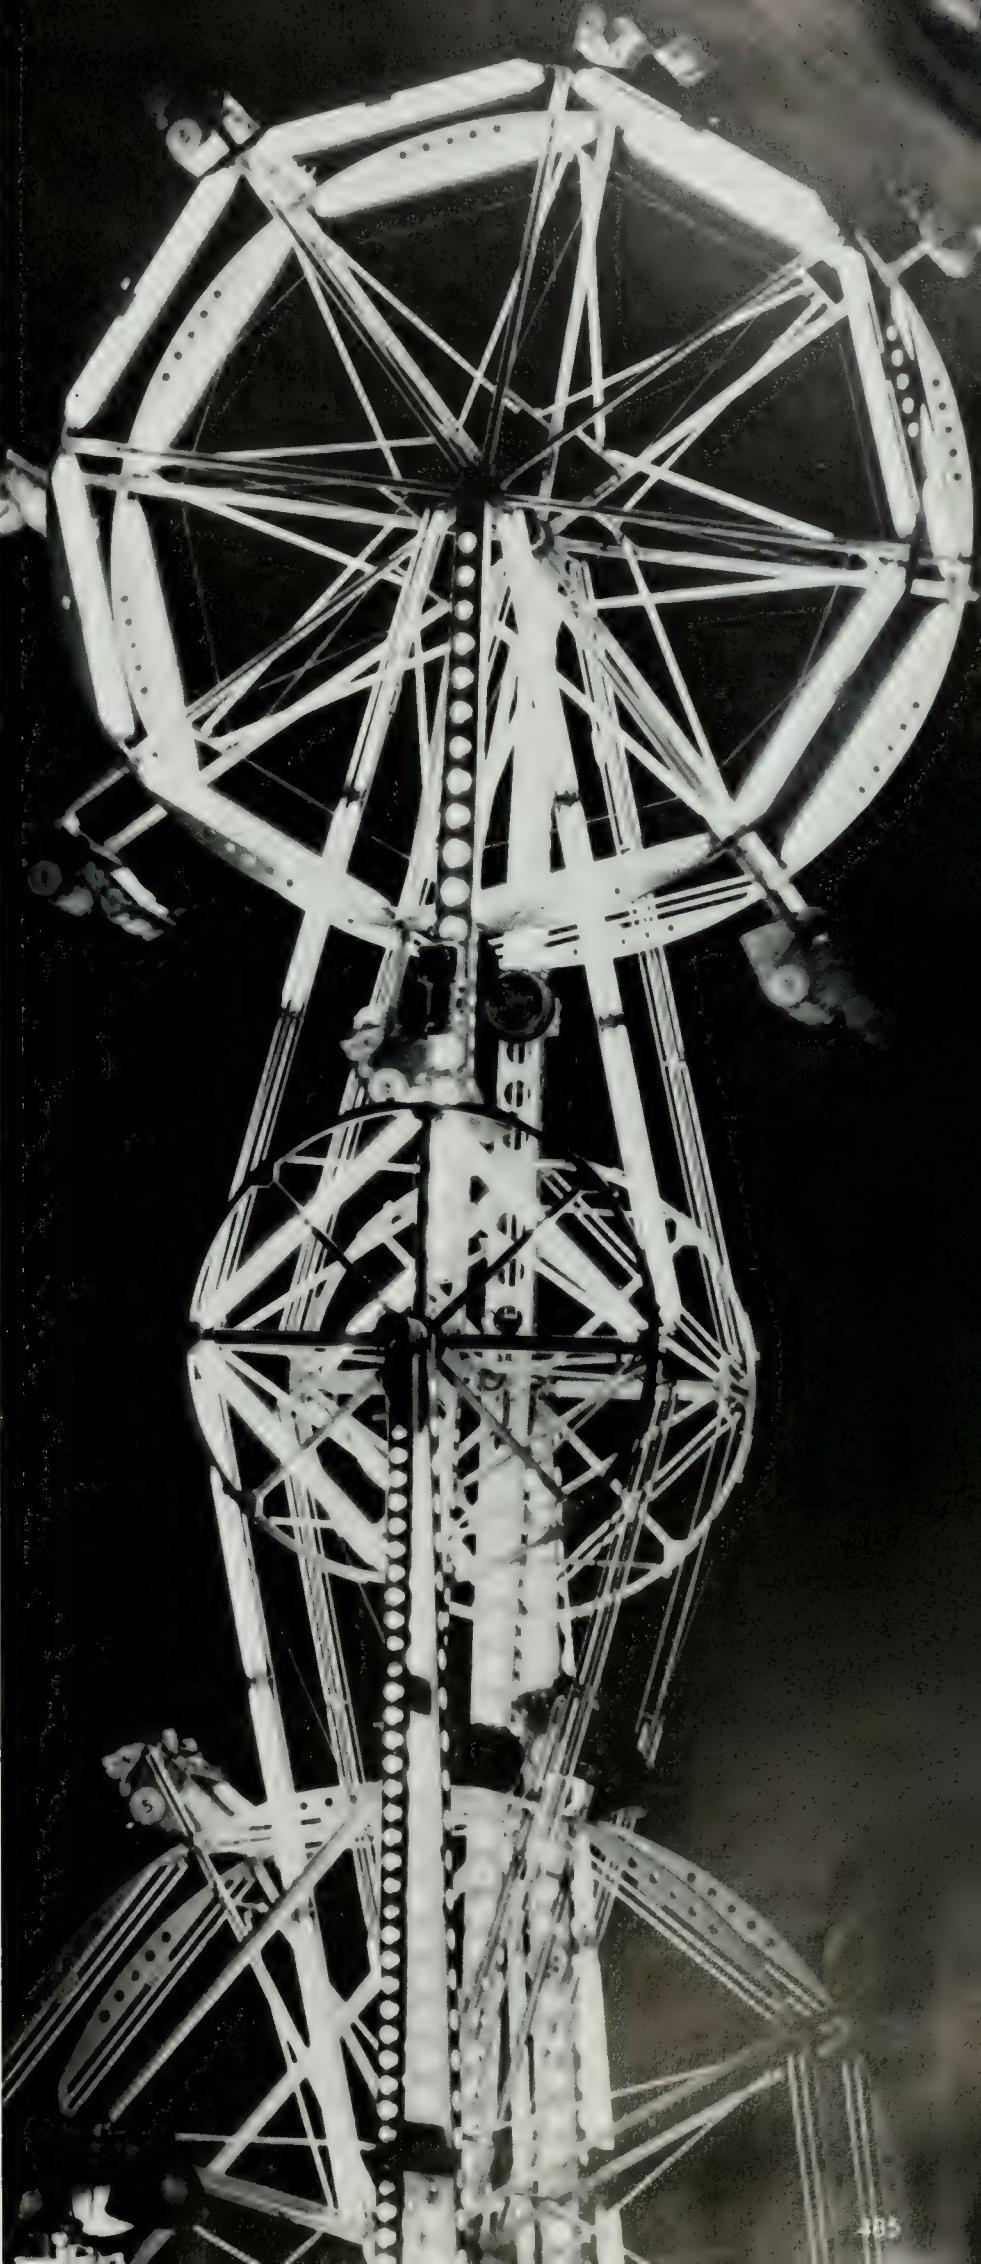

Mardi Gras Queen SHERI McELHANY.

Student's security quests were obvious at a Panda booth.

The popular Bowery Show added a Rabelaisian touch to Mardi Gras.

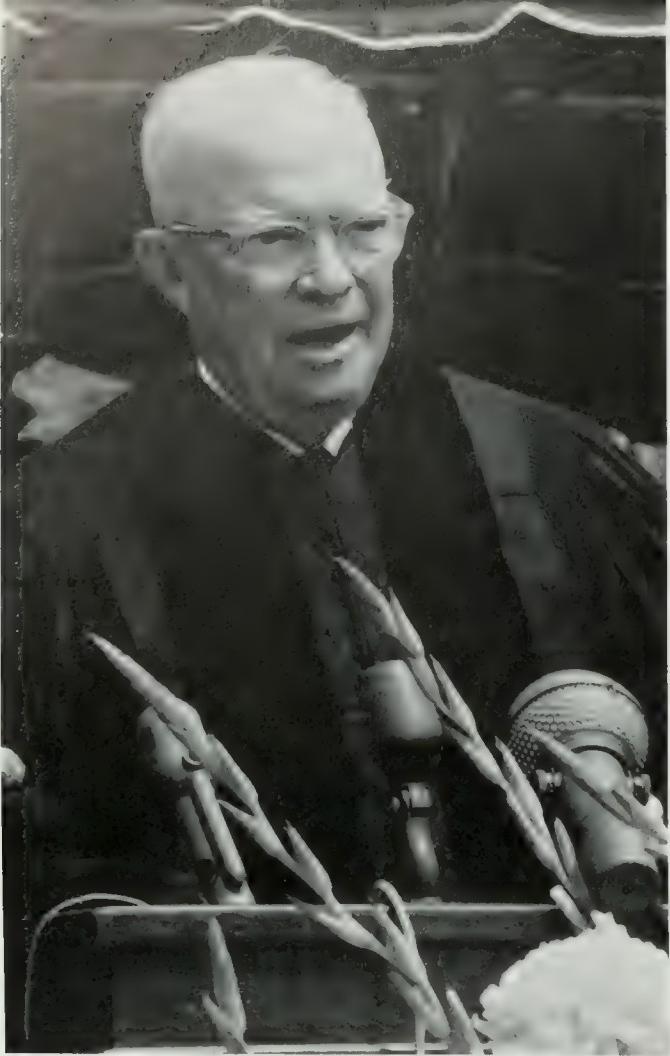

MONTY MONTANA provided thrills for kiddies.

CHARTER DAY

Charter Day annually marks the birthday of UCLA. Classes are dismissed so that the proud students can watch the colorful faculty procession in full academic regalia and so all may have an opportunity to hear speakers of the caliber of Carl Sandberg and ex-president Eisenhower. Workmen spent two days setting up the chairs and bleachers that were filled early by the thousands who flocked to hear General Eisenhower draw from his vast background and expound upon the views now familiar to most Americans.

General EISENHOWER re-enunciated his sound economic theory.

KERR receives note . . . EISENHOWER receives congratulations.

National chairman of People to People, IKE presented UCLA's charter.

The faculty, resplendent in their academic robes, offered a colorful procession.

Voters had an opportunity to peruse platforms in the Bruin.

ASUCLA ELECTIONS

Campus politicians assiduously sharpened their axes as Spring elections rolled around. Hopes soared as students began to look optimistically forward to political glory and were dashed as election results wavered and fluctuated on a few invalidated ballots. To some campus elections held great import upon which the fate of student government rode; to others elections were a nuisance forcing them up Janss instead of Elections Walk.

A ballot is a prime requisite to selective voting.

An empty booth is then necessary for selection.

Ballot now marked, it is deposited for final tally.

Hustling student politicians constantly harassed the bewildered, often angry pedestrian on Elections Walk.

1963 SPRING SING AT THE BOWL

Taking its inspiration from the traditional fraternity serenade, the idea of a collegiate sing has since advanced immeasurably from its relatively small beginnings. From the answering of the initial fraternal challenges, and the first championship of Phi Kappa Psi, Spring Sing of UCLA has grown into a nationally recognized event of formal competition, and has been the model for colleges across the nation. Under the direction of 1963 Chairman Bill Marks, a committee of twenty-two people are responsible for present organization of the production. Under the management of this committee, some twenty-seven groups made their way past the prelims obstacle onto the stage of the Hollywood Bowl, and from these groups, in competition against eight other divisions, Alpha Tau Omega and Alpha Epsilon Phi combined in Mixed Division to cop 1963 Sing Sweepstakes with their "Little One."

Talented actor Fred MacMurray handled introductions.

Master of Ceremonies FRED MacMURRAY sent the Sweepstakes trophy off with a round of applause.

MacMurray and Venables exchange appreciation.

PAY OFF OF TIME AND TALENT

Michael McDuff handled the songleader's duties in leading ATO and AEPhi to Sweepstakes victory.

Zeta Beta Tau and Delta Delta Delta put together a first place number in the Novelty Division.

An outstanding choral arrangement by the Gold Key Choir earned them the mammoth Frank Bull Award.

Alpha Kappa Alpha was the winner in the non-collegiate sector of popular Women's Chorus division.

The "College Credo" of Phi Delta Theta brought them a first place in the Men's Chorus Division.

The Spinal Chords grabbed off a first in Men's Quartet with a spontaneous "Rigoletto."

Always drawing on the greats of the musical industry, Spring Sing can again boast of quality judges. It is perhaps the local and even national recognition of Spring Sing that is the main attraction, but many, if not all, of the 1963 judges can also be judged to be "Friends of UCLA." Credits for the work of 1963 go to Les Baxter, Elmer Bernstein, Ray Connif, Percy Faith, Shorty Rogers, Nathan Scott, Dmitri Tiomkin, Roger Wagner, and Tommy Walker. These talented people receive the sincere appreciation of the Sing Committee, and all of UCLA.

Hershey Hall took first place in Women's Chorus, Collegiate.

Alpha Phi won the Women's Quartet for a second straight year.

Alpha Chi Omega stole a first place in Instrumental Division.

ONLY THE BARE BEGINNING

To some who feel they have beaten the system and fooled the university, graduation is a moment of triumph. To others it simply means that they will be able to earn $2000 more a year. To the very few who realize that it is only the beginning of their education, it is an intellectual stepping stone. To the parents who gather to watch their children graduate, it is a moment of pride and, also, one of relief. To all, however, graduation is a reality, a symbolic justification for the purposes of university life.

To many students graduation is the only time they will have contact with the President of the university.

President CLARK KERR offers his congratulations to the inspiring commencement speaker.

Chancellor Murphy addresses graduating students.

For creating "not a better mousetrap but a better mouse" DR. CLARK KERR conferred an honorary doctorate upon WALT DISNEY.

DR. STAFFORD WARREN, founder of the UCLA Medical School and now a Presidential advisor, received an honorary degree.

JUNE GRADUATION

Flipping their lids, graduates of the Med School tossed mortarboards high as the moment of truth and a degree finally arrived.

With 4,137 awaiting their degrees, the '63 graduation procession moved quickly across the Quad in a farewell salute to Alma Mater.

FINAL FAREWELL

It was all over but the shouting . . . the last blue book had been filled, the dust was beginning to settle on the used textbooks of those years that will not soon be forgotten. Memories now would fill the void of the campus whirl. Hours in the Coop, Daily Bruins, noon chimes, rock 'n roll, term papers written in two hours, dorm debates, fraternity and sorority socializing stopped with graduation. The parcoa gate whirred its final familiar sound for the commuter. For the senior, it all seemed so sudden—was it only four years ago (or six if he changed his major) that he had been confronted with his first registration and line up for classes? Where did those years go? Then he remembered . . . they had passed in pursuit of knowledge that he hoped had prepared him for the future. He didn't have all the answers, but he was proud of one thing—a UCLA degree.

THANK ME?
WELL,
THANK YOU!

A creative task offers one the opportunity to show what he can do; it also makes possible the embarrassment of what one cannot do. The 1963 Southern Campus has made an effort to peruse the present and future transitions of the university, and this, at best, is difficult. In parts, we have been successful even beyond our own expectations, but in others we may be accused of dismal failure. The final appraisal belongs not to us, but to the readers of the book, some of whom will only glance at the pictures in hope of finding themselves. There will also be the readers, however, who will examine and disassemble, and then reconstruct. It is these people that we have tried to please. There are, of course, the normal errors for which we can make no apology, we ask only indulgence and forgiveness. Regardless of the final outcome, and whatever its value, this is not a one man effort. It is predicated upon the work of many people. The list of these people is indeed too long to give in entirety, but my special thanks must go to Jensen, Wilcox, Travis, Carter, Yutani, Morris, and Morris. Jaskiewicz, Pena, Rolf, Troutman, Spickler, Protheroe, Gilbert, Brutuacao, and Eckert cannot go without mention. Finally, a wealth of appreciation must be given to the Lizard, the Beaver, and our Editorial Assistant, Busch Bavarian. And so, as the rasp of the Sarma Bird greets the other bird and Maas finally completes his paper: Goodbye from the Deacon. Adios, My Friends.
